General Electric Wonders. Henry Ford's Steam Giant. Pink, Patient Girls. Russia's Great Water Wheels.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

SCHENECTADY, Oct. 3.

PART of seeing America first should include a visit to the General Electric plant in this city.

The manufacturing establishment, employing about 20,000 men and women, will increase your interest in human beings, and the work they do.

AN hour in the research laboratory will make you forget all about ordinary human beings in your admiration of scientific power.

TALK with Dr. Coolidge, Dr. Langmuir, and Mr. Alexanderson, of that scientific laboratory, and you will know how Job felt after his conversation with the Almighty.

Like him, you will lay your hand upon your mouth, determined to talk no more, only listen.

IT was comparatively easy for Job, at least he could understand what was said to him, "hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow, or has thou seen the treasures of hail?

"Canst thou guide Arcturus with his sons? Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion?"

DR. W. D. COOLIDGE tells you that the bright, white flame used in certain welding is obtained by breaking down the molecule of hydrogen, which is H-2, before you break it down. After the breaking it is H plus H, meaning that one hydrogen molecule contains two hydrogen atoms.

AFTER you have torn them apart, by use of high temperature, one atom rushes toward the other, like a frantic calf separated from its mother, and the hydrogen molecule is reformed. That rush produces the intense white heat that will fuse any metal, even aluminum, which can not be fused otherwise.

THAT heat is used, among other purposes, to cover with a fine layer of melted copper certain parts of an electric refrigerator. That seems humble work for a torn-apart molecule, like putting Hercules to dry dishes.

BUT that is the finest thing about the laboratory. Its learned men devote their time to pure science, and the result is made useful to millions of human beings.

You, perhaps, cannot digest the quantum theory; figure out ergs, measure space in parsecs, or think in the fourth dimension. But you can digest food, protected by perfect refrigeration.

TEARING the hydrogen atom away from its brother, two little families of electrons, cruelly separated, with their positive and negative electric charges outraged, means utilizing the power locked up in the molecule.

WHEN science goes farther, tearing the atom apart, using the force that unites the electrons in their little solar system, Niagara's power will be out of date. You can hold between thumb and forefinger atoms enough to transport you to China, or the moon, if you could use the cohesive power of their electrons.

DR. COOLIDGE invented that method of producing intense heat, by separation of the atoms. But he does not tell you so. He and his associates, Dr. Irving Langmuir and Dr. Whitney, chief of the laboratory, talk as impersonally as though the wonders about them created themselves, and they had nothing to do with it. Science and modesty are twins.

DR. LANGMUIR, who invented the use of gas in electric light bulbs, greatly augmenting efficiency, in place of the old and necessarily incomplete vacuum, shows you how simply you may obtain "one one-hundred-millionth part of an atmosphere," which is sufficiently near a vacuum.

He adds: "Even then there are millions of molecules of gas in every cubic inch," and you wonder how small the very small things really are.

IF you doubt the reality of radio-acity, the bombardment of space by electronic bullets, fired from atoms breaking down, visit that laboratory. You may see substances of various kinds, crystals, salts, ore, subjected to bombardment, in the darkness, flaming with mysterious colors and retaining their brilliance for hours afterward.

AND by arrangement with electric wires, you may actually count and hear the electrons discharged from a tiny speck of radium, enclosed in lead an inch thick in all directions.

A rifle bullet could not penetrate that lead. But the electrons, of which 1,000 millions would not be noticed in the corner of your eye, go through the lead and on into space. It might be explained that the radio electrons pass unobstructed through the electrons in other atoms as a dancer goes through a crowded ball room. But why give anybody a headache?

CARRY this interesting fact with you. The radium now bombarding space will become lead in time, when its radio-active power is exhausted.

Lead was once radium. But do not watch to see the change. It requires about five thousand million years.

NEAR the laboratory, young ladies work scientifically, in the manufacturing department, with fine gauges, testing to within one five-thousandth part of an inch various small pieces of machinery.

THEY wear pink dresses, fancy shoes, shiny silk stockings, permanent waves, no sleeves, nice

County Commissioner Refuses To Sign Certificate of Election; 'Fraud' Charged

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern announced today that he would refuse to sign the certificate of election which is necessary to give official tone to the recent primary result.

"Because," McGovern explained, "fraudulent assessments were interwoven in the conduct of the election, I will not sign the certificate which requires the signatures of the three County Commissioners."

McGovern's announcement followed completion of the official count in the primary contests. The count shows that Mayor Kline's plurality over Judge Richard W. Martin was 25,972. Councilman James F. Malone, third, trailed Martin by 1,482 votes.

MAY MEAN COURT ACTION

McGovern's stand probably will mean court action seeking to compel him to sign the certificate or produce evidence of his charges. It was recalled that Gifford Pinchot, when Governor of Pennsylvania, at first refused to sign Senator-elect Vare's certificate of election but finally signed a qualified certificate, which said, in effect, "It appears that Vare has been elected."

(The detailed report of the official count of the vote is printed on Page 12.)

COAL POLICE ON TRIAL OCT. 14

The three coal and iron policemen aquitted of murder last week in the beating to death of John Borkowski, Tyre miner, will go on trial for involuntary manslaughter a week from Monday, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner said today.

Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, who prosecuted the murder case, will represent the commonwealth again, the district attorney announced, but it is not known whether Judge James H. Gray will preside at the trial again or not. Judge Gray will sit in Criminal court that week, it was revealed.

The three defendants, Walter J. Lyster, Harold P. Watts and Frank Slapikas, will be represented by Attorneys Charles B. Prichard and Edward G. Coll. Attorney Coll represents Watts and Prichard is counsel for both Slapikas and Lyster.

Slapikas and Watts still are in jail, having been unable to raise $5,000 bail each for their release.

These two, it is believed, will elect to remain in jail until after the manslaughter trial because of inflamed public opinion.

500 TONS OF ROCK AND EARTH AFTER SLIDE TODAY INTO EAST OHIO STREET

LANDSLIDE TIES UP TRAFFIC

Pittsburgh's recovery from a 30-hour rain and wind storm which cost one life and threatened to flood the city was delayed today when 500 tons of earth and rock swooped into East Ohio street a short distance east of Walker's Bridge.

From the Troy Hill precipice hundreds of tons of earth and big boulders piled into the street, snapping off poles and trolley wires and blocking traffic.

The landslide carried along with it a flight of steps being built along the hillside.

NO ONE IN SLIDE PATH

RAINFALL IN PITTSBURGH

Hold this paper vertically and measure for yourself the depth rain water would have attained since Tuesday. Three inches of water in the tub is almost enough for your bath!

WIRE ACCIDENT HALTS NEWS

Telegraph service to brokers and newspapers of Pittsburgh was hampered today—but not by the rainstorm.

An underground cable at the site of the Bell Telephone Company annex in Seventh avenue was split by workmen engaged on the foundation work. The cable is part of a main trunk line of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Virtually every brokerage in the city was affected, quotations on the New York Curb market being delayed. News telegraph printing machines carrying reports of national events in Pittsburgh and "tickers" were silent several hours.

Coast Recovering From Storm Damage

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—The North Atlantic coast was recovering today from the effects of a northeast wind and rainstorm which battered it from Maine to the Delaware Capes. Three deaths in New Jersey and one in Pennsylvania were attributed to the storm. The wind, rain and high tides combined to disrupt coastwise and harbor traffic, hamper urban transportation and damage exposed resort property.

NORRIS URGED TO LEAD LOBBY INQUIRY

Whole Army of Favor Seekers Will Come Under Scope Of Senate's Investigation

By JOHN A. KENNEDY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Senator George W. Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, veteran insurgent leader and chairman of the powerful judiciary committee, probably will take command of the Senate's investigation of Washington's lobbying racketeers.

The investigation was ordered by the Senate as a result of the Hearst newspapers' lobby expose. It will be conducted by a sub-committee of the Senate judiciary committee.

Actual preparations for the inquiry, which it is expected will be the most far-reaching ever held in the capital, will get under way next Monday when the judiciary committee will hold a meeting to map its plans.

At that time it is expected that Senator Norris will announce the names of the sub-committee.

URGED TO TAKE CHARGE

Although the Nebraskan is reluctant to take over the chairmanship of the probe it is thought that he will accede to the entreaties of

The Hearst Papers Do Not Need Shearer to Present Facts to Congress

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—The following statement was given out last night by Mr. William Randolph Hearst:

The editor of the New York American employed Mr. Shearer AMONG MANY OTHERS to write articles on the League of Nations and the World Court, and also to help in organizing whatever opposition there might be to the League of Nations and the World Court into a public petition to Congress.

The editor had no knowledge that Mr. Shearer was or ever had been in the pay of shipbuilding corporations—no more knowledge of this fact than Congress had at that time, or than the Republican managers had when they employed him to make speeches for the Republican party.

A newspaper has no use for lobbyists. The methods of newspaper procedure are obviously diametrically opposed to lobbying. There is no secret in journalistic processes. In fact, what is sought by newspapers is NOT SECRECY BUT THE UTMOST PUBLICITY.

The established method of the Hearst newspapers of presenting facts to Congress by means of the public prints and public petition is not merely entirely within law and ethics and in accordance with accepted usage, but is more than that,

IT IS ENTIRELY WITHIN AND ACCORDING TO CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS, rights guaranteed to the press and to the citizenship by the same instrument which creates the Senate and enables it to assemble and make laws and perform its functions.

The New York American therefore was proceeding under the highest law of the land and under the same authority under which the Senate exists and operates when an expression of public opinion was being sought by the New York American through petition and through publicity in the columns of a free press.

The New York American intended AND STILL INTENDS to present a popular petition to the Senate urging it to follow the injunction of George Washington, and keep this country free from foreign entanglements, such as the League of Nations and the World Court.

The Hearst papers adopted an exactly similar course in presenting to Congress a petition in favor of the soldiers' bonus and is now preparing an immense petition of citizens advocating a modification of our system of taxation in regard to earned incomes.

The Hearst papers advocate their policies with a publicity which reaches some 30,000,000 readers in this country. They have no occasion to use any other force or influence except the power of publicity. They believe that no other power is so wholesome, so effective, so Democratic, so essentially American in process and principle.

The Hearst papers have long demanded the abolition of lobbying and lobbyists at Washington AND HAVE AT LAST SECURED, THROUGH THE SENATE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE AN INVESTIGATION OF ALL LOBBYISTS which promises to be thorough and genuine and which may result in effective legislation to suppress this national disgrace and danger, and to make it a criminal offense for any person to attempt to influence any senator or congressman except through public appeal.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The following letter from Col. Frank Knox, general manager of the Hearst newspapers, dispensed with Mr. Shearer's services:

New York, Sept. 11, 1929.

Mr. W. B. Shearer,
45 Nassau Street,
New York City, N. Y.

My Dear Mr. Shearer:

In view of the fact that we were totally unaware of your financial arrangements with shipbuilding companies, under which you were paid a salary for certain propaganda work you were doing for them, and inasmuch as this arrangement of yours, which you now for the first time make public, obviously destroys your usefulness as a newspaper man associated with independent newspapers, we wish to notify you we do not wish to accept any further news articles or contributions from you for publication in the columns of our newspapers, or to continue your employment in any capacity in connection with our newspapers.

We would have been relieved of the necessity of taking this step if you had been frank enough to inform us in the beginning of your connection with shipbuilding firms.

Kindly acknowledge receipt of this letter.

Yours Very Truly,
FRANK KNOX,
General Manager.

GRID SQUAD TROUBLES BLAMED

Barring of Football Players, Cancellation of Games and Class Trip Given as Cause

Thirty students of Sharpsburg High School, all boys, went on strike today as a protest against the school authorities barring football players from the varsity squad and canceling school games.

The strikers, half of the male student body, did not attend classes this morning. They formed in a group near the school building and paraded through the borough with slogans such as "We Want Football," "We Want to Go to Washington."

GAME CANCELLED

According to the protesting students, the high school faculty yesterday declared most of the football team ineligible because of poor scholarship. This resulted in canceling the game scheduled for tomorrow with Sacred Heart High School.

"We'll play that game tomorrow without uniforms," declared Capt. Regis McGinty, one of the barred players.

While a group of the students were ranged for a photograph Supervising Principal J. J. Donovan walked to within 10 feet of the group and called out:

"If you boys are not back within 10 minutes, you will be indefinitely suspended."

Not a student moved.

Mrs. Nellie Cramer, a member of the school board, warned the students.

"Don't you boys pose for a photograph."

They ignored her request.

ACTRESS FACES PANTAGES

COURTROOM, LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—(INS.)—Accompanied by three guards, Eunice Pringle, young dancer, appeared in court here today to face Alexander Pantages, millionaire showman, whom she accuses of attacking her.

Smartly attired in a dark blue silk crepe dress, with pleated skirt, the dancer caused a stir in the crowded courtroom as she took her seat. She seemed bewildered as she surveyed the throng, which included many Hollywood film notables.

Among the spectators were Norma Shearer, Marceline Day and her mother, Mrs. Jack Conway, wife of a motion picture director, and her sister, Lenore Bushman, daughter of Francis X. Bushman, one-time matinee idol.

Pantages was tense when his accuser walked into court. He did not glance at the girl. Neither did she look toward him.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Now Out of Danger

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., was informed last night by physicians who have been attending his wife in a hospital here that she was "entirely out of danger," and that it would not be necessary to perform an operation.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was stricken with an attack of intestinal grippe last Sunday.

MACDONALD DUE TOMORROW, AWAITS NEW YORK WELCOME

SHIP ARRIVES OFF GOTHAM AT DAWN

Premier Will Stay Only Brief Time in Metropolis, Then Will Hurry to Capital

S. S. BERENGARIA, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—J. Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister, will arrive off New York, at dawn tomorrow, rested and keyed to what he hopes will be a visit in America far-reaching in its furtherance of Anglo-American amity

Six days aboard ship have done him, his daughter, Miss Ishbel, and members of his party a world of good, and all face the reception in the American metropolis tomorrow with smiling mien and pleasant anticipation.

The Berengaria, probably for the first time in its career, plowed the West Atlantic at a reduced speed today so as not to bring the giant Cunarder to Quarantine too soon, a circumstance which would have complicated the reception arrangements.

DOCKS EARLY

The vessel is expected to reach Quarantine about 6 a. m., permitting the distinguished passengers to board the city tug Macom soon after and proceed up the bay to the Battery where they will be taken up Broadway to New York's city hall.

There will be only a brief stay in New York tomorrow, the premier and his party proceeding before noon to Washington, where he will confer with President Hoover on Anglo-American relations in general, and naval limitation and reduction in particular. After a few days in Washington they will be New York's guests for a longer stay, returning to England from Canada.

A large number of radio messages were received during the day from both sides of the Atlantic. One which amused the Scotchman most was from a radio broadcasting concern in an eastern American city, which said:

"Cable your price on commercial exclusive first-appearance broadcasting."

MacDonald Forgets Cares And Plays Shuffleboard

By NORMAN ANGELL, M. P.

(The writer, a journalist of international repute and close personal friend of Premier Ramsay MacDonald, accompanies the prime minister to America for his conferences with President Hoover, as special correspondent for Universal Service.)

ABOARD S. S. BERENGARIA WITH PREMIER MacDONALD, Oct. 3.—(Radio via Chatham, Mass.)—Premier MacDonald's nearness to beginning his big job seems to have prompted today an extra allowance of relaxation.

The man who will land tomorrow morning to help inaugurate the greatest change in the relationship of our two countries which has occurred for 150 years today played shuffleboard with his staff and friends as the ordeal drew near.

Yesterday there were many games and last night he presided at a ship concert where his dignity and simple eloquence captivated the audience.

His reference to the fact that he hoped the result of the forthcoming negotiations would be "as fruitful as President Hoover and I will try to make them," was greeted with an outburst which is probably foretaste of what awaits him tomorrow.

His present equanimity is more noteworthy as he must keep his mind not merely on developments on this side of the Atlantic but on political developments in Great Britain as well.

The annual conference of the British Labor Party is now going on and decisions are being made which will affect the situation at the opening of Parliament, at which MacDonald will not be present.

The government of which he is the head is at the mercy of the vote in Parliament which could in theory bring the government to an end.

ISHBEL UNCONCERNED

"Where does Ishbel sit? Does she come as a Prime Minister's daughter or as his hostess?"

Such questions evidently still are agitating certain political and social circles as proved by radiograms the Premier's party are still receiving.

Miss Ishbel's own view of the problem is an answer she gave out yesterday at a little tea party of which she was the guest of honor. She said:

"I don't care where I sit so long as it is by somebody really nice."

Greensburg Legion Plans Celebration

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 3.—Twenty-one American Legion drum corps have been invited to participate in competition during the annual Mardi Gras to be staged by the Robert K. Kotouch Post here on November 4 and 5. Prizes totaling $300 will be offered for the best drum corps in the parade.

laden with workers bound downtown.

But not a single auto or trolley car was in the slide's path.

Traffic was jammed beyond immediate control. On each side of the slide trolley cars lined up, unable to push past the rocks and dirt. Motorists were forced to detour.

Seventy minutes later workmen had cleared the way for the outbound trolley track and one-way service was resumed.

Public Works Director Edward G. Lang estimated that 500 tons of rock and earth had spread over a 50-foot section of the street.

NEW SLIDE EXPECTED

Lang, directing removal of the debris, predicted that several hundred more tons would follow the slide. He said a water drain at the top of the precipice was loosening the earth.

William Schnellbacher, 60, a city carpenter, surveyed all these tons of rock and clay with a smile. Working on the hillside steps, Schnellbacher had a well-grounded hunch that the earth was loose enough to slide. Five minutes before it rumbled downward he left the steps and was out of its path.

"I heard the earth rumbling a few minutes before the slide started and I got out of the way," Schnellbacher said.

NO FLOOD WARNING

The rainstorm, which began at 10 p. m. Tuesday, ended early today, and this afternoon the river stage at the Point Bridge was 22.4 feet.

Meteorologist W. S. Brotzman predicted that before midnight the water would approach the flood stage of 25 feet, but he was so confident that there was no danger that he did not issue a warning to building owners to prepare for flooded cellars.

The rain, amounting to 3.27 inches, gave the tristate districts its first excess of precipitation in months, and rivermen on the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers lowered the wickets on the dams to reduce the water stage.

The one casualty was Charles Coggin, 65, of the Hotel Savoy, Liberty avenue.

Coggin was crushed to death when a building under which he had taken shelter on the George Wilmot farm, Lincoln Highway, near Clinton, collapsed under a high wind. He was dead when dragged from the ruins.

ROADS UNDER WATER

When a cable burned out in the Forest avenue sub-station, Bellevue, late yesterday, residents of that borough were left without lights for seven hours. Business and social activities were conducted by candle light.

From all sections of Pennsylvania reports indicated heavy rains, with considerable property damage. Many highways were under water, and at least one bridge, that over Beech Creek, near Lock Haven, was washed out. Traffic was detoured.

Officials in the Department of Forests and Waters welcomed the rain, as the fall hunting season will soon get under way with the resultant fire hazard to forests from gunners.

Northern West Virginia and Eastern Ohio also felt the brunt of the storm. In Martinsburg, W. Va., more rain fell in a 12-hour period than in the entire preceding three months. Swollen streams in many sections of the state disrupted traffic, threatened bridges and did considerable damage to late crops.

DAY, SINCLAIR'S AID, QUITS JAIL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Henry Mason Day, associate of Harry F. Sinclair in various oil enterprises, left the District of Columbia jail today at 12:25 a. m. after completing a four months sentence begun June 24 for jury shadowing in the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial.

Smiling gaily, Day left the jail just 25 minutes after his sentence expired, while fellow prisoners who had waited up to bid him goodby cheered lustily.

He said his "only regret was that it is not Harry F. Sinclair instead of me who is leaving this jail tonight."

Walking out to the flagpole in front of the building he posed good naturedly for all photographers, remarking:

"Make the best of this, boys, for this is the last chance like this you'll have."

Day then went to a hotel where friends had arranged a big dinner for him.

Day is to be married shortly to Miss Dorothy Ridenour, a Washington girl well known in the younger social set of the capital. They are to go to Europe on a honeymoon trip. Day obtained his passport while in jail and expects to sail with his bride October 22.

BRITON CHARGES SHEARER BRIBE

LONDON Oct. 3.—(INS.)—A new angle was injected into the controversy over the anti-disarmament activities of William B. Shearer today with the allegation of a prominent British military leader that a man he believed to be Shearer had offered him a large sum of money to cease his efforts in behalf of disarmament.

The man who makes the charge is Brig. Gen. Frank P. Crozier, right-hand man of Viscount Cecil, of Chelwood, one of Britain's principal disarmament advocates. In a letter to American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, Gen. Crozier reveals that in 1927 a man giving his name as "Sherman," attempted to "buy him off," promising him large sums if he ceased his advocacy of reduction of the British Army and Navy.

Crozier declares that published pictures of Shearer convince him that "Sherman" was actually the big Navy propagandist.

eliminated, the students say, and this was an additional cause of complaint.

None of the girls joined in the walkout, according to F. W. Hershelman, principal of the high school.

"The school district of Sharpsburg requires parents of student football players to sign releases that will relieve the school authorities of liability in case of injury," said Principal Hershelman.

"We have obtained only 13 such releases, which gives us only 11 regulars and two substitutes. It is hard to play football with only two men in reserve.

"In addition we were compelled to notify the coach yesterday that seven of the 11 regulars on the team were ineligible because of deficiency in studies. That left only six men, including the two subs.

"Some of the students wanted us to play flunkers and everybody. This we refuse to do. We anticipate that the trouble will be settled promptly."

Capt. McGinty said no one was allowed to play football unless he was on the honor roll. That ruling clipped off eight members who were unable to make a rating of 90 per cent or over, he said. The game scheduled for last Friday with Carrick High School was called off, he asserted.

Of the first string players, according to McGinty, the only one ruled eligible for competition were Frank Pontello, Ulysses Termin, Walter Lalley and Stewart Haggerty. The seven regulars declared ineligible were Frank Poary, Joseph Bruno, Richard Slagel, Frank Santalucia, Edward C'sey, Oliver Aeri and Capt. McGinty.

Democratic and insurgent leaders that he assume charge. In event that Norris finally declines to participate it is thought likely that either Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee and arch-foe of lobbyists, or Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, will take the place.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, famous Teapot Dome prosecutor, and Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, author of the lobby resolution, are almost certain to be the Democratic members of the subcommittee.

Two conservative Republicans will complete the committee personnel.

It is considered probable that either Senators Waterman, of Colorado, Gillette, of Massachusetts; or Steiwer, of Oregon, will furnish the two G. O. P. stalwarts.

As soon as the sub-committee is named it will hold an organization meeting, lay plans for the employment of counsel and draft a general program to be followed.

It is doubtful if actual open public hearings will get under way for three or four weeks.

The committee, under present plans, will investigate every phase of lobbying activities in Washington, starting off probably with a survey of the activities of the tariff lobbyists who infest the capital at the present time.

It also will go into the "social lobby" and in fact is expected to follow the activities of most of Washington's numberless army of favor seekers.

Sen. Caraway Demands Lobbyist 'House-Cleaning'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(INS.)—The forthcoming senate investigation into Washington lobbying began to assume almost limitless proportions today.

Senator Caraway, (D.), of Arkansas, who sponsored the resolution authorizing the investigation, wants "a house-cleaning in Washington," he said today. He particularly wants to show business men and industry generally how they have been duped by spending large sums here on persons who pretend to have great influence in shaping legislation, but who actually have little contact with legislators.

It was indicated today that the initial phases of the inquiry will be devoted to "the business lobby," which will take in the activities of literally hundreds of business and industrial representatives who have come to the capital seeking to influence tariff rates.

Officials of the United States Chamber of Commerce, which maintains an imposing headquarters a block from the White House, and assumes a "spokesmanship" in business legislation, also probably will be called.

Southern Democrats, including Caraway, are particularly anxious that Joseph R. Grundy, representing the Pennsylvani Manufacturers' Association, and for years prominent in tariff-making, should be called.

"I want to know," said Caraway, "who finances Grundy and who sets the large sums at his disposal."

Holland Will Bar Exiled Trotzky

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Leon Trotzky, exiled Soviet war commissar, has made indirect inquiry as to entering Holland, but will be refused if he makes a formal request.

The foreign ministry today first announced that the requisite permission would be granted. There appeared to be a divergence of views among members of the chamber as to the propriety of the view, however, and when a direct question was put by a member, the foreign minister said since the Dutch government could not assume responsibility for M. Trotzky if he did come to Holland, he therefore would not be admitted if he asked permission.

TARIFF WAR RENEWED IN SENATE

Democratic-Insurgent Bloc Raps American Valuation Plan for Rate Fixing

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—After thrice repudiating President Hoover on the flexible tariff, the Senate today resumed its tariff war with a battle over fixing the valuation basis for assessment of American duties against foreign imports.

The Democratic-Insurgent coalition, which humbled the President on the flexible provision, was mustering strong opposition to a new valuation provision authorizing the tariff commission to convert all new and old rates to an American valuation for the future approval of Congress. This plan was approved by the Senate Finance Committee, but both Democratic and Insurgent leaders assailed it as unnecessary and but an opening wedge for ultimate adoption of the American valuation plan.

FOREIGN VALUATION

The coalition planned to insist upon retention of the foreign valuation basis, such as exists in the present law and which the Senate Finance Committee would retain until Congress could act on the commission's proposed conversion to the American basis. Under the foreign valuation plan, rates are assessed against the foreign value of an imported article; under the American plan, the duties would be levied against the American selling price of the imported article or against the American selling price of a comparative American article.

The President's defeat on the flexible provision left administration leaders divided as to their strategy in the future. There was some talk of abandoning the bill to save the flexible provision in existing law, but the majority of administration leaders favored a finish fight.

"We are going ahead with our fight," said Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania. "We cannot say what will happen in conference and we can't say what will happen on the conference report, but the House must agree to this change in the flexible law before the bill can be finally enacted."

AGAINST DELAY

Democratic leaders—Senators Robinson, of Arkansas, and Simmons, of North Carolina, both insisted there would be no delay in acting on the bill. Robinson expressed a hope that the bill could be passed by the Senate this month.

In the flexible war, the President apparently lost because he ignored the advice of his congressional leaders and personally intervened. Following his direct appeal to the Senate to re-enact his present flexible powers, there was a distinct stiffening of the opposition. Rumors prevailed that two Republican senators immediately abandoned his cause and joined the Democratic-Insurgent coalition.

The effect of the adverse vote may be harmful in the future to the President's legislative policies. Having repudiated Mr. Hoover once, it was intimated, the Senate will not be unwilling to do it again.

BEATEN THREE TIMES

The President was beaten on three separate votes. Twice proposals were rejected to give him a final voice in changing tariff rates if Congress failed to act on the tariff commission's recommendations within a specified time. Then came the final vote, repealing the President's existing powers and restoring to Congress all legislative activity on the tariff. The vote was 47 to 42, 13 Republicans voting against him, while but four Democrats supported him.

The insurgent Republicans were Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Cutting, Frazier, Howell, Johnson, LaFollette, McMaster, Norris, Nye, Pine and Schall. Senator Norbeck (Rep.), of South Dakota, was paired against him. The Democrats supporting him were Broussard, Ransdell, Fletcher and Steck. After twice supporting him, Senator Trammell (Dem.), of Florida, voted against the President on the final rollcall. On two early rollcalls, Senator Dale (Rep.), of Vermont, voted against the President, and Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, did so once.

Couple Revive Wrecked Romance in Court

Anna B. Chatko, who had Andrew Sedlak, Jr., arrested for the alleged theft of a $250 diamond ring he had given her, walked out of Criminal Court today arm in arm, the charge quashed.

And Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, who is wise about things like that, having been married recently himself, chuckled at his role of peacemaker.

For it was indicated that the pair, engaged for more than two years, were en route to the marriage license bureau or the minister.

They had secured a marriage license, it was said, and were en route to buy a wedding ring. April 16, when Miss Chatko gave her $250 engagement ring to Sedlak to hold. At the door of a jewelry shop, he hesitated, asked to be excused and though she waited for two hours, he failed to reappear.

The same day she swore out an information against him, alleging larceny.

Hoover Radios Message Welcoming MacDonald

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—President Hoover and Secretary Stimson today sent messages by radio to Premier Ramsay MacDonald, aboard the S. S. Berengaria, welcoming him to this country.

The President's message said:

"As you near the shores of the United States I send to you a most cordial welcome not only in my own name, but on behalf of my fellow countrymen as well.

The message of Secretary Stimson read:

"I send you my heartiest greetings on your approach to America. A sincere welcome and warmest hospitality await you."

These communications were dispatched shortly before Secretary Stimson left for New York to greet the British premier on behalf of the American government.

Two cruisers, the Memphis and Trenton, are steaming to sea from Hampton Roads, Va., to meet the Berengaria and escort the premier to New York.

President Hoover today ordered an inspection of mountain roads leading into his Virginia fishing preserve, to see if the rains of the last few days have damaged them to such an extent that it would be impossible to take Premier MacDonald to the camp for a week-end visit.

The roadway, recently constructed, includes many filled-in places, and it was feared that the heavy rainfall might have caused some washouts.

Cold weather will be no deterrent, as the camp is well equipped with open fireplaces and other heating facilities.

Capt. Eugene A. Regnier, Secretary Stimson's military aide while he was governor general of the Philippines, will serve as temporary aide to Prime Minister MacDonald on the trip from New York to Washington tomorrow.

The assignment of permanent aides, both military and naval, will depend upon the desires of the British premier after his arrival here.

STRESEMANN'S DEATH LAID TO POLITICAL STRUGGLE

FIGHT SAVING MINISTRY FATAL

Noted Post-War Statesman Stricken 'in Harness;' Berlin Cast Into Gloom

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS,
International News Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—One of the greatest figures on the international political post-war horizon was removed today in the sudden death of Dr. Gustav Stresemann, foreign minister of Germany, from a stroke of apoplexy.

Dr. Stresemann died at 5:25 this morning. He had been stricken at midnight and failed to regain consciousness.

The sudden and entirely unexpected death of the foreign minister threw a pall of gloom over Germany, for although during his entire tenure of office Dr. Stresemann fought against violent opposition from all political quarters, he was nevertheless a popular figure and had carried the banner of reconstruction through the trying post-war days in Germany.

DIES IN "HARNESS"

Although he had been suffering for some time from a kidney ailment, complicated by trombosis, Dr. Stresemann died literally "in harness." A few hours before his death he had attended a party caucus and spent the late hours of yesterday afternoon in political conferences at his home.

The excitement of the last few days, during which Dr. Stresemann fought heroically against violent opposition to avoid a cabinet crisis, is held directly responsible for his death. The possible crisis centered about passage of a reform bill for unemployment relief.

SUCCESS CROWNS CAREER

For hours late yesterday, Dr. Stresemann urged his supporters, members of the German Peoples' Party, not to vote against the measure. All his great oratorical powers were expended in an effort to keep peace within his own ranks and prevent collapse of his ministry, but he gave no indication that he had exhaused himself to such an extent that his life was at stake.

Dr. Stresemann's death came just at a time when the international policies he had pursued since 1923 against violent opposition within his own party ranks were about to be crowned with success through evacuation of the Rhineland by Allied occupational troops.

Political leaders expressed the belief today that Stresemann's death would in no way affect the certainty of the Young plan by the German Reichstag. The swaying of public and political opinion to support of the plan was one of the crowning achievements of Dr. Stresemann's career.

CURTIUS IN CONTROL

In the meantime, fate of the party rests in the hands of the minister of economics, Dr. Curtius, who called upon Dr. Stresemann yesterday afternoon and aided him in setting plans for the anticipated parliamentary battle on the unemployment and other issues during the next few days.

Messages of condolence began pouring in at an early hour on the Stresemann home in the Wilhelmstrasse. Dr. Stresemann's former colleagues and political lights of all denominations called to express their sorrow.

Dr. Stresemann was born on May 10, 1878, in Berlin. He studied history and political economy at the universities of Berlin and Leipsig, and devoted the next few years of his life to organizing industry.

He founded the Union of Saxon industrialists and was for many years its secretary, but became weaned away from the world of commerce during the early years of the century, when he became associated with the National Liberal party.

With the exception of a brief interval in 1918-1914, Dr. Stresemann's political career had been unbroken since 1907. During the war he pursued strong annexationist aims, and when these hopes had fallen after the defeat and collapse of the German armies and the outbreak of the revolution, he resisted the temptation to go over with his party to the Democrats, and the German people's party came into being.

Under his leadership, the party soon became one of the most serious forces in German political life, largely by its association with the great industrialist.

MILITIA QUELLS STRIKERS

MARION, N. C., Oct. 3.—(INS.)—Drawn bayonets and flashing sabres in the hands of state militiamen today apparently quenched the fire of the Marion strike riot which has claimed the lives of four strikers and resulted in injury to 16 others.

The death toll rose to four this morning when Luther Bryson, 22-year-old union member, succumbed to bullet wounds.

All night long a company of infantrymen from Salisbury patrolled the Marion mill village and dispersed small gatherings. At dawn the contingent of troops was supplemented by another unit which arrived from Winston-Salem.

It was at this crucial time yesterday—while the day shift was coming on at 7 a. m.—that Sheriff Oscar Adkins and five deputies were called to the scene by reports of a picket line forming. A few minutes after they arrived a pitched battle ensued between the day shift and the strikers of the night shift.

Indications that the labor disturbance here might grow into a confusion of prosecution and litigation such as that which developed from the Gastonia strike was seen in the announcement of union officials that they will swear out warrants immediately against the sheriff and his deputies charging them with murder of the slain strikers.

P. R. R. Plans Light Display for Jubilee

Featured in Pittsburgh's brilliant observance of Light's Golden Jubilee during the week of October 21, will be the decorations on the Pennsylvania Station, it was announced today. Surrounding a keystone of lights, emblazoning the emblem of the railroad, will be multi-colored globes. The keystone will be 20 feet high. A similar emblem will be suspended at the Fort Wayne Bridge. Searchlights also will play varicolored beams on escaping smoke and steam in the trainshed and yards.

AUTO OWNERS VICTIMIZED

Motorists should use extreme caution in singling out garages for the official state inspection of their automobiles during the inspection period until November 15, according to C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, who today reported preying on drivers by unscrupulous garage keepers.

A number of complaints have been received by the club that motorists have been gouged by garage proprietors not designated by the state as official testing stations. These garages refused to give motorists inspection stickers, Roth said they told him, after the job was completed. Steps will be taken to prosecute all violators, Roth announced.

"Each station which has been certified as an official testing place has been equipped with a large poster 22 by 28 inches in size," Roth said.

"This poster bears as a heading: 'Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—Official Equipment Inspection Station.' Below this is imposed a photograph of a wreck, thrilling enough in its detail to attract attention.

"All motorists should be cautioned against permitting inspection unless the tester present an official inspection slip for the owner to sign before the work is commenced. A yellow sticker is placed on the windshield of the car after the job is completed."

The inspection law requires that automobiles be examined for efficiency of brakes, lights, windshield wiper equipment, license plates and rear vision mirror. Examination is compulsory under penalty of a $10 fine and costs.

LETTERS READ IN PREACHER'S BALM SUIT

Note to Aimee's Mother, Offering to Call Off Case For Money Introduced

SEATTLE, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Letters and documents written by the Rev. H. H. Clark to Mrs. Minnie E. Kennedy were ready for introduction by the defense at the resumption of his $50,000 breach of promise suit against the mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, Evangelist, in Superior Court here today.

John S. Robinson, attorney for Mrs. Kennedy forced the Rev. Mr. Clark to admit authorship of two documents which the former Seattle minister said were intended to have cleared the tangle in which he said he and Mrs. Kennedy had become involved. He claimed that Mrs. Kennedy's alleged refusal to marry him had wrecked his religious career and damaged his reputation.

BLACKMAIL HINT

One document, intended for the Rev. Mr. Clark's signature, read in part that "in more sober moments" he had decided Mrs. Kennedy had been done "a deep wrong," and pledged himself to "defend her character and reputation at all times," adding "I believe in her Christian character, her honesty and Christ-like purpose to serve both God and every human being."

The other writing, prepared for Mrs. Kennedy's signature, provided that she "drop all matters from a legal standpoint, such as any possible claim or charge of slander, blackmail, extortion or any other claim in regard to the whole unpleasant misunderstanding."

ASKED FOR MONEY

Robinson introduced letters written by the Rev. Mr. Clark to Mrs. Kennedy and her companion, Miss Kay Burdick, shortly before he instituted the "heart balm" suit. One, which Clark admitted writing on February 15, said in part:

"If you are willing (or your daughter, either), to loan me a few hundred dollars at this stage of the unhappy affair, I will fade out of the picture."

Reference to the McPherson kidnaping case was made during the hearing yesterday. The Rev. Mr. Clark testified Mrs. Kennedy had referred to the "chivalry" of Kenneth Ormiston, radio operator, during the investigation of the kidnaping case. The Rev. Mr. Clark said he informed Mrs. Kennedy he had tried to communicate with her daughter.

"Ormiston wouldn't do that. Ormiston would not breathe a word against Aimee," he quoted Mrs. Kennedy as saying.

LEGION ON PARADE AT ANNUAL CONVENTION AT LOUISVILLE

Members from all parts of the country are participating in the annual convention of the American Legion at Louisville. Here's Post 55, Winston-Salem, on the march.

'STRIP' PAROLES OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 3.—Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, of Pittsburgh, is understood to have disapproved the recommended parole for Patrick Meenan, Walter Stec and Charles A. Wolfe, serving time of a year and one day each in the Atlanta Penitentiary, for conspiring to violate the national prohibition law. They were convicted and sentenced May 28 in the Federal Court in Pittsburgh.

The Federal Pardon Board recommended the paroles, to become effective November 1. Department of Justice officials insisted that no outside indorsements are involved in the action of the parole board in its recommendations. Before the paroles are finally approved by the attorney general and the men given their freedom, however, it will be in order for the department to receive such indorsements, it was stated. Officials pointed out that the parole board has exclusive jurisdiction over the initial action taken in such cases.

Administrator Pennington said his office is opposed to paroles for the three men, as their conviction had the most salutary effect in this district, and freeing them at this time would undo much that has been accomplished here in prohibition enforcement. Meenan, Stec and Wolfe were three of the five men convicted in the so-called "Strip" rum conspiracy case, in which there were 27 defendants.

The other two convicted were Stanley Orie and Martin Grady. During the trial before Judge William Kirkpatrick, of Philadelphia, who came here to conduct it, the case ended abruptly when the five men entered pleas of guilty and the government nol prossed the charges as to the others, among the latter being John W. Orie, a former police magistrate, and Luke Sullivan, a member of the State Legislature.

Rainbow's 'Pot Of Gold' Just Phoney Cash

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—The end of the rainbow was located yesterday at East Eighty-fourth street and Prairie avenue by Joe Dowery, who digs ditches. The pot of golf was there all right, just like the book says, only it was all in $1 bills, 10,000 of them.

Mr. Dowery, whose very name, minus an E, suggests getting something for nothing, immediately resigned as a ditch digger.

A little later he was back.

"The money," he said sadly, plunging the blade of his shovel viciously into the innocent soil, "was counterfeit."

THREE INJURED BY AUTOS

Three persons were injured, one seriously, in automobile accidents last night. They were Thomas George, 32, of 511 Arch street, North Side; Miss Michaeline Gouze, 27, of 1455 Benton avenue, and Felix Gallino, 32, of 32 Oakland square, owner of a downtown beauty parlor.

George suffered a fractured skull when he was struck by an automobile at Arch street and Park way. At Allegheny General Hospital it was said his condition was serious. The car which struck him was driven by Ronald Ford, 25, of 25 Tomoka street, West View, police said.

Miss Gouze and Gallino were injured when the automobile in which they were riding skidded on the wet pavement and crashed into a pole on a safety zone in front of the Boggs and Buhl store, Federal street, North Side. After treatment at Allegheny General Hospital Miss Gouze was removed to her home. Gallino was only slightly injured.

ARKANSAS MAN HEADS LEGION

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 3.—(INS.)—O. L. Bodenhamer, of Arkansas, was named national commander of the American Legion here today by acclamation. It was the first time in the history of Legion conventions that a man had been elevated to the highest position in the veterans' organization without the formality of a vote.

Bodenhamer's dramatic and sudden ascension to the commandership came after his chief rival for the honor, Albert L. Cox, of Raleigh, N. C., asked the Legion delegates to suspend the convention rules and declare Bodenhamer commander without a vote.

Bodenhamer succeeds Paul V. McNutt, dean of the law school of Indiana State University.

The new commander was born in Goldthwaite, Tex., and is a resident of El Dorado, Ark., He is a past commander of the Arkansas department of the Legion and also served as national executive committeeman for Arkansas and chairman of the national legislative committee of 1924-25. After receiving his degree from Baylor University at Waco, Tex., Bodenhamer became a professor of English and dean of San Marcos College.

He joined the Army in April of 1917 as a recruit and was discharged from the Nineteenth Infantry, Regular Army, in July, 1928, as a major.

Frankford Post No. 211 of Philadelphia was awarded first prize in the annual drum and bugle corps contest.

Heinie Gerlach, of Pittsburgh, won the national drummers' contest. He is a member of Observatory Post No. 31 and of the Nixon Orchestra, Pittsburgh.

BANK CLERK ADMITS GUILT

Sentence Deferred Awaiting Return of Final $6,000 In $100,000 Embezzlement

Gaiety of the city's streets, luxury, fast automobiles, a small-salaried bank clerk a few years from a little Ohio town, debt and the first $10 peculation.

These formed the story unfolded in Criminal Court today by Wilson Brown Smith, of 3510 Louisa street, Oakland, who pleaded guilty to embezzling more than $100,000 in cash, travelers' checks and securities from the Oakland Savings and Trust Company.

WIFE IN TEARS

And in the front row, a pretty young wife wept as the recital of Smith's story reached the point where:

"I wasn't going to leave the country, judge. The ties at home were too strong. My wife was back in Pittsburgh. I actually worried about getting those securities back to the bank."

And when the story had boiled down to the essential that a little over $6,000 was due the bank, and that there was a chance that this might be restored, Judge Harry H. Rowand acceded to the plea of counsel that sentence be held over to await possible restitution. This may be arranged, Attorney Edward G. Coll said, if the surety company will agree.

Smith, questioned by Judge Rowand, told the story of how he had been making $200 a month, but that his taste for luxuries had got him into debt.

TOOK $10 FIRST

"I took $10 first," he said. "Later I got in deeper and suddenly decided to take the travelers' checks and securities and go to New York.

"Once there, I became worried. I had the securities locked up in my hotel room. I wanted to get them back to the bank. I didn't really want money that was not mine.

"Then I went out and tried to sell my car and was arrested."

Mrs. Smith, the wife, had turned in a diamond ring he had given her. It was worth $450, and she said it was paid for with stolen money. It was brought out that Smith had a fast automobile and otherwise had lived beyond his means. He has been in the city just a few years, having been graduated from Madison (O.) High School in 1922.

JAIL FRIEDBERG IN RUM CASE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 3.—Ike Friedberg, Uniontown businessman, questioned in the investigation of the murder of Jack Donohoe, former constable, was arrested today on a charge of violating the state liquor laws.

State police and prohibition officers took him from his bed early today and lodged him in the Uniontown jail.

A few minutes before the same police had arrested George Abbott, a barber, after they had reported finding two cases of whisky in the Abbott home.

The state police were said to have information that Friedberg had delivered the liquor to the Abbott home.

"It's just sacramental wine," he was quoted as saying.

Friedberg's arrest inspired countless reports that the state police had at last made progress in their investigation of Donohoe's murder, but there was no evidence to support these reports.

The arrest appeared simply as another step in the state police's campaign to dry up Fayette County. In the last four days they have made more than a score of liquor arrests.

Friedberg, an owner of the People's Furniture Store, was a close friend of Donohoe, whose murder, three months ago, stirred city, county and state authorities.

sunburned arms, and they smile as they work.

You think of British women that once worked in the low galleries of coal mines, where it was impossible to stand upright. Crawling on their hands and knees along the tunnels, covered with rough coal, they dragged the little coal cars. Chains, fastened around their necks, passing under their bodies, were attached to the cars behind them. Working conditions have improved.

MR. VELVELETH, vice president of General Electric, in charge of engineering designing, tells you that testing with gauges is such monotonous work men cannot stand it. Women do not object to it, and their delicacy of touch makes them do it better than men.

Women's ability to endure monotonous tasks is due to their having taken care of children, on this earth, for a million years.

According to scientists, humanity is at least as old as that.

Nothing more monotonous than taking care of children. No man can stand it, more than a few minutes.

IN the giant turbine factory you study the making of power-producing machines, sent all over the world. Steam rushes through the turbine, striking against wheels made like the wheel of a windmill. The steam striking the wheels produces power, as the wind does.

ONE turbine now building goes to Henry Ford. It will produce one hundred and fifty thousand horse power, after steam power has been transformed into electric power for convenient distribution, and cost one and a half million dollars. That great engine will produce millions of little Ford engines that will haul Americans billions of miles.

ONE product of General Electric cost $650, produced with machines first used. Improved machinery now produces the same article for $60, less than one-tenth the original cost.

Scientific knowledge, embodied in that machinery produces, cheaper goods, better wages, bigger profits. Such is modern industry.

A GREAT American organization is General Electric, of which Gerard Swope is president, with Mr. Young "The Young Plan" chairman of the board.

It employs 100,000 men in its various plants, pays about $150,000,000 in wages annually, makes many things, from electric locomotives to lamps, producing an almost perfect imitation of sunlight.

AT the moment, General Electric is making the largest water wheel generators ever-manufactured, anywhere.

For whom, do you suppose, are these giant producers of hydro-electric power manufactured?

Not for England, France, America, or any "regular" country, but for Soviet Russia.

PERHAPS Wall Street, angry because Sovietism would not pay the Czar's and Kerensky's debts, under-estimates modern Russia.

A nation that knows enough to import the best American, Swedish and German engineers, and finds ways to buy the best, most expensive machinery, still retains the power of Peter the Great, whatever you may think of its government. And that government, by the way, is Russia's business, not ours.

HE WAS LIFELESS AND DESPONDENT

But ALL-BRAN made him wide-awake and well—doctor prescribed it

CONSTIPATION ruins hopes, saps strength. Yet thousands of sufferers have found the way to relieve and prevent this disease. Read how this man rid his system of constipation.

"During the three years before ALL-BRAN cured me, I experienced more embarrassing moments than I care to tell of. Being lifeless, dull, foggy and despondent, I could not keep my job. My friends didn't want my company and I was tired of being asked 'What in the world is the matter with you?'

"After spending much money for treatment, I finally found a doctor who advised me to eat ALL-BRAN three times a day. I did this for three months and I didn't need to be told that I looked better . . . I felt better and acted better . . . I am still using ALL-BRAN every morning and have no trouble now whatsoever." (Name and address upon request.)

Guard against constipation by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to prevent it—to relieve it. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Far better than habit-forming drugs and pills.

ALL-BRAN is 100% effective. Doctors recommend it because it promotes natural elimination. Serve it with milk or cream. Use it in cooking—muffins, bread, etc. Delicious recipes on the package. Grocers sell it. Restaurants, hotels, dining-cars service it. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ROAD PROGRAM OUTLINED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 2.—Between June 1, of this year and the same date in 1931, 2,000 miles of improved highway will have been completed in Pennsylvania, declared Samuel Eckles, deputy secretary of the State Highway Department, whose spoke before the county commissioners of the state, who are convened here.

By May 1, next, Mr. Eckles said there will be 1,500 miles of highway and many bridges under contract.

Since June 1, contracts have been let for 638 miles of highway. Of this, 426 miles have been completed. Within five weeks the total will be 600 miles.

The State Highway Department is spending $1,700,000 a week of its $175,000,000 road fund, Eckles stated.

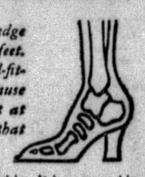
County commissioners were warned to keep bridges in safe repair or be held criminally negligent. The state is planning to take over most of the bridges next year.

Committees named today included: Auditing, Lewis Collier, solicitor of Clarion County; E. D. Stewart, commissoner from Warren County, and Frank O'Neil Clerk, of Elks County.

Resolutions—Joseph F. Rogan, of Warren County; J. L. Rachau, of Clinton County, and T. F. Hungiville, of McKean County.

NERVES WERE WRECKED

"My nerves were on edge from the pain in my feet. High heels and ill-fitting shoes were the cause of my trouble. But at last I found shoes that brought relief."



You can't hide foot trouble. It is expressed in every move you make in every step you take.

But why let such torture go on? Here's positive, sure relief from foot suffering!

Ground Gripper shoes will help you . . . just as they have helped thousands of others. They will free delicate tissues from friction and pressure and will permit your foot muscles to function, freely and naturally . . . just as nature intended.

Wear Ground Gripper shoes regularly and you'll banish forever all foot aches and pains.

Let us explain the three vital principles.

CHOIR TO SING AT FIELD MASS

The Pittsburgh Polyphonic Choir, directed by the Rev. Carlo Rossini, will sing at the field mass on Flagstaff Hill, Schenley Park, Sunday morning, participating in the anniversary service in honor of Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Polish hero who fell in the Revolutionary War. The mass marks the opening of the all-day memorial observance of the anniversary.

Titus Filipowicz, Polish ambassador to the United States, will attend the mass, as will members of Polish and American military and civic organizations. Following the mass, there will be a parade and at night there will be services in Memorial Hall.

Fireman Injured Answering Alarm

Delos Harvey, 41, of 1328 Wyandotte street, a fireman at No. 18 Engine Company, Eighth street, suffered a fractured ankle when he slid down a pole in the engine house early today. He was answering a false alarm sounded from Ninth street and Duquesne way. Fellow-firemen took him to Mercy Hospital.

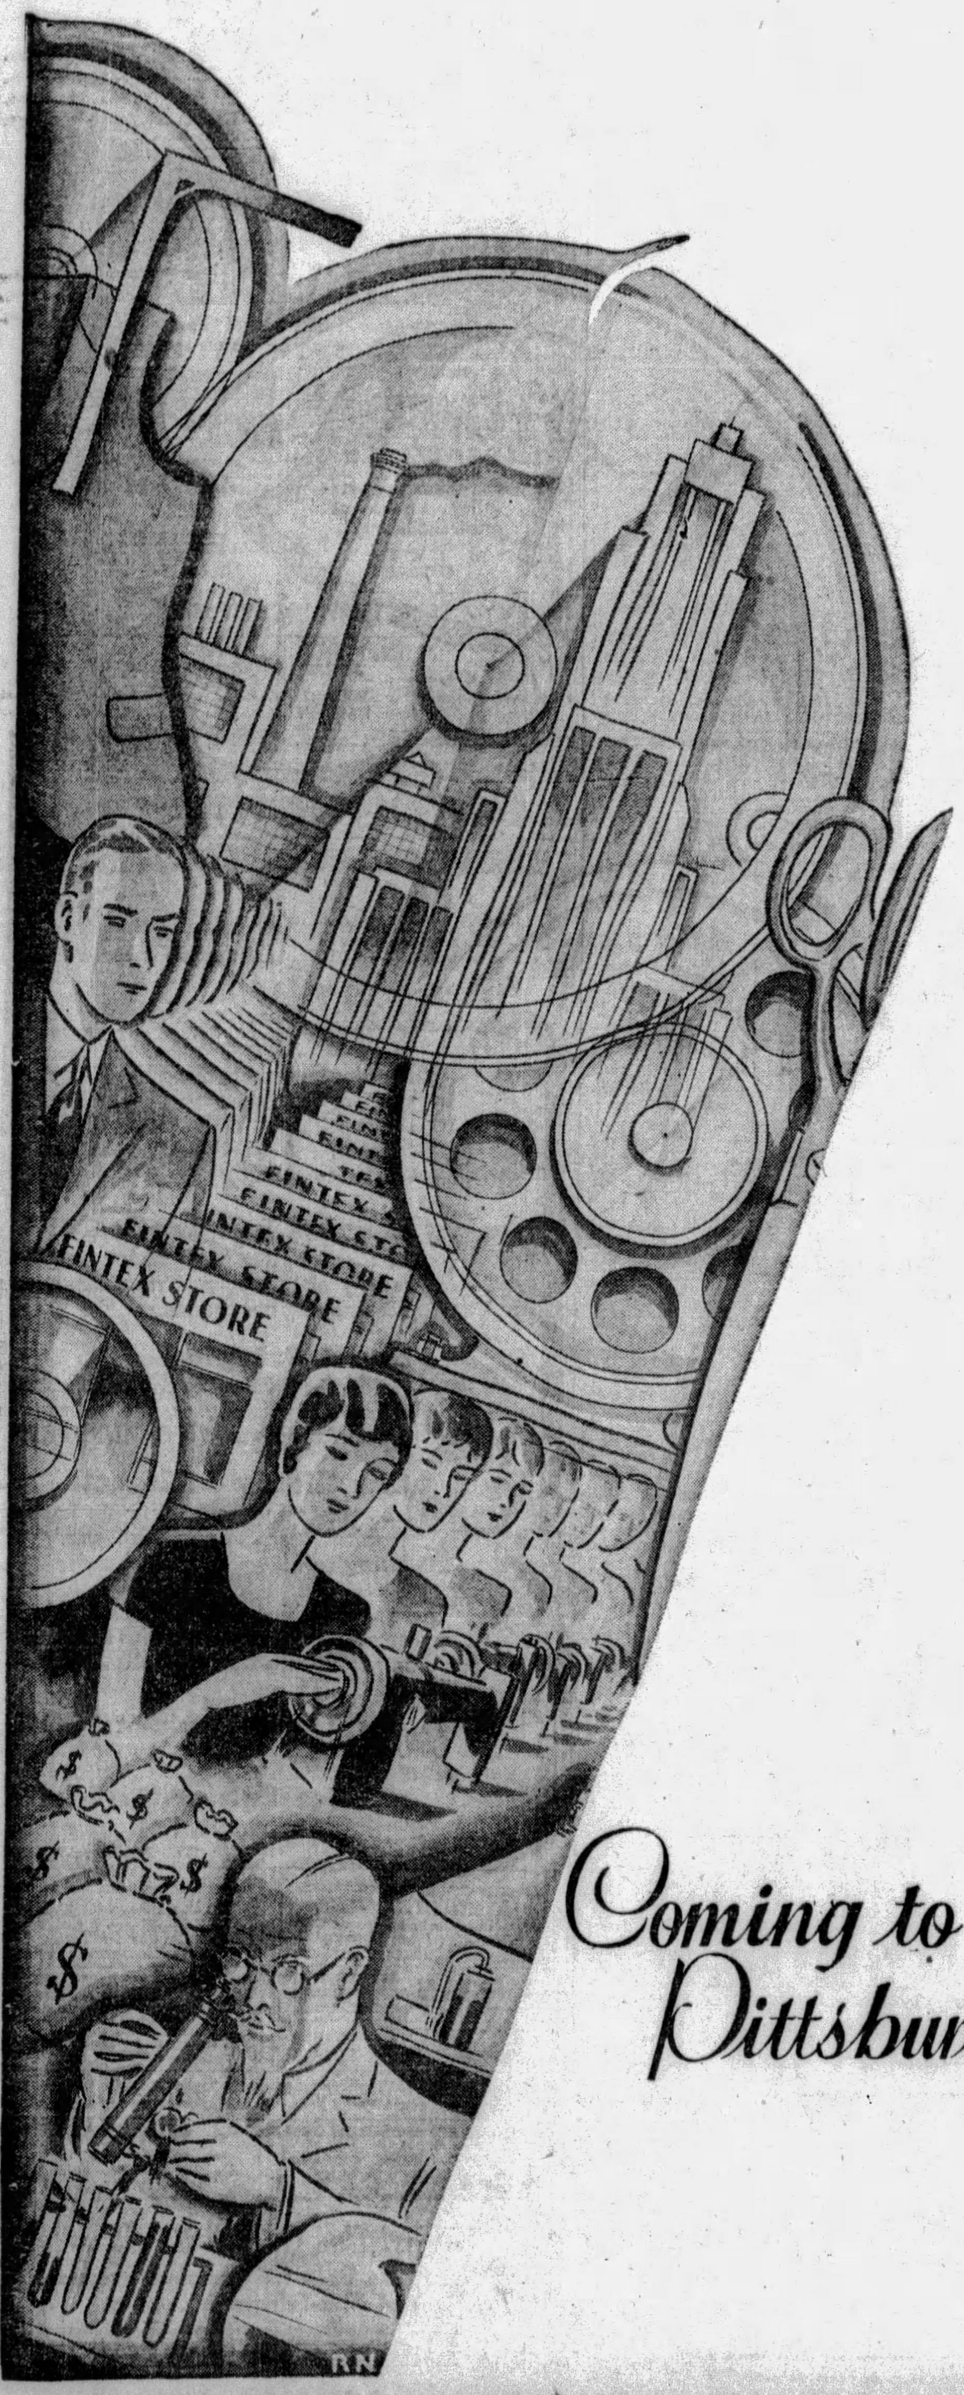
CLASSIFIED ADS ARE AMONG THE GREATEST MONEY-SAVERS KNOWN.

GET INTO THE HABIT

of reading The Sun-Telegraph's Classified Advertisements. Many a home has in it a bargain selected from these columns.

the wheels of industry roaring . . man power . . money power . . brains . . . factories . . stores . . .



and out of it all comes a suit of clothes . . .

A vast empire of business! A torrent of industrial energy pouring forth! The powers of man and brain and machine yielding their utmost!

All to produce that suit of clothes you wear!

And mind you, it may turn out to be a smart suit of clothes and, then again, it may not!

Modern business is just like that! It has the power to stamp out clothing like so many bolts and nuts, or it can bring you the fine things the artist would create for himself!

When you understand this, you begin to understand the meaning of Fintex!

For Fintex is a striking symbol of smartness! It stands for that character and fineness and freshness the well-dressed man searches for in his clothes.

Still Fintex is a product of big business, large scale production, economic methods of operation!

Fintex is coming to Pittsburgh! It brings with it a story worth the telling. Each succeeding day we will add a bit more to the picture we have begun today!

Comment and Notes About Amusements Combined With Hollywood Gossip

PLOT OF PLAY STOLEN AGAIN MRS. HALE AND THURSTON ARE ALSO AUTHORS

By GEORGE SEIBEL

HAS it occurred to the heirs of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, if any of them are around, to enter suit against the authors of "The Front Page," for infringement. A good looking and well dressed plaintiff like Clare Sheridan, the sculptress of celebrities, might win a suit without much trouble.

She could easily prove to any jury that isn't near-sighted that the basic situation in the drama at the Nixon is taken from "The School for Scandal." And the connection between the two plays does not depend on any symbolic application of the title to the business of journalism.

The main interest in Sheridan's comedy lies in the concealment of Lady Teazle behind the screen. The efforts to keep her from being discovered and her final discovery constitute the action and furnish the suspense of the climacteric act.

The same situation is used in "The Front Page." The concealment of the escaped anarchist in the desk, with all that follows, is plainly the screen scene from "The School for Scandal."

Call in Polti—Georges Polti, the Frenchman who wrote "The 36 Dramatic Situations"—as an expert witness. Maybe you'd better not. He will prove that the same situation has been used in 8,529 dramas since Victof Hugo. And that would spoil the case for the Sh[illegible] an family.

How many of the people who see Louise Closser Hale in "Paris," and are entranced by her exquisite acting as the New England mother who hits the Boulevards, are aware that Mrs. Hale is also an author of distinction?

She could hardly escape the virus of authorship, being born in the Hoosier Athens, where Booth Tarkington and Meredith Nicholson have taken the place of Shakespeare and Sir Walter Scott.

Mrs. Hale has a number of books to her credit, including "A Motor Car Divorce," "The Actress," "The Married Miss Worth," "Her Soul and Her Body," "We Discover New England," "We Discover the Old Dominion," "An American's London," "Home Talent," and "Once Aboard a French Canal Boat."

Besides that Mrs. Hale is a lecturer who can hold an audience entranced whatever her subject.

Evidently the possession of brains and using them is not an insuperable handicap in the career of an actress.

Pen and Wand

It is not only the actors who turn author—the magicians are also addicted to changing the wand into a pen. Howard Thurston is the latest. He has written the story of his life and it has been published by Dorrance.

One of the most famous and entertaining of autobiographies is the life of Robert-Houdin, the famous French magician. It is generally known in its English version under the title "King of the Conjurors."

The life of Harry Houdini has been published since his sad death, and is a very entertaining book. Carl Hertz, another magician of note, also has published his memoirs within recent years.

Printing is so closely allied with the Black Art that it's only natural for wizards to entrust their lives to the printer's devil. Thurston followed the instincts of the tribe.

MUSIC PLAYS WILL OPEN MONDAY

Seats are on sale for the engagement in the Alvin of "Luckee Girl," musical comedy in which Billy House is the featured comedian. The opening performance will take place Monday night in Syria Mosque. Beginning Tuesday evening "Luckee Girl" will play in the Alvin. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

Mary Adams and Richard Lane are the featured players in "A Connecticut Yankee," which comes to the Nixon Monday evening.

Pauline McLean, leading woman of the George Sharp Players, has a prominent role in "What Anne Brought Home," next week's production in the Pitt. Miss McLean will appear as a young bride who doesn't meet with approval of her family.

NEW GAYNOR FILM

Janet Gaynor's admirers will have the chance to hear her speak again in the Fox Movietone production, "Four Devils," which comes to the Penn Monday. Supporting players include Mary Duncan, Charles Morton, Barry Norton, Farrell MacDonald and Nancy Drexel.

Jason Robards, Virginia Valli and Noah Beery are cast in the leading roles of "The Isle of Lost Ships," which comes to the screen in the Stanley tomorrow. It is an all-talkie.

Before the screen called him, El Brendel, who plays the funny Swede in "The Cock-Eyed World," opening a second week in the Aldine Monday, was already a big stage favorite. Winning his first laurels as a German comedian he found himself with an unpopular role during the war so he switched to a Swedish dialect.

GLEASON ON SCREEN

James Gleason, who starred in, and wrote "Is Zat So," will be seen in his first all-talkie in the Sheridan Square and Harris, beginning Saturday. It is titled "Oh Yeah."

LOVE AT LONG DISTANCE ISN'T MUCH FUN, SUE CAROL AND NICK STUART FIND

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3.

LOVE is pretty turrible when a thousand or so miles make it long distance. Ask Nick Stuart. He knows. Sue Carol traipsed down Arizona-ways with "The Lone Star Ranger" Kumpny. Nick, being "between pictures," decided he'd chase down and say hullo.

Mr. Fox, however, N. G.ed (no good-ed) the idea. Nick tried a second time. Mr. Fox nodded okeh. Then it rained. Sheets of rain. Sue wired Nick not to come as cloudbursts had washed away the railroad tracks. Undaunted, Nick made a third attempt. He wrote Sue he was coming sure as fate. Sue had to wire don't, as the kumpny started inland for scenes the next day and would camp some 90 miles from the railroad.

Nick Stuart.

Nick has been plenty disconsolate these past few weeks, but it won't be long now. Sue is slated to return to Flickburg come Saturday.

Olive Borden and Arthur Lake have been spotted together frequently of late in dance halls in and around Venice, the local Coney Island. The two are cutting up in "Dance Hall" on the RKO lot and decided to absorb title atmosphere. Which they have done, sometimes with Director Mel Brown along. They have also been practicing what is described to this bureau as new terpsichore steps looped in the startling title: The Dumb Drag. If they vivify that name they should be intriguing.

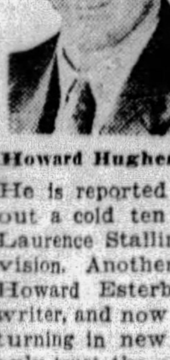
Pauline Garon Turns to Stage

PAULINE GARON has decided to chuck Hollywood and return to her first love—the stage. Polly has appeared in plays out here from time to time, but her present decision sees her en route on the first legit tour East. She has signed to play a featured role in George Scarborough's naughty effort, "Bad Babies," opening in San Francisco the early part of this month. Five weeks later, the troupe hits on to Chicago for the premiere there. Later, Polly entrains for New York, by which time she will have a part in a play awaiting for her.

Pauline Garon.

Still Making 'Hell's Angels'

WHAT happens to that serialistic production epic. "Hell's Angels," may or may not be a thought. Nevertheless, Howard Hughes, its young and optimistic producer and now its director, has decided that hes' going to blow town around the holidays. Together with Mickey Neilan he plans to spend Christmas in New York. Sail for 'tother side in time to celebrate New Year's in London. Whether or not "Hell's Angels" will be finished by then is highly problematical. Hughes has spent a small fortune in getting the dialogue, alone, rewritten. He is reported as having plunked out a cold ten thousand grand to Laurence Stallings for dialogue revision. Another such sum went to Howard Esterbrook. Yet a third writer, and now a fourth scribbler is turning in new dialogue. One can only trust the cards will be kind to Hughes and let him scissor a picture out of the mileage deluge that is at present "Hell's Angels."



Howard Hughes.

The picture business is de luxey fickle at this penning. Many of the so-called screen familiars aren't finding jobs as easily as they did before. Pauline Garon, for example, is an effervescent little actress who suffered professionally by being categoried a flapper. With the flapper in the story discarded, Polly hasn't worked as steadily as formerly. Hence her decision to return to the legit. She will combine pictures in New York with the stage, if opportunity is generous.

Sally and Her Boy Friends

SCREENALITIES: Open note to Sally Blaine—Sally, please R. S. V. P. and tell this bureau who the two young men are that you take to luncheon daily at ye Brown Derby? . . . Nancy Carroll was the victim of poor health for nigh onto a week. Lost her voice. Work on Billy Wellman's new vocalloid, "Victory," starring Dick Arlen, with her the fem lead, was subsequently delayed a week. Miss Carroll, however, is now back in grease paint harness. . . . Danny O'Shea swaining Lois Moran to ye Roosevelt. . . . Ruth Roland no sooner signed a contract to make feature musikkomiks for Sono-Art films than she succumbed to a cold and has been confined to her home these past few days. . . . Speaking of Ruth reminds me. The song that Husband Ben Bard wrote, "Vagabond Kng" will be sung by Harry Richman in his forthcoming United Artists talky. It's a swell song and Richman is no end keen about it. . . . William DeMille acting as linesman during the just completed Los Angeles tennis meet. DeMille is still a tennis enthusiast and a crack player ter boot. . . . Hear tell that Colleen Moore chucked her planned European trip because husband John McCormack doesn't like European food. They are holidaying in the Lake Louise country instead. . . . And—that's all.

Nancy Carroll.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Hunt Clubs To Hold Meet

THE words steeplechase and autumn bring to my mind paintings of early morning fox hunts in merrie England—pawing horses with pink-coated riders against the flamboyant glory of fall landscape, waiting for the hunting horn to signal for the start.

This fall there have been plenty of events to satisfy horsemen and horsewomen, too. And now I've heard of still another event that will interest them. On Saturday, October 12, the Western Pennsylvania Hunt clubs will hold a steeplechase on the George R. McNary farm in Greensburg. There'll be two races, with the first one scheduled for 3 o'clock.

And the clubs participating in the steeplechase are the Rolling Rock, Westmoreland, Sewickley, Pittsburgh, and Indiana hunts.

George R. McNary is chairman and John W. Lawrence, secretary, for the steeplechase.

NOW it looks as though October were going to be as popular with fall brides as September, and already brides-to-be are taking November dates.

Among the brides of this month will be Elizabeth Kuhn, daughter of the William Rittenhouse Kuhns, of Roslyn place, who has named Thursday, October 10, as the date for her marriage to Duncan McCallum Dayton, son of James Chandler Dayton, of New York. Elizabeth has been spending much of her time of late in New York. The wedding, however, will take place right here at home.

AND now that the season of Halloween when ghosts and clowns and witches on broomsticks become gregarious, is approaching, grown-up folks are thinking of Halloween parties with the old-time sport of bobbing for apples, walking down the stairs backwards with a lighted candle, and pulling taffy.

Halloween is the night selected by Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Norton Van Voorhis for a small dance they'll give in the Allegheny Country Club in honor of two of the popular Sewickley buds, Mary Franklin Robinson, daughter of the William Christopher Robinsons, of Sewickley and the North Side, and Peggy Milligan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan, of Edgeworth and the North Side. I'm not sure, but I imagine the guests will come in fantastic costumes.

AMONG those who'll return from Europe this month are Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Mrs. Leonard G. Woods, Mrs. James Francis Burke, the Emil Winters, Mrs. W. Harry Brown and Nathaniel Holmes II. Mrs. Rea already has sailed for home and Mrs. Woods and Mrs. Burke will be here by the middle of the month, I believe.

AND added to events interesting in society these fall days are entertainments for autumn brides and their attendants. Dorothy Scaife, daughter of the William Marcelin Scaifes, of Sewickley, will give a dinner tomorrow night in the Scaife home, "Eldomar," following the rehearsal for the wedding of Margaret Heath Ramsburg to Henry Gibson Carey Williams, to take place Saturday night at 7 o'clock in the home of the bride-elect's father and mother, the Charles J. Ramsburgs, of Sewickley.

FORSYTH PATTERSON, daughter of the Charles F. Pattersons, will sail on Sunday from New Orleans for Mexico City, where she'll spend a week, and then return home.

And among those who have just returned from a Canadian visit are the Harry C. McMahons and the Rodgers D. McMahons.

LAST evening at 5:30 o'clock, in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Miss Mary Louise Werner, daughter of Mrs. Mary C. Werner, of the East End, became the bride of Lawrence Hague Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Baker, of Morningside avenue.

The bride was attired in ivory satin, with veil of tulle and real lace, and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses, lilies of the valley, and orchids. Mrs. Walter E. Werner, matron of honor, wore burnt orange velvet, and the bridesmaids, Miss Helen Domhoff and Miss Eleanor Barclay, sun beige velvet. They carried dahlias in the various fall colors. Miss Mary Werner, a niece, wore peach georgette, and carried rosebuds. Walter E. Werner was best man.

After an extensive eastern tour, and after spending some time in the Pocono Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Baker will reside temporarily at 1223 Morningside avenue.

MISS REGINA RAFFERTY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Rafferty, of Alder street, has named October 18 as the date of her marriage to James A. McGroarty, son of Mrs. Agnes McGroarty, of the East End. The wedding will take place in the Sacred Heart Church at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. Miss Mary Irene Adelman will be maid of honor and Joseph McGroarty will be his brother's best man.

* * *

ON Saturday evening, September 28, in the Second United Presbyterian Church, Hay and Biddle avenues, Wilkinsburg, Miss Mildred Valeria Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Brown, Savannah avenue, Wilkinsburg, was married to Frank Goff Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thompson, of Westmoreland avenue, Swissvale, by the Rev. Dr. T. D. Edgar. Mrs. Ruth M. Craig was the organist. The bride was attired in ivory satin with a lace veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried yellow roses and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor, Miss Iva Morris, wore blue satin and carried pink dahlias. Miss Virginia Thompson, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Clair Thumm and Miss Florence Swan were the bridesmaids. Loyd Thompson, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. The ushers were Kenneth F. Brown, Duane S. Junker, Jack Hiller, Ralph Buderbaugh, Reginald Joyclon and Robert Redhead.

ON Saturday morning, September 28, at 10:45 o'clock, Mrs. Eva Righter Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Righter, of Idlewild street, East End, was married to Thomas Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Nichols, of Frankstown road. After a motor trip through New York state and Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Nichols will reside in Frankstown road.

OCTOBER 22 has been chosen by Miss Rachel Stevenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McCurdy Stevenson, of Denniston avenue, as the date of her marriage to David Keen Parvin Bair, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. George E. Bair, of Edgewood. The ceremony will be performed in the Stevenson home at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

* * *

THE Women's Aid Society of the Eastern Division, Pennsylvania Railroad, will give its annual dance and card party in the Urban room of the William Penn Hotel tomorrow evening. Mrs. Porter W. Sullivan is general chairman.

JERSEY SUPPLANTING TWEED FOR MID-AUTUMN SPORT WEAR

Sketched at Biarritz

WE show also, one of the very new sports suits made by Jean Worth for strenuous days at Biarritz. This extremely smart costume consists of a dark red jersey coat belted across the back, a beige silk tailored blouse with a red jersey collar edged with beige pleatings, and a skirt of tweed in red, beige and gray. We are glad to be able to send you a drawing and description of this model because it is conceded to be the most important and successful design in the sports section of Worth's excellent new collection.

(Copyright, 1929, King Features Syn., Inc.)

Black and White Effects Still In Demand

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Jersey justice is being administered to many sport outfits with excellent results. For quite the newest conceit is the jersey coat in place of the short or three-quarter tweed or cloth jacket or just plain knitted cardigan that played the covering role in almost every sports ensemble. Enthusiastic observers of the mode as it is being displayed at Biarritz just now have quickly spread the tidings of the new jersey jacket, and it is being used for many of the mid-autumn creations, although the idea is said to have originated in the fertile ateliers of the house of Worth.

DESPITE the prevalence of colors, such as green and various shades of brown, the demand for black-and-white effects continues unabated. For daytime wear, it has been given added impetus by fine tweeds in that mixture. Another important point of which note should be taken, is the success of tailored suits in thin fabrics. This has been observed at Biarritz, where the brilliant sun shines upon some of the most beautiful women and lovely clothes in all Europe. In this assemblage are many American women, who combine the best efforts of Parisian couturiers with their own grace and inimitable style sense.

IN the sketch is shown one of the new tailored suits, that was much admired at Biarritz. It is in a ribbed white silk and is impeccably tailored. One of the most interesting features is the amusing little waistcoat worn in place of a blouse. Touches of black are had in the pipings and jet buttons. A white felt hat, white antelope gloves stitched in black and white shoes complete this sartorial symphony in black and white.

Mt. Lebanon Year Book Different

FROM its title, "The World Does Move," to the appropriate cuts which adorn the pages, the year book of the Mt. Lebanon Fortnightly Review is "different." The women came to "the end of the vacation trail" yesterday when they gave their annual reception in honor of their president, Mrs. James W. McKelvie.

Mrs. Adolph Krebs was hostess at her home in Parkway drive for this very attractive affair. The club colors, blue and gold, were carried out in the candles and flowers and in the old fashioned bouquet which Mrs. McKelvie carried. There was orchestral music during the receiving hours, but no program.

Turning a page of the new year book, one sees "The Air: A Modern Robot" given as the subject for the next meeting for which Mrs. Ralph Radcliffe will be "aviatrix." "When Women Get Together" on November 6 means that the State Federation convention will be reported and Miss Alice Thurston McGirr will speak on "Books and Books" and that there will be music by Mrs. M. L. Gardner. A "musical potpourri" is down for November also and in December "A Movie Trip Through Filmland" will be made.

In the Keystone Athletic Club the women will entertain their husbands at dinner in December and that same month Mrs. John M. Phillips is to speak on "The Life Abundant." In the latter half of the season will come an address by Dr. W. H. McMaster, of Mt. Union College, on "The Triple Threat in Our Modern Life;" a "Vitamin Valentine Party" with most original topics for the program subjects; a law enforcement talk by Louis E. Graham; "An Adventure in Beauty" wherein the women dip into interior decorating; an especially comprehensive program on "Word Painters of Today," an address by Miss Sara M. Soffel on "What's Going on in the World," the annual luncheon, a musicale, a play and a review of the year.

Van Etten will take the club "Rushing Through Russia" at an evening meeting at which the junior members, the families of club members and the Parent-Teacher Association will be guests. Steffan Q. Hays is to give several illustrated lectures from time to time and other interesting plans have been made for the year.

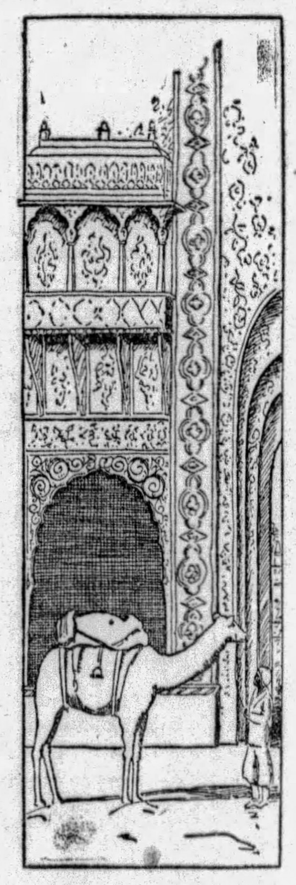
"How Can I Finish My Garments in the Modern French Manner?"

Every woman who sews knows that it is the finishing touches that make her garment. The newer patterns copy the French dressmaker styles—using inverted tucks, darts, rolled hems, new treatments of picot edges and such modern means to smartness and distinction.

Tomorrow at 2:30 Miss Olive McKay will ably handle this subject of French dressmaker touches for you, explaining how these newer effects may be secured. You will enjoy the subject especially because of the fact that it is made so easy to understand.

Three Fabric Stylists Are at B & B This Week in Connection With the October Silk Sale.



Initial Showing

Persiakhan Rugs

Pittsburgh's first showing of the marvelous imported Persiakhans—rugs which so closely resemble Orientals that a close scrutiny will scarcely reveal the difference.

Reproductions That Rival the World's Finest Oriental Patterns

Many of them copied from famous antique rugs hanging in foreign museums. The colors, designs and irregularities that distinguish Orientals are faithfully reproduced. Indeed, even in texture and quality of yarn it is difficult to notice the difference. See them and compare.

Prices That Rival Those of the Better Domestic Rugs

9x12	$195	10x17	$365
8.3x10.6	$185	12x20	$550
9x15	$295	6x9	$116.50
10x14	$300	3½x6½ ft.	$50.00

STOCK OFFERING ANNOUNCED

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 3.—Bessemer Securities Company is offering shareholders 20,000 shares of capital stock at $30 per share, on basis of one new share of each eight now held. The new stock will be issued as of January 1, 1930. A year ago the company sold 30,000 shares at $30, and with the current offering will have 170,000 out of 200,000 shares outstanding. Proceeds of the current offering will be employed for expansion purposes.

The company has acquired a tract of valuable land in Pittsburgh, adjoining the plant of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company, which will later be used for cement manufacturing purposes. It has purchased additional stock in the Peerless Egyptian Cement Company, of Detroit, which it now controls; purchased a large tract of land along the lake in Michigan, containing valuable limestone deposits, and will use part of the funds to retire bonded indebtedness.

The company also has an option on 10 per cent of the outstanding stock of the Old Metal Process Company, which owns and is exploiting the Steckel Process for cold rolled steel and other metals.

Big Increase Seen In Oil Production

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Valentin R. Gafias, manager of the foreign oil department of Henry L. Doherty & Co., estimates that the world's petroleum production this year will approximate 1,647,000,000 barrels, an increase of about 145,000,000 barrels, or nearly 11 per cent over 1928. Last year's gain over 1927 was 2½ per cent. Garfias reported that production in the United States this year should reach 1,610,000,000 barrels.

AMOCO-GAS

"They've got to talk cost per mile to me" -says the truck fleet operator

"PROMISES don't move goods around the city or across the country. Telling me that I'll get more power by using some imitation of AMOCO-GAS doesn't stir my interest much. I know that AMOCO-GAS will give my trucks all the power the drivers can use. The thing that interests me first, last and all the time is cost per mile--and AMOCO-GAS has been giving me the lowest cost per mile for years! I'm not guessing. I know!"

Cost per mile is the true measure of the cost of any gasoline or motor fuel. And it's on that basis that AMOCO-GAS has become the choice of owners of truck fleets, taxicab and bus operators and individual motorists who check actual cost per mile. Most miles per gallon--least cost per mile--that's the big thing to remember about AMOCO-GAS!

SPEED FIGHT AGAINST BUS FARES

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE fire laddies of the state move away tonight after what everyone of us term the best convention we've had. Chief Richard Smith, of Pittsburgh, helped put the affair over in a big way, with engine houses and many business houses displaying decorations. The whoopee part of the program was fine, old-timers having to go back as far as the tri-state convention in Parnassus to remember when things were as lively.

Havey J. Boyle

Habit is a strange thing, but always explainable. The fireman who insisted on retiring to his hotel room every night by the fire escape route could hardly be blamed. He explained he always feels stuffy when he has to use the elevator and the door instead of the handy fire escape and a window.

The sidewalks will seem just a little dull after the boys go home. No volunteer will feel quite the same for a few days after the close of the great convention.

And speaking of firemen, Lee Tracy, the actor at the local opera house, now carries a most curious lucky-piece. It's a fire plug. Just how he got it is a bit of mystery as when questioned about it Mr. Tracy passes his hand across his forehead and does his best to remember—to no avail. The best theory is that someone tied to him one night.

THE "late watch" on any newspaper must be a fellow with an eye for research. It is when the late watch man is on that the telephone rings to bring numerous and strange queries. People get talking at their homes, a controversy arises, and someone suggests getting the right answer from a newspaper. "How old do you have to be to be President?" "How old was Sullivan when he lost the heavyweight title?" "What amendment gave the vote to women?" "How old is the Mayor?" They are some of the questions that are popped.

Artful cadgers loaf around the City-County Building, ready to brace the numerous politicians who move in and out of the municipal building. One politician always keeps seven or eight dimes handy to take care of his customers. One man in public office a few years ago rightfully declined to pass out a piece of change and when he turned his back he was struck on the head by the enraged tramp. It took him several years to recover from the cowardly and vicious attack. Some of the bolder bums actually walk into men's offices, but in the main they linger just outside the doors to stalk their prey.

THE jig-saw puzzle is coming with the well known bang. Book stores in town report a big demand for them among men and women who go in for much book-buying. Oldsters report the jig-saw was quite the vogue 15 or 20 years ago and is now doing a great come-back. Perhaps investors who were bullish on Mah-Jong may get a little of their money back out of the jig-saw revival.

The new and somewhat gorgeous taxicabs in town are also badges of honor for their drivers. The boys with the best records get the new cabs. Bad boys who make their brakes screech and dash onto another motorist's shoulders must drive an old one until they promise to be better.

$300,000 COST OF MAYORALTY CAMPAIGN

At least $300,000 was spent to nominate a Republican candidate for mayor of Pittsburgh.

The campaign committee for one entry—Judge Richard W. Martin—spent almost $75,000, according to a report filed in the office of the clerk of courts.

Mayor Charles H. Kline and Councilman James F. Malone, the other candidates, each spent at least that much and probably more, although their committees have not yet filed their reports.

Treasurers of campaign committees need not file their reports until two weeks from today.

PRIMARY COSTLY

The total will indicate, according to reports, that the primary was one of the most costly elections ever held in Pittsburgh.

The Martin committee report, filed by Grant Curry, treasurer, revealed that Mrs. Francis J. Torrance, of Sewickley, was the largest contributor to the judge's campaign. According to the report, she gave $21,000.

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, contributed $250, while A. L. Humphrey, of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, gave $200. Heirs of the late William Flinn were large contributors, his son, Rex E., leading the list with $1,000. Judge James H. Gray gave $300. The Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson, of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, contributed $100, while the Rev. A. V. B. Hightower, Negro candidate for Council, gave $25.

$1,884 GIVEN M'ARDLE

Other heavy contributors were: James N. Selden, $1,000; David B. Johns, $500; Senator Frank J. Harris, $1,000; R. E. Withers, $1,000; Ella K. McKelvy, $1,500; Louis Wechsler, $4,000; Thomas J. Ingram, $1,500, and Martha A. Jamison, $1,000.

The personal accounts of Representative M. J. Muldowney and Councilman P. J. McArdle, contestants in the close councilmanic battle won by the former, arrived at the office late yesterday. Muldowney reported contributions of $350 and expenditures of $513. McArdle reported contributions of $1,884 and expenditures of $2,950.

Controller Henry Oliver Evans, seeking re-nomination, reported no contributions and expenses totaling $3,719.

Thomas A. Dunn, Democratic mayoralty candidate, spent $442.48, and had no contributions. Thomas A. Dougherty, Democratic candidate for jury commissioner, spent $2,185, and had receipts of $2,505, the candidate contributing $1,000, County Chairman David L. Lawrence $500, and others lesser amounts.

MALONE ACCOUNT

James F. Malone, Republican mayoralty candidate, in his personal account, showed contributions of $3,365 and expenditures of $3,105.92, with $313 unpaid. The "regular Republican" organization campaign committee was paid $1,500 by Malone. I. A. Simon, with $1,000, A. H. Burchfield with $500, and J. A. Williams, with $250, were the principal contributors.

James L. McInerney, candidate for sheriff, showed cost of $425, with a single contribution of $200 by Joseph N. Mackrell. A. T. Lorch, sheriff candidate, showed cost of $526.10, and Arthur Storer, $543.45. Both withdrew before the final campaign spurt.

Max G. Schoonmaker, candidate for judge of the County Court, showed cost of $2,505.71.

L. H. Lee, treasurer for C. B. Connelley, councilmanic candidate, showed $2,059.15 expended and $610 unpaid. The "real Regular Republican organization" committee was given $1,000 by the Connelley treasurer.

PHANTOM VOTE EVIDENCE GIVEN GRAND JURY

Witnesses Rushed to Secure Continuance of Inquiry; Fraud Recount Under Way

All routine matters were dropped in the alleged "phantom" assessment probe today as witnesses were rushed before the Grand Jury by First Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

The haste was necessary so that at least a preliminary presentment could be prepared for the court tomorrow to show sufficient evidence of fraud to justify District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner requesting the jury to continue the investigation. The jury's term ends tomorrow and if insufficient evidence is found, it may be necessary to ask that the new jury be ordered to take up the probe.

CONFERENCE SECRET

No information was divulged of action taken at a confcrence between Main & Company officials, Gardner and Park, last night in the district attorney's office.

With the majority of the 71 witnesses subpenaed from the First District, Third Ward, already called, the jury will reach the remainder today and the 100 called from the Second District. It has been intimated that the investigators have been unable to find the source of alleged bogus tax receipts.

Twenty-seven more ballot boxes were ordered in for a recount of ballots by the special recount board today. Judge James R. Macfarlane granted a petition in behalf of Councilman P. J. McArdle for a recount in the following districts:

ADDITIONAL DISTRICTS

Second Ward, Second, Fifth, Seventh, Ninth and Tenth districts; Sixth Ward, Second and Eighth districts; Ninth Ward, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Fifteenth and Seventeenth districts; Twelfth Ward, Ninth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Fourteenth districts; Twenty-first Ward, Seventh, Sixteenth and Twenty-first districts; Twenty-second Ward, First, Second, Third, Sixth and Fifteenth districts; Twenty-sixth Ward, Twenty-second and Twenty-third districts.

These will increase to 49 the number of boxes now in the hands of the recount board.

The first to be recounted was the First District of the Sixth Ward in which Judge Thomas C. Jones and Max V. Schoonmaker were credited with zero and Assistant District Attorney Harry R. Phillips, the only other candidate for county court judge, received 524 votes. Four districts in Sharpsburg will then be counted. The other districts to come under the scrutiny of the board are: Seven districts in the Fourth Ward; six in the Fifteenth Ward, three in Wilmerding and one other district in the Sixth Ward.

OFFICIAL TALLY READY

The ballot boxes have been brought in under the act of 1927, which provides that three electors in a district by posting a $50 bond, may bring a box in for recounting if fraud is believed to have been perpetrated.

The recount is being conducted by 15 members of the returning board which finished its work yesterday. The recount committee in charge of the work was appointed by an order of Common Pleas Court and is composed of Ward Bonsall, Paul McKeever and John A. Witt. Similar action following the 1928 election resulted in wholesale convictions and pleas of election board officers on charges of fraud and negligence.

Human Speed Has No Limit, Says Surgeon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—There is no limit to human speed insofar as man's physical makeup is concerned in the opinion of Dr. J. R. Poppen, flight surgeon of the United States Navy.

Dr. Poppen expects the speed record set by Commander Orlebar, of the British Schneider cup team, to be raised several times within a year, and many times thereafter, with no ill effects to pilots.

"Speed itself will never stop if properly accelerated and decelerated," he asserted. "It is merely a question of achieving body adjustment to terrific physical factors never before known to man."

COAL COMPANY POLICE IN LINE

The Pittsburgh Coal Company's coal and iron police force will be found to be in strict conformity with the new law when it goes into effect on October 18, President J. D. A. Morrow said today.

The men chosen satisfy all the requirements as to residence and reputation, he said. The force, numbering about 300 when the miners' strike was at its peak, was reduced during the past year to 21—one policeman for each of the mines and three higher officers. The best men of the force were retained, Mr. Morrow said, all being eligible to serve under the provisions of the new law.

The coal company's police have been measured for the new forest green uniforms required by the statute. The uniforms have been received, and will be donned within a few days, President Morrow stated.

The Carnegie Steel Company, largest employer of "industrial police," as the coal and iron officers are hereafter to be called, has not procured forest green uniforms for its men. Permission was granted by the authorities at Harrisburg, it was said, to continue wearing the old uniforms until they are worn out, and it is expected the men will not be furnished with the new ones until the regular time for new suits comes around next spring.

SUPREME COURT SPEEDS METRO VOTE APPEAL

Prompt Decision Expected On Error Plea in Denial Of Right of Re-Submission

Counsel for the Metropolitan Plan Commission and the County Commissioners argued before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court today that the Common Pleas Court erred in holding that further legislation was necessary before the charter for a Greater Pittsburgh co-terminous with Allegheny County could be resubmitted to the voters.

C. K. Robinson, attorney for the Metropolitan Plan Commission, read the constitutional amendment authorizing the re-submission of the charter, which states:

APPROVAL HINTED

"If rejected, the said charter may be resubmitted to the electors in original, new or modified form at any subsequent election until adopted."

At this point Justice John W. Kephart emphatically remarked:

"How in the face of that language did the court below find there was no authority for re-submission? I do not see any distinction between 'shall' (which applies to the special election) and 'may.' It seems to me the County Commissioners may re-submit the question."

William M. Hall, attorney for John P. O'Connor, who opposes the re-submission of the charter to the voters, argued the constitutional amendment was not effective without additional legislation.

BRIEFS ORDERED

Chief Justice Robert von Moschzisker questioned the procedure under the declaratory judgment act, after ascertaining that the county commissioners had taken no definite action directing the re-submission or refusing to direct the re-submission. He declared that no controversial subject was involved in the appeal, as required under the act, and referred to a decision of the Supreme Court about six months ago holding that the requirements of the act must be observed.

The court directed that briefs be submitted, and will render its decision later.

While doubt exists that a decision may be handed down in sufficient time to permit the question, event of a favorable finding, to be placed upon the ballot for the general election, an impression existed today that the Supreme Court may act promptly on the appeal with this end in view.

COMMISSION HEARING ASKED

Public Service Body Urged To Set Date for Protest Against 25-Cent Fare

The fight of the Allied Boards of Trade against the 25-cent bus fare will soon be brought before the Public Service Commission. Attorneys have asked that a date be set for the hearing.

Complaint was filed against the rates being charged by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company by George A. Young, president of the Twenty-seventh Ward Board of Trade, acting in co-operation with the transportation committee of the Allied Board of Trade, on March 1. This action was taken following exposure by the Sun-Telegraph that Pittsburgh is the only city in which 25 cents is charged for ordinary bus transportation within city limits.

REQUESTED DELAY

The naming of a date for the hearing of the case had been delayed by the commission at the request of attorneys for Mr. Young and the Allied Boards of Trade.

Harry Bastow, recently elected president of the Allied Boards, in discussing the request for a hearing said:

"We are ready to carry this fight to a finish and to free Pittsburgh of the unjust discrimination being shown against its people by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company.

"The transportation committee has been gathering information on the costs of bus operation and has been securing the co-operation of experts to show that a charge of 25 cents is unwarranted. We are now ready to present this information to the commission.

LOWER RATES OFFERED

"The fact that the independent organization is willing to give bus service from downtown Pittsburgh through West View at a 15-cent rate, and that the Oriole Motor Coach Company already has a 15-cent service in operation to Mt. Lebanon is sufficient evidence of the fact that the Pittsburgh Motor Company is taking advantage of its position in the city to grossly overcharge the public."

W. G. Negley and George P. Kountz are acting as counsel for Mr. Young and the Allied Boards of Trade in the action being taken against the bus lines.

CHEAPER ELSEWHERE

The series of articles in the Sun-Telegraph, which resulted in the action taken by the Allied Boards of Trade, showed that bus fares of 10 cents are in force in New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee and other cities. It also showed that New York has some 5-cent lines and that the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey is operating a bus system on a 5-cent zone system.

The distances covered in these other cities are as great as or greater than on the Pittsburgh lines. In New York and Philadelphia a seat is guaranteed to every passenger, while in Pittsburgh it is frequently necessary for passengers to stand.

The Sun-Telegraph survey also showed that in all these cities the bus lines are being operated on a profitable basis and that the accommodations are comparable to those in Pittsburgh.

PAIR MARATHON TOWARD ALTAR

"Mr. Louis Nemeth requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of his daughter, Teeny, to Mr. Anthony De Phillips on the morning of Wednesday, the sixteenth of October, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, at nine o'clock, St. Augustine's Church, Thirty-seventh and Butler streets, Pittsburgh.

The gist of the matter is that Tony and Teeny are going to be married.

Surely you remember Tony and Teeny. Tony was the glum-looking boy, Teeny the smiling brunet who marathoned their way to dancing fame.

They're going to be married all because of it.

They met through a dance contest. It happened in the basement ballroom, Danceland, two years ago. Tony had never seen Teeny until one night a week before.

"Say," Tony suggested, "we should dance in the marathon."

They did. They finished second. They remained to the finish in the Motor Square Garden marathon and the subsequent Duquesne Garden marathon.

And out of it all comes what the fictionists write about—romance and orange blossoms.

"Sure," says Tony, "we'll dance in any marathon after we're married. A fellow has to support his wife, you know."

SALVATION ARMY GETS $30,000

Thirty thousand dollars has been obtained by Salvation Army workers as a result of their first day's canvass in Allegheny County in the annual Home Service Appeal, according to Divisional Commander, Lieut. Col. Charles B. Campbell.

The drive opened Tuesday and is to be conducted during the first 12 days of October. The goal is $110,000, the amount set by the Army's advisory board as necessary to continue the work of the Army here for another year.

Approximately 1,000 workers are in the field in behalf of the Army. The women canvassing the suburban districts and business men working among their friends in the downtown district.

Air Marker at Carnegie To Be 25 Feet High

By MAX HENRICI

Carnegie plans to proclaim its identity to aviators and to tell them where they may land in safety. This is to be done by a huge sign—probably the largest in the Pittsburgh district—on the roof of the O. Hommel Company's building.

"CARNEGIE" is to be blazoned to the fliers in letters 25 feet high and four feet wide on one side of the roof, while on the other there will be an arrow pointing to Mayer Field, the nearest airport, and indicating its distance as two miles.

The sign is being erected under the auspices of the Carnegie Chamber of Commerce, with C. J. Nussbaumer, A. W. Schreiber and Glenn P. Knouse as the committee in charge.

Anthony P. Jim, president of the Aliquippa Kiwanis Club, reports the club has constructed an air-mark on the roof of the Harding High School workshop. The sign is of lumber covered with sheet metal and stands 10 inches above the roof as a protection from snow.

The Borough Council of Rockwood, Pa., plans to air mark that town.

Identifying marks are needed for the airways as well as for the highways. They promote safety by letting lost pilots re-orient their ships, and by informing them where, if emergency arises, they may alight without hazard.

Department of Commerce recommendations as to how such signs should be painted may be had on application to the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, Oliver Building, which is co-operating with the Sun-Telegraph in the campaign to have Western Pennsylvania properly air-marked.

MARK YOUR TOWN.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 3.

If Shearer is as important and can do as much as the Senate, and our whole government seems to think he can, why don't we just hire him ourselves to keep us out of any other wars?

It's the cheapest insurance I know of, for he is certainly not high-priced if he has done what they think he has.

I am in favor of hiring him for the farmers. Of course, it would have to be on credit, but we could use him.

I see where he has postponed his questioning of Senators Allen, Shortridge and Robinson till after Premier MacDonald's visit. We don't want him investigating the United States Senate while our distinguished guest is here.

Yours, WILL.

Clark Requests Allegheny General Attaches Attend; Body Claimed by Brother

Investigating the death of Percy S. Ohl, 45, of Salem, O., Public Safety Director James M. Clark today invited Allegheny General Hospital attaches to appear before the police board Monday.

The arresting officers of the prisoner who died after a hospital interne is alleged to have refused to render treatment have been ordered to appear before the board that day to give the police version.

DIED ON STRETCHER

According to the report of Wagonmen John Hooper and David Wolfson, attached to Central Police Station, after Dr. W. C. Marshall is alleged to have declared the prisoner drunk and only "playing possum," they were taking the prisoner from the emergency room on a stretcher when a nurse declared the man was dead.

The report charges they returned to the emergency room and asked for another examination, but that the doctor waved them aside. They then called Sergt. Frank Goebler, who advised them to take the prisoner to Mercy Hospital. The prisoner was declared dead upon arrival there.

The body was claimed at the morgue by Ohl's brother, J. Arthur Ohl, of 29 Wheeler avenue, Ingram, according to the coroner's record.

KLAN ORGANIZER FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL

Man Believed H. C. Howard Suffers Heart Attack In Monongahela House

Believed to have suffered a sudden heart attack while in an upstairs washroom of the Monongahela House, Smithfield and Water streets, early today, a man believed to be Harry C. Howard, 55, of Pittsburgh, a Ku Klux Klan organizer, was found dead by a maid.

Among papers on Howard's person was one asking that Dr. Corrine Howard, of the Jenkins Arcade, be notified in the event of his death. The office of Dr. Howard, a naturopath, was closed.

Several cards and newspaper clippings which dealt with the suit of R. C. Creager, national Republican committeeman of Texas, against Collier's Weekly, in connection with an alleged expose of Ku Klux conditions in that state, along with clippings from local newspapers relative to Klan activities, were found on the body by morgue attaches. Howard registered at the Monongahela House last night and gave his address as Pittsburgh.

ACCORSI BACK TO FACE TRIAL FOR MURDER

Accused Slayer of State Trooper Loses Battle To Prevent Extradition

Salvatore Accorsi was lodged in jail last night to await trial for the shooting to death of State Trooper John Downey, at Acmetonia, in August, 1927, following his return here from New York by Trooper John Tomek, of Troop A, Greensburg.

Accorsi was recently idicted for murder in connection with the shooting of Downey following a Sacco-Vanzetti protest meeting. Downey was shot while attempting to disperse a crowd after state police had stopped the meeting.

A hunt for Downey's assailant led to New York, where Accorsi was arrested last summer. Allegheny County authorities emerged victors in a legal battle that was begun in the prisoner's behalf. Assistant District Attorney J. E. Kalson produced copy of the indictment in the Appellate Division of the New York courts and the return of Accorsi to Pittsburgh was ordered.

$50,000 ASKED FOR BEATING BY COAL POLICE

Castle Shannon Man Sues Pittsburgh Terminal Co., Alleges Brutal Treatment

He will be permanently crippled, as the result of arrest and beating by coal and iron police, Christopher Dills, of Castle Shannon, alleged in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court against the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, seeking to recover $50,000 damages. Dills stated that while walking along a highway in Castle Shannon October 8, 1927, he was arrested by company police and taken to the police barracks.

While detained there he declared he was so severely beaten by the police that he suffered numerous injuries about the head and body and that blood vessels in his legs were ruptured.

He stated he was afterwards taken to No. 1 Police Station in Pittsburgh and charged with inciting to riot and resisting an officer, on information made before Justice of the Peace Ira Edmundson, of Mt. Lebanon.

The statement alleged that he was held for court, but that the grand jury ignored the charge.

Dills charged malicious arrest and declared the beating was inflicted under the direction of a company superintendent.

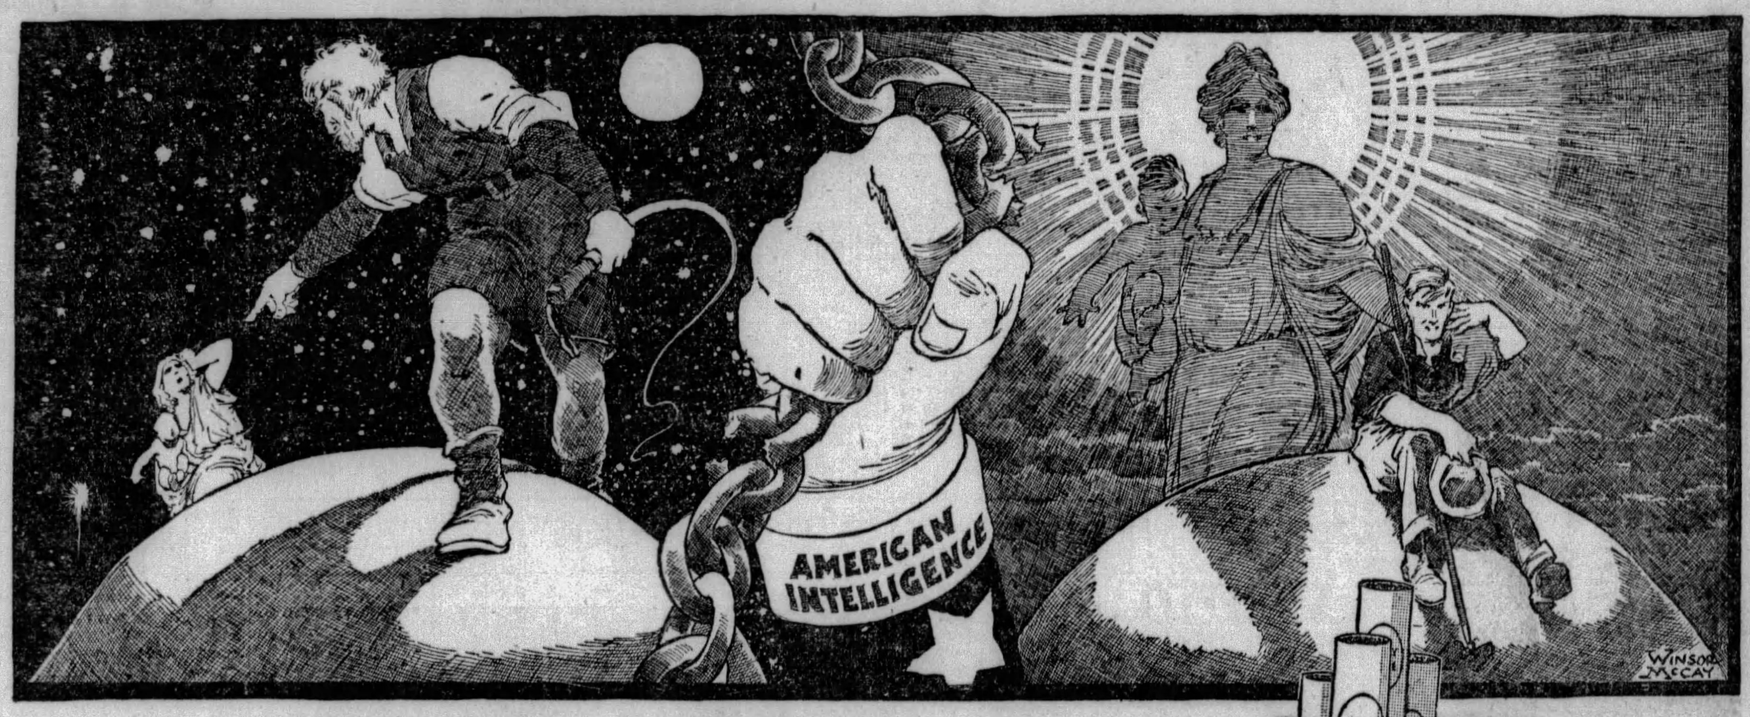
Women Are Free!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Legally, politically and socially woman has been emancipated from those chains which bound her. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has exploded the ridiculous theory that forced the stigma of inferiority upon a sex.



"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

STATE FIREMEN PARADE AS CONVENTION HERE CLOSES

AWARDS MADE FOR LARGEST UNITS

Women Join March as Rain Yields to Sunshine; Grand Ball Is Feature

Thousands of firemen, clad in colorful uniforms, paraded along thronged thoroughfares this afternoon as the closing event in the golden anniversary of the State Firemen's Association.

Clouds gave way to the sunshine half an hour after the scheduled parade time, and ideal weather prevailed throughout the march. Firemen from throughout the state represented their home towns. Close to 100 pieces of fire apparatus, from the ancient Pat Lyon and Good Will, Pittsburgh's first engines, to the modern equipment, rolled along the route.

WOMEN IN PARADE

Following a mounted police escort and heading the parade were Fire Chief Richard L. Smith, the ladies' newly elected president, retiring President James E. Chalfant and other officers of the state and international organizations. Among the early marchers were the only women, 25 members of Lewistown's Brooklyn Hose Company No. 3 Auxiliary.

Aside from the Pittsburgh firemen, largest representation was divided between Greensburg and Uniontown, with Washington largely represented. The fire apparatus represented many Western Pennsylvania towns. Two comic entries were contributed by the Millvale and Glendale volunteers.

PARADE IN REVIEW

The parade proceeded from Fifth avenue and Dinwiddie street to downtown and over Sixth Street Bridge to Montgomery avenue, where the marchers passed before the reviewing stand.

A grand ball and show was held last night at Syria Mosque for the officers and delegates, attended by members of the women's auxiliary. The closing business session was held in Moose Temple yesterday afternoon when Chief Smith was elected president and Allentown was selected as the next convention city.

Roomer Trapped By Flames Saved

Police and firemen led Richard Leslie, a roomer in the home of John Letzkus, at 6866 Frankstown avenue, to safety late yesterday when fire broke out in the basement of the dwelling. Father Asks $30,000 For Girl's Injuries

The Borough of Wilkinsburg was sued for $30,000 damages by George A. Pyle, in behalf of his daughter, Dorothy, a minor, in an action filed in Common Pleas Court. The bill, presented by Safety Director James M. Clark, provides for a sergeant at $2,160 a year; two matrons at $1,278; two elevator operators at $1,416; and two janitors at $4 a day. The measure provides $1,800 for new furniture and authority to buy coal as needed.

Jeanie Sends Plea to Ann Marie for Money to Prepare Wedding

CHAPTER XLII.

ANN MARIE brought her paintbox and her organdies home from the office on Tuesday night.

But it was almost impossible to get any real work done in the flat.

On Wednesday night Neal insisted that they all go to the movies. They went—"Dutch treat."

On Thursday night Alice had a sick headache and wanted all the lights in the room turned out.

On Friday night George and Tom Terrell turned up, bringing Leota Ingram and Tillie Chapman with them.

They made "whoopee" all over the place until midnight, when the janitor came upstairs in his bathrobe and broke up the party.

"Don't you hate to have Leota Ingram in the same crowd with us?" Alice asked a half hour later when the two girls were getting ready for bed. "How does she happen to be such a good friend of Neal's?"

"Well, I don't really know," answered Ann Marie. "I've always wondered about it myself."

Alice gave a little snort as she opened her cold cream box and began to lather cream on her cheeks.

"Well, I'll bet if I were engaged to Neal I wouldn't have her hanging around him very much!" she said sharply. "She's much too goodlooking, and I saw her give him that come-and-kiss-me-before-anybody-sees-you look a couple of times tonight!— You'd better watch her step, Ann Marie!"

Ann Marie sighed. "If I kept my eyes on all the girls who are crazy about Neal I'd be pretty busy."

"Well, you won't have to worry about me much longer," said Alice with a laugh. "I'm going home Sunday. I want Jeanie to make me some summer clothes before she gets married . . . Neal is going to drive me home in your car."

One Sunday morning Alice broke all records and got up at 7 o'clock!

She had made her plans with Neal the night before to get an early start in the morning and escape the mid-day heat and the Sunday crowds on the roads.

For May had come in, hot as July. The town sweltered and smothered and got into its summer clothes for the first hot spell of the year.

But the morning was still cool and breezy in Neal's big studio room when Ann Marie unlocked the door at half-past seven and began to get breakfast.

She could hear Neal splashing and singing to himself in the bathroom beyond his dressing room as she moved about, setting up the folding table, spreading the snowy cloth and slicing the bread for the toaster.

"You're going to have a lonesome day all by yourself here, Ann Marie," Alice remarked when the three of them were having breakfast together a little later. "Neal won't be back 'til late tonight."

"I have so much work to do that I won't have time to be lonely," said Ann Marie.

She simply couldn't tell Alice that she was going to miss her. . . . She wasn't going to miss her. She was glad that she was going at last.

"I've just about made up my mind not to come back to town for a few days," Neal spoke up suddenly. "I've been thinking that I might stay with the Lawlers for a week or so, and do a little painting. I don't get much done up here, do I?"

It was on the tip of Ann Marie's tongue to say, "It's your own fault. You could get to work if you wanted to!"

But she didn't open her mouth. She knew by this time that the only way to get along with Neal was never to scold him or criticize him.

Like 99 men out of 100, he wanted a woman to flatter him and kowtow to him and tell him that everything he did was just right . . . And for months Ann Marie had been doing that. Partly because she was in love with him and blind to his faults. Partly because she was so soft and easy-going and good-natured.

"I shall miss you, Neal," she said quietly. "So please hurry back to me."

But, oddly enough, she did not miss him at all that hot Sunday.

She had all of her housework in both flats done by 10 o'clock.

Her own big room looked bigger than ever before with all of Alice's things gone out of it, and all of her own things back where they belonged.

A divine Sabbath peace settled down over the place. A sparrow chirped on a roof nearby and once, during the morning, a robin burst into a song that praised heaven and earth and the month of May.

The month of May. . . . Ann Marie smiled to herself a little bitterly as she thought of the plans she had made for the month of May this year. Of the long happy rides she had planned to take with Neal in the little car, skimming over the white sun-baked roads to the blue ocean for beach picnics and swims in the sparkling salt water.

"And I haven't even had a single ride in that car of mine!" she said to herself, and she began to laugh. "And now that Neal's taken it down home, goodness knows when I ever will get one!"

It was funny, and yet it was annoying to think that you owned a car and never got a chance to ride in it, yourself!

* * *

By the fifteenth of the month Ann Marie had finished all of the organdies for Janet Goodwin's three friends.

She packed them all up and sent them away, by parcel post.

Before the twentieth three checks—each of them for $40 had arrived, and Ann Marie banked them along with her weekly salary check on the following Saturday.

That afternoon she hunted up the address of the National School of Fine Arts in the telephone book and started out on a trip just to walk past it and take a look at it.

"I shall be in it soon!" she told herself. "If I keep on working hard and save my money I shall soon have enough to come here and start my drawing lessons!"

She looked up at the great closed door of the building as if it were the portrait of her dream. The dream she had had ever since she could remember—to be a really great painter, not just a hack-artist, doing fashion-drawings for Miss Hogan.

That night when she came back to the peace and quiet of the flat there was a special delivery letter for her lying on the floor just inside the door.

She stood, looking down at it for a moment, almost afraid to pick it up and open it. . . . The writing on it was Jeanie's fashionable up-and-down hand.

"What does Jeanie want now?" she wondered.

From her past experience with Jeanie she knew that she wanted something from her—and wanted it badly—or she would never have gone to the bother of sending her a special delivery letter.

She picked it up and tore open the envelope.

"Dear Ann Marie," Jeanie had written, "I am in an awful tangle, and I certainly am counting on you, dear, to help me out of it.

"Brooke and I are going to be married the first Saturday in June, and I have invited thirty people to the wedding.

"It will be just a simple wedding—a white-satin altar out in the side-yard, a few roses around the house, and a few sandwiches and cakes and ices for refreshments.

"But, would you believe it, Ann Marie, I don't know how I'm going to have it unless you help me a little. Dad owes everybody in town and the Boston Store has refused to let me charge the white satin I need for the altar and my wedding dress! Besides that, the grocery store won't let us run an account any more because we owe them so much. We have to pay for every loaf of bread we buy there—and I don't know how on earth I am going to buy the things for the refreshments unless you send me some money, dear Ann Marie.

"I would ask Uncle Hamby for some, but he has gone fishing up in Canada. There is no one left but you to help me, and if you don't I shall have to be married without any wedding dress and without any wedding supper. Alice wants me to borrow the money from Brooke, but I'd die of shame if I did that. As it is, he is going to provide the wine to serve with the supper.

"If you have any money at all—even $100—please do send it to me. I really need twice that much and don't know how I am going to get along if I don't have it. I'm just frantic with worry. Lovingly yours, Jeanie.

P. S.—Mrs. Leezy wants me to remind you that you owe her $25 for this month's payment on the car she sold you. Alice has learned to drive it, and has had only one small accident when she bumped into a tree and bent the fender."

Mary Decides to Break Off Her Engagement

"WHY can't you go to see Prince Georges?" I asked Mary with feigned sternness. "He has been pleading to see you, wishes to get up and come over here to your room, although he has been forbiddent to leave his bed. He is terribly worried about you, will not believe that you are all right until he has seen you for himself. You see he knew nothing after he was shot until he came back to consciousness in the hospital, and being an anxious and a suspicious young man, he is note quite satisfied with the reports we have given him that you are perfectly all right. You simply must go to see him, if only for a minute or two. Else we shall have him running a temperature again."

Mary shook her head obstinately, while a queer look, almost of terror, came into her eyes.

"He'll believe you, if you tell him on your honor I'm all right," she said. "And I just can't see him until he's strong again. I wouldn't hurt him for the world while he's in any danger of getting worse."

"How would you hurt him, Mary?" I asked, although a fairly shrewd guess of her meaning was mine.

"Because," she said, the crimson flush on her face deepening, "I—I—simply can't go on with it."

"With your betrothal, you mean," I asked, trying to gain time to deal with this unexpected complication of an already difficult situation.

"Yes. I thought I could. It seemed easy when I knew about Noel and—and Eleanor. And then when I found out who Georges was, I almost thought for a little while that I might even—it was like a novel, you know."

Her voice faltered the words, her eyes were averted from mine. I guessed that the innate wholesome honesty of her was ashamed of that fleeting temptation to forget her love for Noel which was bringing her nothing but trouble and anxiety, and accept the glittering future which Prince Georges' proposal of marriage had brought to her.

I put my hand over hers, and pressed it gently.

"'Yes, I know, Mary," I said, "and understand—more perhaps than you think. But—I must disagree with you on this. You have betrothed yourself to Prince Georges. You must not break it for awhile—not until things have adjusted themselves, and you must make yourself letter perfect in the role of his betrothed wife, so that neither he nor Princess Olina will have any cause for suspicion that you are only acting a part."

"Aunt Madge!" she exclaimed in astonishment. "You are giving me this advice!"

My own face flushed at her stressing of the pronoun, but I did not flinch. Too much was at stake for retreat now.

"My dear child!" I said with carefully intended reproach in my voice. "It was not I who advised your engaging yourself to Prince Georges although, as things have turned out, I think, it was a very wise proceeding, indeed. And, if you are thinking of Noel, have you forgotten that he is definitely betrothed to Princess Olina?"

Her eyes clouded, and her words came slowly, sullenly.

"I haven't forgotten anything, especially about that. But you need not tell me Noel's really in love with that—that—"

"Would you like me to quote Katies' favorite epithet?" I asked her, with an amused smile.

She flashed a defiant glance at me.

"I think 'boonch of soup greens,' would suit her perfectly," she said, then laughed with an apologetic note.

"Of course, I didn't meant that," she said: "but you can't expect me to send any 'dears' or 'darlings' or loving glanches in her direction. And to think she's going to be here, with Noel and Georges and me—all in the same house—and she and Georges thinking that—oh! my left earring! what a mess this is going to be. I just can't or won't keep on with it, I tell you. Ship me back to Aunt Harriet's for awhile until Georges gets to be king of Trees. He won't be so keen about me then—he'll be realizing everybody is cut out for a certain type of job, and that Olina has that one down pat while I—can't you imagine what I'd do to a stately sort of court like that of Trees—or any other for that matter. No, no, Auntie Madge. Nothing cooking for me on the engagement thing any longer. I'm not going to stand by and see that princess tabby cat drag Noel away, not while I have a brain to fight with."

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A STYLISH FROCK WITH NEW FEATURES.

Satin was selected for this distinctive model. Diagonal lines are cleverly introduced and a group of plaits adds fulness at the left side. This is also a good style for moire, crepe or crepe satin. The sleeve is a fitted model.

The pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 38-inch size will require 4⅛ yards of 39-inch material. For the belt of contrasting material ⅛-yard 39 inches wide is required, cut crosswise. To finish with bias binding as pictured in the large view will require 2½ yards 1½ inches wide. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plait fulness extended is 1⅞ yard.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Household Hints

Place the link sausage in cold water over a low flame and let it come to a boiling point slowly. Pour off the water, place sausages in frying pan and brown.

In washing cut glass a squeeze of lemon juice in the water makes it sparkle brilliantly. It will also bring discolored brown shoes back to their original color. Fresh ink-stains and fruit juices can be removed from silk and cotton by sprinkling a pinch of salt on the mark and then squeezing lemon over it.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN.

The Personal Note

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper for me to answer my personal letters on the typewriter? I do work in my home with my typewriter, and as I have a family to care for, I do not find much time to answer by letter, and I receive many of them. I could keep these all answered if I could type them, but otherwise I just cannot answer them, for I receive as high as forty letters a week. O. L. K.

THIS question as to whether or not it is good form to write social letters on the typewriter has many adherents on both sides. All one can give on this subject is a personal answer, a question of choice and taste. And personally, typewritten letter, that is a purely social one, is not attractive and not indicative of the best taste. On the other side, however, there are people who maintain that life is so hurried nowadays and so full of duties that letters may be typewritten with taste. Your list of correspondents is certainly a high one, and you must have many close friends. If you find it impossible to answer all these letters by hand, I am sure that your friends will be so grateful to hear from you that they will welcome a letter, even though typewritten.

An Irritating Habit

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you advise me if it is good taste for a person to eat candy in a theater? Personally, I would just as lief see one chew gum as to see a person devour candy by the yard in a public place. Wouldn't you? E.

YES! Even if the person devours only half a yard! Really the well-bred person does not eat candy in a public place like a theater. And is there anything that makes you crosser than the person who chews the candy audibly, or who rattles the paper of the box or bag in which the candy has been reposing? And the chocolate always smells so messy—if it is chocolate candy!

The Divorcee's Name.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am a divorcee and am planning to go back to work. I wish to apply for a position by letter and am in doubt as to how to sign my name. Shall I sign Miss Jane Brown, my maiden name, or Mrs. John Smith, my marriage name? MISS J. B.

THIS depends on what form of name you have decided to use. There are two forms customarily used by a woman who is divorced. The first, and I think by far the best, is the use of the surname of her maiden name before the surname of her married name. That is, if Mary Elizabeth Graham has married and divorced John Farrell, she uses the name Mrs. Graham Farrell. That is the form used in the world of society.

The other form, one not regarded as such good form, is the use of the first or the first and last names of the maiden name and the last name of the married name, is Mrs. Mary Graham Farrell.

If you use the first form, your letter would be signed:

Very truly yours,
Mary Graham Farrell.
(Mrs. Graham Farrell.)

The Attitude Toward "In-Laws."

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been to see my sister-in-law about six times since I have been married. Should I continue to call on her? OUTSIDER.

YES. There may be many reasons that she may not have time to call oftener. The wise woman does everything in her power to keep her relationships with her in-laws as upstanding and healthy as possible, and I urge you to use this wisdom. Don't develop an over-sensitive attitude, and keep yourself in the frame of mind that "understands" and is not looking for social rebuffs.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Golf Widoows.

"WASN'T it lucky that we got our husbands, in the good old days before the Big War?" reflected Mrs. Green, cheerfully.

HELEN ROWLAND

"How do you know that we've GOT them?" retorted Mrs. Divot. "They started for the links at 9, this morning, and it's now nearly half-past three."

"Oh, we've GOT them, all right!" Mrs. Green assured her; "they are probably the last specimens of the 'tame husband' now in captivity, and the Museum of Natural History will some day offer us a big price for them. Of course, they are wedded to their golf—and we are only the corespondents in their lives. But, at least, we have the comfort of knowing that they are only chasing a little white ball, and not a flapper or a blonde or another man's wife; and they'll come back home by dark.

"That's because we had them safely tied and rivited, before women began taking the lock out of wedlock. Then, a married man WAS a married man, and no sweet, young thing had the audacity to come along and ask you to throw dice for your husband, after you had set your seal on him.

"The last 10 years have been an orgy of experiment for women; and for every experiment she has burned a finger or two—and come out wiser but sadder.

"She has tried fifty-fifty marriage, companionate marriage and part-time marriage. And, they have given her a wholesome respect for good, old-fashioned lifetime monogamy, and taught her that she is a one-man animal, after all.

"She has tried free-and-easy kissing, petting parties and casual love-making. And they have proved dead sea fruit, and taught her that variety in love is MAN'S game, and that she can't beat him at it. They have shown her that passing her favors around freely, like caramels or cigarets, just cheapens her wares, and have taught her the value of discrimination.

"She has tried going bare-legged, going bare-armed and going bare-backed; mannish haircuts; brazen frankness, and "lit-brother" stuff. And they have merely proved to her that, after all, FEMININITY is woman's greatest charm and asset. And now, she is going back to ruffles and curls and delicacy and daintiness.

* * *

"On the other hand she has ceased to be a mollusk and a millstone, and has learned how to put her shoulder to the wheel and be an honest helpmate, instead of a burden or a parlor ornament.

"She has gotten rid of whalebones and steel and false modesty and germ-catching skirts, and artificialty and self-consciousness. And she is more wholesome and companionable, if less mysterious and distracting.

"She is steadying down from her wild careening, and gradually getting back her balance and finding her right niche in life. And now, if she can only tighten the reins and pull on the curb, and yank man back into place again—"

* * *

"SOME JOB!" exclaimed Mrs. Divot derisively, "once you start a man going in any direction, he keeps right on going! Why did women ever give man his freedom, anyhow?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Welfare Organizations and National Health

HOW many are there who think of social work as charity pure and simple? I fear many fail to realize the progress of the times. We overlook too many things that have to do with improving the welfare of the public.

DR. COPELAND

The average person who does not suffer from any particular illness, or who is not in need of any social help, has little knowledge of what is being accomplished in some cities. They never come in contact with the fine work that the welfare organization groups are doing.

The Charity Organization of New York and the Welfare Council of New York City have co-operated together recently in issuing a directory of social agencies in the city. These have to do with better housing conditions, help for the homeless, homes for the aged, legal aid and help for the immigrant, foreign-born and the traveler. In addition, there are protective and correctional agencies.

In New York City alone there are 1,100 social agencies. There are more than 300 organizations engaged in family welfare work. Eighty of these are relief societies. There are 6 organizations for promoting better housing conditions; 23 to help the homeless; 92 homes for the aged; 11 legal-aid services; 50 agencies to assist immigrants, foreign-born and travelers; 70 protective and correctional agencies for adults. In many of the 470 agencies engaged in some form of child welfare they also carry on health work, family welfare or recreational, as well as educational, activities and neighborhood work.

There are 263 hospitals and 1,410 clinics dealing with health problems of the city, besides 112 infants' health stations. Also there are 27 nursing services, 67 institutions for convalescents, 146 services for mental hygiene and 36 health administration and educational organizations.

It is interesting to note that, with New York City "the social work capital of the world," there are 283 headquarters for national and international welfare agencies in the city. This great work represents an achievement which is significant of the broad and humane interest of public-spirited citizens in the public welfare.

The statistics of the work of these organizations show how much the improvement of the public health is due to their efforts. Without doubt there would be greater demands made upon the doctor and hospitals were it not for these worthy organizations. Let us do all we can to encourage this fine spirit.

It is to be hoped that other cities of the country enjoy these immeasurable benefits. I assume they do.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, October 4.

WHILE there are some sidereal hints of danger and precipitant situations on this day, yet there are so many signs that are considered auspicious, that with calm and well-managed enterprise there should be success and satisfaction. Speculation is under this hazardous ray, but diligence and patience spell gain and progress. Some advantages may also be responsive to diplomatic or strategic manipulation rather than aggressive and turbulent measures. Personal matters thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of progress and profit, but rather through diligence and perseverance than through rash or tumultuous or aggressive action or bold projects. Tact and quiet agreement may win where violence or strenuous attack would defeat. The domestic, social and affectional affairs may please.

A child born on this day may be clever and hard-working and should succeed through its patience and perseverance rather than through aggressive measures, although tact and stratagem may bring it some gain.

GUARD THE DANGER LINE

DISEASED teeth and gums are not only unattractive, but they may even cause rheumatism, nervous, heart and kidney disorders. Don't neglect your teeth and gums.

Your dentifrice should clean and polish your teeth and also protect against acids. For food particles are constantly fermenting and forming acids in the remote crevices about the teeth. That is why teeth frequently decay even with careful brushing. Especially along The Danger Line, that vital, delicate margin of tissue, where gums meet teeth—and along which are countless tiny crevices.

Squibb's Dental Cream is made with 50% Squibb's Milk of Magnesia—enough to reach every crevice and render acids harmless. The regular use of Squibb's furnishes vital protection to teeth and gums . . . to health and beauty. It guards The Danger Line! For Milk of Magnesia is acknowledged the safest, most effective antacid.

Squibb's Dental Cream contains no grit, no harsh astringents. It is soothing and delightfully flavored. Ideal for children. A large tube is only 40c at any drug store.

TWO-WAY BROADCAST WITH BERLIN RADIO FEATURE

KDKA to Send Program Over Ocean in Show Experiment Here

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

AN all-star program orginating on the stage of the Radio Show in Duquesne Garden will go into the farthermost parts of the earth tonight when KDKA utilizes its short wave plant in an attempt to establish two-way communication with Germany as a special feature of the show.

Fifty thousand watts will boom the program into the wilds of Africa, the sands of Australia, the frozen Antarctic and the main objective—Berlin. If the Berlin station operates efficiently and weather conditions over the Atlantic are favorable, KDKA will give visitors at the show the first real thrill of the week, the reception in Pittsburgh of a concert originating in the German capital.

Harry Reser, perhaps the greatest of banjo players and chief of the Cliquot Club Eskimos, heard over WCAE, and Norman Brokenshire, famous entertainer of the Columbia Broadcasting System, heard with the Nit Wits over WJAS, will arrive from New York this morning to entertain crowds throughout the day.

Madame Valia Valentinova, another popular Columbia artist heard over WJAS in the "Russian Village" concerts, will sing several numbers. Madame Valentinova has made a big hit at the show.

Frederick G. Rodgers, general program director of Westinghouse Broadcasting Stations and special announcer, will be at the microphone from 9 to 10 p. m. while Louis L. Kaufman, senior announcer at KDKA, will be master of ceremonies in the broadcast from 8 to 9 o'clock.

HOW TO JUDGE RADIO SET

A simple but remarkably effective method for judging quality of the reception of any radio instrument is offered by Wallace Russel, manager Standard Talking Machine Company, local Sparton distributor.

"Too often," says Mr. Russell, "a person who has been accustomed to the reception of an old instrument will confuse mere volume with the rich, round smoothness he hopes for. This is particularly true when the demonstration is heard in a store where surroundings are not favorable to careful analysis of sound.

"The best way to listen to radio music to judge its true richness is to hear it from some distance away. Go to the front or the rear of the store, or, if possible, into another room. Get well away from the set, but do not increase the volume much more than what you find pleasing when near the instrument.

"This is a fair and impartial test to apply to any radio set. Bear in mind that much of your listening at home will be in other rooms, and your enjoyment depends on this peculiar 'carrying' quality. You don't want mere volume. You want that full richness that exists independently of volume."

Career of Crosley, Jr., Passes New Milestone

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 3.—The meteoric career of Powel Crosley, Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation of Cincinnati, passes another milestone this month, for it was just eight years ago that Crosley radio sets made their first public appearance. At that time Crosley engineers designed and built several experimental sets incorporating the porcelain socket and booktype condensers for exhibition at the Chicago Radio Show.

Mr. Crosley's decision to enter the radio business was made on February 21, 1921. On that day he set out to buy a ready-made set for his little boy. The cheapest radio set then on the market, however, retailed at $130, an expenditure which was out of the question for the Crosleys at that time. Mr. Crosley decided then and there that a big market awaited inexpensive radio equipment.

Father and son built their own set at a total outlay of only $35. From that experience the extensive Crosley line of today developed.

A glance at the early training, education and experience of Powel Crosley, Jr. will reveal many of the secrets of his success. Military training, law schooling, financial firm experience, early experimentation in the automotive field, advertising, publicity and direct mail selling, all played a part in the life of this pioneer of the radio industry, and all have been important in the building of the Crosley Radio Corporation.

Powel Crosley, Jr., obtained his early education in the public schools of Cincinnati. Many of his schoolboy friends today hold important executive positions in the Crosley Radio Corporation. After being graduated from high school he was enrolled as a day student at the Ohio Military Institute in Cincinnati. Here Army officers taught him how to give and take orders and how to enforce discipline in a kindly but firm manner. Mr. Crosley's ability to make quick and correct decisions also is traceable to his military training.

Mr. Crosley entered the Cincinnati College of Law, but did not complete the course. He was attracted by the automobile industry, then in its infancy, and took a position as private chauffeur just to be able to potter around automobiles. He returned to the University of Cincinnati, where he studied blue prints, mathematics and formulae in the college of engineering long enough to enable him to venture into the automotive construction business.

During Mr. Crosley's brief career as an automobile manufacturer, he designed and built one of the first successful six-cylinder cars on the market. Others did not share his faith in the new business, however, and he was forced to abandon manufacturing when unable to obtain financial backing. He became connected with an automobile distributor in Indianapolis, gaining valuable experience in merchandising. He also worked for an advertising agency which was promoting the sale of auto accessories.

Mr. Crosley next developed and headed one of the first publicity departments in the automobile industry. Today all advertising for Crosley products must have his personal approval, and many of the corporation's most effective messages to the radio public have come direct from his own pen.

But Mr. Crosley found his greatest opportunity in the radio industry. While placing radio receivers within the reach of the masses, he obtained control of a small radio station. Just as the business of the original company has grown into the great Crosley Radio Corporation, so has the small five-watt broadcasting station grown into WLW, the most powerful station in the country. The Crosley corporation also operates Stations WSAI and W8XAL. The Crosley broadcasts cover every corner of the nation.

RADIO CABINET OBJECT OF ART

Just as the radio receiver has advanced from its crude assembly to its present stage of efficiency, so has the cabinet encasing it been developed with an eye towards the artistic and beautiful.

Tracing the progress of radio development from the beginning, W. J. Zucker, vice president and sales manager of the Stewart-Warner Corporation, has noted the decided influence of art in the manufacture of radio furniture. He pointed out that the demand for furniture craftsmanship favored the masters of the early periods, with the result that cabinetmakers of America are scouring the treasure spots of Europe for pieces characteristic of the designs of past centuries.

The Stewart-Warner Corporation anticipated this trend, it is said, and was early to adopt the dignified lines of such masters as Sheraton and other famous old English furniture makers.

HELEN KELLAR PAYS TRIBUTE

A striking statement on what radio means to the blind has just been made by Helen Keller, cooperating with the American Foundation for the Blind, the Radio Corporation of America and other leading radio manufacturers in supplying receiving sets to sightless persons.

"I do not think the ingenuity of man has ever devised a more pleasant way of distributing happiness," says Miss Keller, herself blind and deaf since infancy. "The instant a set is turned on, all the world crowds into the dwelling of our lonely blind friends. The silent room hums with interests. The thrilling pageantry of incidents furnish them with entertainment without end."

Radio Artists' Success Difficult to Analyze

By GEORGE ENGLES
Vice President and Program Director, National Broadcasting Company.

The secret of what makes a successful radio artist is as yet somewhat difficult to analyze. Its key lies perhaps in a combination of qualities that might be termed "air personality."

MUST KNOW ART

It is taken for granted that a successful broadcasting performer must first of all be an artist in his own particular medium—whether that be singing, playing, acting or speaking. Artistry, however, is by no means the only essential. One may be the finest of stage performers, holding and thrilling the last row in the balmony, and yet leave a radio audience cold and uninterested. The greatest artists sometimes do not broadcast as well as a lesser colleague who never faced a real audience and who might be a flat failure if he did.

Good radio artists invariably possess two qualities that seem to be directly opposed to each other, namely, tension and repose. In order to get across the air there must be a dynamic concentration—an intense absorption in what one is broadcasting. At the same time there must be a calm control that overrides the inevitable disturbances of radio. Engineers and control men may issue innumerable instructions. In the face of everything, the artist must go on, maintaining his poise no matter what happens. Temperament has no place in a broadcasting studio.

SINCERITY NECESSARY

Another quality that radio artists must possess is sincerity. In this, I believe, lies the power of holding an invisible audience. Tricks of manner, beauty of face, clever little distractions that catch the eye of a visible audience are of little avail. The radio audience can be impressed only through what it hears. So the only thing that counts is the quality of sound which penetrates the microphone.

CAN'T FAKE EMOTION

Emotion may be faked on the stage, but not over the air. Not that I am decrying the faking of emotion. In fact, I understand certain actors have found that they have a more moving effect on their audiences when they do not actually feel the emotion they are portraying, but simply project it automatically, watching their own performance with as cool a detachment as though they themselves were a part of the audience.

ENTERTAINERS COACHED

Some of our most popular and successful radio artists were entirely without microphone sense when they first came to the studios. They had to be kept on afternoon hours—when special coaching can be given—for several months before they were permitted to go on an important evening program.

We have had some grand opera and concert singers whose vocal control was so perfect that they needed no special coaching. Whatever modification was necessary could be done by the men in the control room and the engineers.

STUDIO MEN IMPORTANT

This brings me to that most important supplement to every good radio performance and that is skilled studio men. The best of radio performances can be ruined by stupid work on the part of these individuals. On the other hand any performance can be improved by a clever one. The studio engineer knows how to get the best effects out of the material at hand He knows how to tone down the great operative voice that it does not seem to shatter the loudspeaker.

To return to the radio artist—we have some twenty thousand people coming to the studios each year for microphone tests. The percentage of those who actually make radio appearances is very small—possibly one out of every hundred. This eloquently tells the tale of how few of the country's musically trained hordes possess the attributes that are essential to broadcasting.

TRIAD COMPANY HAS ROMANCE

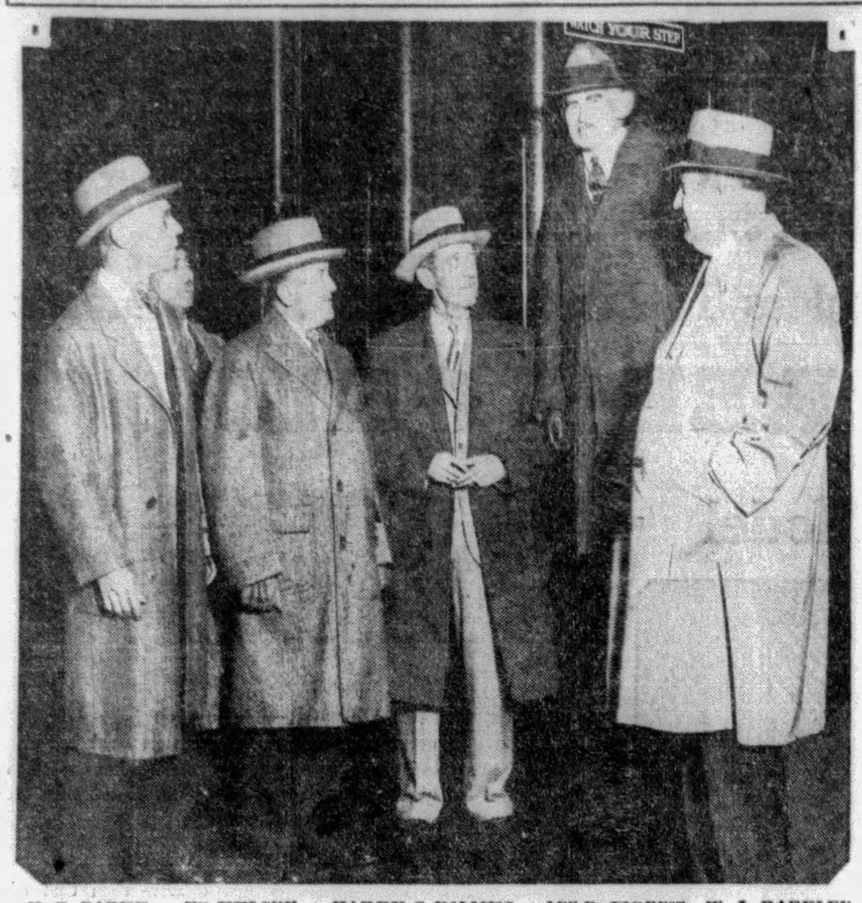
Romance, which plays a large part in everyday life, has its counterparts in present-day business life. This is best evidenced in the Triad Manufacturing Company, Inc., of Pawtucket, R. I., now making rapid strides in the radio tube field.

George Coby is president, Ely Egnatoff, treasurer, and William Copak, secretary, of the Triad organization. These men form a trio which is unique in itself in the world of business. Largely as the outcome of their earlier efforts the present organization came into being.

Then followed the trade name, Triad, indicating a three-cornered affiliation in business. Three men, long associated in business, pooled their best interests in the new tube enterprise. The business was founded on the third of the month, established in a three-story building in Pawtucket, and shipments made on the third of the month following its establishment.

The present three-cornered tube package then came into being. That the unusual package has aroused widespread interest in the trade is now a matter of history.

"FATHER OF RADIO" VISITS HERE



H. B. PARKE ED KELSKY HARRY C. HOLMES LEE DeFOREST W. J. BARKLEY

An honored guest at the Pittsburgh Radio Show yesterday was Lee DeForest, inventor of the radio vacuum tube. Along with Harry C. Holmes, sales director of the DeForest Radio Tube Company, and W. J. Barkley, vice president, he was met at the station by Ed Kelsky, president of Keps Electric Company, and H. B. Parkes, district salesmanager.

Goodwill Industries' Child Classes Open

Classes in sewing, fancy work, patriotism and 62 other subjects are now being formed for children at the Goodwill Industries, of 2801-2817 Liberty avenue, and at all its branches. Four stores, operated by the organization, are being supplied with merchandise renovated by persons assisted by the institution, which is making efforts to raise $25,000.

New Eveready Receiver Has Many Good Features

Unusually complete and thorough shielding which makes possible the realization of the full amplifying power of the screen grid tube is a feature of the new Eveready screen grid receiver, series 50. The new receiver, which is throughout a product of the laboratories and factories of National Carbon Company, is identical in respect to chassis in all models, and employs three screen grid tubes, type 224. It may, however, be obtained in a variety of cabinets, beautiful in line and decoration and designed to fit in with the furniture in all types of homes.

The aim of National Carbon Company in developing its screen grid receiver has been to turn out a set which at all times will "stay put;" one in which the chances of derangement during transportation, and later in use, will be reduced to a minimum. The foundation of the chassis is a steel box-section member, a shape which provides great strength and rigidity with the minimum of material. Insulation material is used only as insulation, not to bear the weight of parts or to maintain the accurate spacing of parts. The chassis has an exceptionally workman-like appearance, all exposed parts being finished with a baked enamel.

The Eveready Series 50 Receiver is an eight-tube, single-dial, antenna-operated, all-electric set, having three stages of screen grid radio frequency amplification, power detector and two audio stages, the last of which consists of two-power output tubes, type 245, in push-pull circuit. The screen grid tubes are used as radio frequency amplifiers. The circuit which has been developed by Eveready engineers not only produces the greatest possible amplification consistent with stability of operation, but also provides sufficient lee-way to allow for variations in screen grid tube characteristics.

Extra construction, intended to make the operation of the receiver stable under all conditions, includes the complete enclosing of the variometer, which tunes the antenna circuit, in a copper shield. Each tube, with its associated section of the gang condenser, is completely shielded on all sides from the adjoining stages. The interstage shielding between sections of the gang condenser is particularly thorough.

RADIO CONTEST LEAD SHIFTS

As the first contest of the four being conducted by Warner Brothers and Keps Electric Company draws to a close, it is impossible to forecast the winner. Thousands of votes came into the Temple radio dealers' stores every hour and the lead varies considerably.

All votes to count in this week's contest must be polled by midnight or they will be added to the totals of next week. It is only necessary to enter the contest once, the entry blank automatically crediting 1,000 votes for each contest.

Awards in this week's contest will be announced in Sunday's Sun-Telegraph.

Billie Dove went up with the leaders as far as could be determined yesterday. With an avalanche of votes coming in each hour, it is impossible to determine those in the first division.

2000 MILES with only an ICE PICK for Aerial

Illustrated is the beautiful Concert Grand. The top is of four-way matched butt walnut and surmounts side panels of diamond grained oriental walnut, flanking a central panel of figured bird's-eye maple the whole hand rubbed to a mirror-like polish. It contains the standard SILVER RADIO eight tube screen-grid chassis, electro-dynamic speaker, and screen collector.

Price absolutely complete, less tubes $173.00

Your dealer also has the Sheraton Lowboy at $160.00, and the Sheraton Highboy at $195.00.

IF YOU'RE the sort of human that thrills to fast cars and horses, that gets a big kick out of a 300-yard drive, or one of Babe's homers—then get ready for the biggest thrill of all from SILVER RADIO.

For SILVER RADIO is the one outstanding radio that does simply amazing things—like bringing to your living room programs two thousand miles away with only an ice-pick for aerial . . . like bringing in programs direct from Japan, Australia, and New Zealand, as SILVER RADIOS in the west do.

Because SILVER is that kind of a radio, your SILVER RADIO dealer is ready to make, in your presence, four of the most amazing tests you've ever witnessed—tests so stiff that you can pick without error the best radio. Ask your dealer to make the "Ice-Pick Test", the "Vanishing-Aerial Test", the "Hairpin Test", and the "Coin Test" . . . they'll show you the amazing difference between SILVER RADIO and all others.

SILVER RADIO—product of the manufacturer who introduced screen-grid radio to America in 1927—is guaranteed to get more programs without an aerial—it doesn't need any—than nine out of ten other radios will get with big interference-collecting outdoor aerials, and . . .

After all, why not have the best in your home, too? . . . tell your SILVER RADIO dealer you've "come to see his four amazing tests".

THIEL ELECTS LOCAL BOY

GREENVILLE, Pa., Oct. 3.—Pete Dimperio, tackle, has been elected captain of the Thiel College football team for this fall. Pete was named shortly after the opening game of the year against Temple and will lead the Rowley boys Saturday against Carnegie Tech. He is from Hazelwood and played his first football at Fifth Avenue High, Pittsburgh. He prepped at California Normal and Thiel four years ago to become one of the best tackles in history.

Hope-Harvey Eleven To Open Saturday

The Hope-Harvey Majestics, under the leadership of the popular North Side sportsman, Art Rooney, will open their season at Phipps playgrounds Saturday afternoon, meeting the Blawnox aggregation.

A number of stars will be in the Rooney lineup including Cad Reese, Andy Cutler, Pete Calec, O'Reilly and Jones, from Bucknell. Among the local independent stars will be Harp Vaughan, Toots Sweeney, Karcis, star lineman from Coraopolis, Woofty Wild, and Noggler. Red Hull, Kiski, and Glenn Wild, W. & J. also have joined the squad.

Following the Blawnox game, it is possible that Rooney's club will play almost all Sunday football with the leading independent clubs in the district. From the looks of the Majestic lineup, it would appear that West View is getting a serious contender for titular honors.

LEWIS BEATS LUTZE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former world heavyweight wrestling champion, won in two straight falls from Nick Lutze, Chicago, here last night. Lutze lost the first fall when he dived head first from the ring and failed to return within 20 seconds. Lewis slapped him to the mat for the other fall with a quick succession of head locks.

Kansas City Blues Defeat Rochester, 4-3

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 3.—(AP.—Joe Kuhel's triple in the tenth, scoring Knothe from first, broke up a pitcher's battle and gave Kansas City a 4-to-3 victory over Rochester in the first game of the Little World series here yesterday.

The hit that put Knothe on first was a sharp single to right and his first game, and when it was made the 9,000 fans in the stands sensed victory for the Blues. They sighed a moment later when the ever dependable Spurgeon, attempting to sacrifice, popped to Morrow. Then Kuhel hit a high one just over third, almost on the foul line and in a difficult spot for either Brown or Southworth to handle, and another sped home ahead of Southworth's peg.

It was a hard game for the International League champions to lose, for Herman Bell had slightly outpitched the veteran Tom Sheehan until the tenth. Sheehan improved as the game wore on and Bell faltered slightly toward the close of the three-hour struggle. The score:

Five St. Francis Gridders Crippled

LORETTO, Pa., Oct. 3.—With five St. Francis regulars on the crippled list and their chances of getting into action Saturday against Grove City College very uncertain, Coach Bill Donohoe is busy this week trying out his second-string men and trying to fill gaps that threaten to weaken the line considerably. Not only is Slatniske, the reliable guard, out of the game, but Salone, the other guard, failed to show up for practice yesterday and unless his injuries mend within the next few days, there is little chance of his making the grade on Saturday. Raymond Wilson, tackle, is on the injured list and one or two of the backfield men are nursing bruises that may keep them out of action when the first great test of the season comes on the stage at Grove City.

Birmingham Cops Dixie Series Title

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Birmingham won the Dixie Series title here yesterday by defeating Dallas, 7 to 5, in the sixth game of the series. The Barons victory was featured by the completion of two delayed double steals which were productive of a pair of runs.

Levis Is Eliminated By Edgar Yeomans

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 3.—(AP.)—West Virginia University's last hope in the singles of the Middle Atlantic States Intercollegiate tennis tournament was eliminated yesterday when Edgar Yeomans, of the University of North Carolina, defeated Herbert Levis, Canadian junior champion, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4. Rain interfered with play in the other sections.

In the only other match of the day, the team of Pumphrey and Thomas, of Hampden-Sydney College, eliminated Gooch and Braedy, of Washington and Lee, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.

Cyclonic Annexes Jockey Club Stakes

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Cyclonic, by Hurry on out of Volcanic and owned by Major J. Courtauld, won the Jockey Club stakes today.

Lord Derby's Bosworti was second, a short head behind, while R. Walker's Plymouth Hoe was third. Eight ran.

The betting on Cyclonic was 100 to 30, was even on Bosworth and was 33 to 1 on Plymouth Hoe.

The stakes were £2,000 with extras and the distance one and three-quarter miles.

BRENTWOOD READY

The Brentwood gridders, who held the North Side Odds to a tie in their opening game, will meet the Barry Club, of Oakland, Sunday afternoon at Brentwood Park. The Brentwood eleven is primed to meet all first class teams and managers wishing games should call Norman Seddon at Lafayette 3057 between 6 and 6:30 any evening.

TARTANS DRILL IN GYM

There was a feeling around the Tartan campus that John Karcis, the line crushing fullback of Monaca, would not be in the lineup when the Tartans knock off their home lid against Thiel College Saturday in the stadium. The line plunger has seen little service for the past two weeks. While his infected hand is responding to treatment, Coach Waddell believed it advisable to keep him on the sidelines for another week.

Unless something unforeseen occurs, Five Yards will swing into action against Western Reserve University at Cleveland a week from Saturday.

A driving rain yesterday failed to retard the practice sessions of the Skibos. The Tartans tookt o the gymnasium when the Plaid bowl, after 24 hours of incessant rain, resembled a miniature lake. Tennis shoes were given the players. They drilled for two hours in the gym, rehearsing Thiel plays which Scout Jimmy Robertson picked up at Philadelphia.

Ty Cobb Plans to Return To Baseball Next Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Ty Cobb will return to the baseball wars next season, after a year's vacation from the game. Home again after a summer in Europe with his family, the great Georgian has announced he had been approached with offers from major league clubs, both executive and managerial. He never will play again.

"The executive end of the game has the most appeal to me now," said Cobb. "I am not ready to say that I would not manage a club again, although, of course, I shall never play again.

"I have found that you cannot spend 24 years in baseball and then forget it. Tentative offers have been made and I believe I will be back in the game next year. I would prefer an executive job rather than active management for the manager is too good a mark to shoot at. He's out where a sharpshooter can hardly miss if he wants to fire a shot. The executive can hide in his office, or get under the stands. However, I never thought I was such a bad manager as many people thought."

The greatest player of his generation did not care to say whether the suggestions as to his return came from American or National league clubs.

Akron Auto Race Scheduled Sunday

AKRON, O., Oct. 3.—Entries for the auto race to be held at the Akron-Cleveland Board Speedway next Sunday, are beginning to pour in from all sections of the country, and indications are that there will be an exceptionally large number of contestants.

The program will consist of five events, time trials in which each entrant will compete for a position in the other events. A 10-mile sprint in which the first 10 cars qualifying in the best time are eligible. A 15-mile consolation race for those who did not qualify. A 25-mile free-for-all in which the 15 cars making the best time in the trials are eligible.

GREAT POWER IN KELLOGG

With the opening of the 1929 radio season Kellogg lifts the curtain on a new super-power era in radio design. Two radio receivers and one radio phonograph combination, reflecting in their construction the most modern tendencies of radio chassis and furniture design, will be exhibited by Kellogg at the Pittsburgh Radio Show.

These new receivers must be considered as entirely new developments—they are not merely refinements of former designs. The new A-C heater screen grid tubes are employed with marvelous results in a new circuit design requiring no neutralizing to prevent oscillation and securing tremendous gain per stage.

Danger Signals of High Blood Pressure

"Dizzy spells, hot flashes, pains in the head, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, and nervousness usually indicate high blood pressure," warns physician who found treatment to reduce it.

These are symptoms which show an accumulation of poisonous waste matter in the system or that one or more of your organs has weakened and caused the heart to be overtaxed. Check it at once for it is known high blood pressure brings on hardening of the arteries, and other serious conditions.

Norma, a physician's prescription, reduces blood pressure so surely it is regarded as a great medical success. Often one bottle brings prompt relief. Ask for Norma at Dow Drug Company, or any drug store.

47 Years' Practice Taught Dr. Caldwell

Many things about Men and Women

DR. CALDWELL loved people. He studied the habits of his patients and tried to improve their ways of living. His observations over a long period of time convinced him many people were ruining their health by a careless choice of laxatives. Then he determined to write a prescription which would get at the cause of constipation and correct it quickly and safely.

How successful his efforts were is best shown by the fact that the prescription he wrote back in 1885 has become the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness, and lack of appetite, or energy showed him that the bowels of men, women or children were sluggish. It proved successful in the most obstinate cases. So men liked it. Old folks liked it because it never gripes. Children liked its pleasant taste. And everybody is pleased with the gentle way it accomplishes its purpose.

By 1888, the demand for this laxative was so great that the doctor permitted it to be bottled and sold by druggists. Today you can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from any drugstore in the world.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Clark Warns Mackmen. | Knapik Star at Geneva.
Bush to Retain Shires. | Famous Pitcher Dead.
Taylor Batting Champ. | Battalino's Quick Rise.

ROBIN HURLER SEES TROUBLE FOR A'S

AS ONE left-hander to a couple of others, William Watson Clark, star southpaw of the Brooklyn Robins, warns Bob Grove and Rube Walberg that they are not going to find it any part of a picnic when they face the Chicago Cubs in the world series next week. Clark speaks from experience, as he has pitched four games against the Bruins this year and lost them all. "They sure are tough for me," he confessed to Tom Holmes, "and Grove and Walberg will have to be good or they'll get their ears pinned back, too.

Bill Clark

"I have learned one thing about pitching to the Cubs. I wouldn't advise any pitcher, right or left-hander, to throw any of Chicago's hitters a fast ball in a tight spot. If a fellow does happen to throw one he ought to duck as fast as he can. They tell me that Grove may throw his speed ball right past those fellows, and that Grove also is plenty fast. But speed pitching is medicine that the Cubs enjoy. It's almost suicidal to feed it to them.

"STEPHENSON is the toughest hitter on the club so far as I'm concerned. I haven't discovered his hitting weakness yet. Against Hornsby, a pitcher's only chance is to outguess him. He can be fooled into swinging at a pitch that he doesn't expect, but you can't fool him the same way twice in succession and rarely twice in a game. He'll look bad on a certain pitch one time, and then drive another one just like it into Lake Michigan.

"Even Grove won't get far throwing fast balls to Wilson. Curves and change of pace are the best things to use against him and you'd better keep mixing them up. Hack is a much better hitter than in 1928. He goes after fewer bad pitches. Cuyler, too, has improved. He used to go fishing after curve balls on the outside and hit them into the dirt. Now he hits those same pitches for clotheslines into right field. Even Grimm is no set-up for a southpaw, though he bats left-handed. If Mack's left-handers can turn back those hitters they can beat the Cubs, but I'd hate the responsibility."

THE first question asked by practically every fan following the announcement that Donie Bush had signed to manage the Chicago White Sox had to do with what action he would take in the case of Art Shires, the suspended first baseman.

That stormy petrel had three run-ins with Manager Lena Blackburne during the 1928 season and in two of them he came to blows with the pilot. In view of the situation, baseball followers have been wondering whether Bush would trade the first-sacker or tackle the job of handling him next season.

Art Shires

THE best bet appears to be that Donie will keep Shires and endeavor to control him. If he does so, and club officials keep hands off, it will not be at all surprising if Bush makes a steady hustler and a valuable player of the youngster. "I don't know much about him," Donie said when asked about Shires. "But I do know that if I have trouble with him it will be the first time I have ever had trouble with a player in my life. I guess he's a good ball player. I never had trouble with any player in my life. I do not anticipate trouble with Shires or any others."

WALTER KIMMICK, of Turtle Creek, who led the Eastern League in hitting this year, is not the only player of this district to bring home a batting championship on his return from the baseball wars of 1929. Danny Taylor, of Lash, Pa., who first attracted attention as a semi-pro star while playing for the West Newton club, also has won a crown.

And Taylor captured his laurels in a Class AA League, only one step below the majors. According to the final unofficial averages, Danny, who was sent to Reading by the Cubs, led the International League in hitting with .364. Collins, of Rochester, was first in home runs, with 38, and also in runs batted in, with 134. Rabbit, of Toronto, led in stolen bases, with 42.

LATEST averages of the Pacific Coast League show Ike Boone, of the Missions, and Bill Rumler, of Hollywood, tied for the leadership in batting, each having an average of .399. Boone's averages were made in 183 games, and Rumler's in 126. Boone leads in home runs, being credited with 51.

Hollis Thurston, former big leaguer, now with San Francisco, leads the Coast League pitchers in point of percentage, with 22 games won against only eight lost. Shellenback, of Hollywood, is second, with 24 victories and 11 defeats.

Joe Knapik

GENEVA is building no small portion of its football structure on the foundation represented by Joe Knapik, the elusive and hardy halfback star. Knapik, a Youngstown, O., boy, is playing his third year of varsity ball for the Covenanters, and has stamped himself as one of the best halfbacks ever to wear the Geneva gold. Football critics who have seen Knapik in action say he is one of the best broken-field runners in the district. In addition, he kicks and passes, and his dependable right foot has booted his team out of more than one threatening situation.

BESIDES having rare offensive ability, Knapik is a bear on the defense. His fine knowledge of the game makes him adept at diagnosing plays, and he is poison to any team's aerial attack. When called upon to back up the line, Knapik serves as well as a fullback.

He is a hard tackler and a sure one. Fitted into the Temariaro-Preece-Ewing combination, Knapik gives the Geneva backfield added tone and power. He and Ewing are as sweet a pair of halfbacks as you will see in the conference this year.

THE first pitcher to achieve the feat of hurling a perfect game in the major leagues is dead in Toledo. He was Dr. John Richmond, who, just out of Brown University, joined the Worcester club in the

MISS HUNTER PUT OUT BY MRS. HURD

BULLETIN.

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., Oct. 3.—Glenna Collett, the defending champion, defeated Mrs. Harley Higbie, 1 up, in a 19-hole match in the national women's golf tournament here today. Mrs. O. S. Hill defeated Mrs. Stewart Hanley, 2 and 1.

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., Oct. 3.—(AP.)—The one and only Glenna Collett nailed another clincher to her fame as America's feminine golfing wonder yesterday by crushing the challenge of Maureen Orcutt, brilliant star from White Beeches, N. J., 7 and 5, in the second round of the thirty-third national women's championship at Oakland Hills.

On the trail of her second straight national title and her fourth since she first crowned herself as queen of American golf in 1922, Miss Collett shot surprising golf to gain her lop-sided victory. She clipped five strokes from par on the rugged course and was stopped with a loss only on the ninth hole by a birdie 3 off her rival's clubs.

BIG UPSET

While the champion thrilled a gallery of 2,000 by her golf artistry, the girl esteemed as her greatest threat, Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, fell the victim of a stunning upset and passed out of the championship picture. Mrs. Leo Federman, of New York, turned the trick, shooting even par to conquer her, 2 and 1.

The defeat of Miss Van Wie, 1928 finalist and twin medalist with Helen Hicks, of New York, this year, was the biggest upset of the tournament.

All of the remaining favorites came through handily, but Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, veteran from Philadelphia, who won the national title in 1909, 1910 and 1924, turned in the easiest victory of the field. Sailing placidly over the course in one under par, she overwhelmed Anjeanette Hunter, the Stanton Heights golf club, Pittsburgh, 9 and 8. Miss Hunter, who upset Alexa Stirling Fraser, of Ottawa, Canada, another three times titleholder, was far off her game.

FAILS TO WIN HOLE

She failed to win a single hole and her best effort was a half on the fourth with a par 5. All told, she was 11 strokes over par.

Detroit placed two players in the quarter final round—Mrs. Harley Higbie, who defeated Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., in the hardest match of the round, 1 up, and Mrs. Stewart Hanley, who eliminated Mrs. Lee (Mike) Mida, former Western medal champion, of Chicago, 4 and 2.

Another Western hope, Mrs. Leona Pressler, of Los Angeles, Western champion in 1927 and 1928, shot splended golf except for the second where she four-putted, and eliminated Marion Turpie, of New Orleans, erstwhile Southern champion, while Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., crushed Mrs. Larry Nelson, of Dayton, 5 and 3.

Quarter final matches today bring Miss Collett against Mrs. Higbie, and Mrs. Hill against Mrs. Hanley in the upper bracket. In the lower and supposedly slower tier, Mrs. Federman faces Miss Wall while Mrs. Hurd and Mrs. Pressler try conclusions.

W. Va. Wesleyan, N. Y. U. Game to Be on Air

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Oct. 3.—The New York University and West Virginia Wesleyan intersectional football classic of Saturday, October 5, will be broadcast over the Columbia broadcasting chain, with station WABC, of New York, as the central station. The Bobcat-Violet tussle will be the first football game of the season to go out over the air. This will give Bobcat fans back in the home state and those far from the scene of battle an opportunity to listen in on the play-by-play account of the game.

The Bobcats tapered off their attack today with much zest and all the gridders are in excellent condition for the trip to New York. The Bobcats know full well that they will be stacking up against one of the greatest teams in the east on Saturday, and Ross is grooming the footballers to give all they have in the battle.

Quarterback Job Open at Bucknell

LEWISBURG, Pa., Oct. 3. — A three-way scrap for the quarterback job on the Bucknell football team has developed here this week and each of the contestants, Lobel, Ammerman and Fry, is considered a likely choice for the game with Albright at Reading Saturday.

The scrap has matured largely because of the injury to Mezza, who started against St. Thomas last week. The Rome, N. Y., lad is definitely out for this week, and possibly longer. Lobel, who hails from Bloomfield, N. J., has shown good stuff through the season, but is handicapped now because it is necessary for him to wear a mask to protect an injured nose.

JIMMY FOXX FATHER

DOVER, Del., Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Jimmy Foxx, star first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, 1929 American League champion, is the proud father of a boy, born today in the Kent General Hospital here. Mother and "Jimmy, Jr.," are doing well.

MOOSE ARENA GETS NEW RING

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

A new ring will greet the fans when they assemble at the Moose Temple for their weekly offering of swat and slug tomorrow night. Promoter Francis Flynn has done away with the small ring that was used throughout last season and for the first two shows of this one, and in its place will be a new 18-foot square, with new mat and floor covering and ropes.

The extension of the ring will cut off a few feet on each side of the stage and will force the front of the fighting space out to the very edge of the footlights, so that the action will be brought closer to the fans sitting below and in the gallery.

Johnny Smackey

Flynn has completed his card for the show. He has California Joe Gans, of McKeesport and Ray Kiser, of Chicago, in the 10-round windup; Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, and Frankie Porto, of Glassport, in the semi-final; Andy Andrucci, of the East End, and Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, in the second bout, and Tom Maico, of Soho, and Cowboy DeLuca, of Lawrenceville, in the opener. Porto won a decision over Dunn in a bout at McKeesport two seasons ago and Johnny ever since has been anxious to get a chance to erase it.

BOXERS ON TRIAL

Two young boxers will be on trial at Washington, Pa., tonight, when Promoter Goodridge stages another of his shows in the armory. They are Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, who meets Battling Gizzy, of Donora, in the 10-round windup, and Hans Roberts, the former German amateur welterweight champion, who makes his professional debut against Tommy Ward, of the South Side, in the main bout. Smackey, Able Wita' protege, will be up against a human buzzsaw in Gizzy, and if he can beat the Battler, he will be taking quite a step ahead. Future bouts for Roberts will depend largely on how he conducts himself in his professional debut. Steve Pollock, the fighting

Tunney Feels Great After Operation

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Although Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion, yesterday underwent a minor operation, he is far from considering himself an invalid.

"Do I look like a hospital invalid?" he asked a correspondent of the Associated Press. "I never felt better in my life."

He was indeed tanned and moved with quick and agile motion. He mentioned that he weighed exactly the same as when he met Tom Heeney in the last battle of his ring career.

After the operation at a local sanitarium he returned to his hotel where Mrs. Tunney, the former Polly Lauder, joined him.

ALCOMA PREXY MARRIED

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Golf folks about the district are congratulating Tom Nichols, president of the Alcoma Country Club, and his bride, the former Mrs. Eva Young, following their quiet marriage last week.

It was learned yesterday that Nichols, one of the most popular golfers in the district and a "confirmed" batchelor, and Mrs. Young were wed on Saturday morning in the First Baptist Church. The ceremony was attended, it was reported, only by immediate friends of the families.

The bride and groom are motoring through and stopping at Philadelphia, Atlantic City and New York on their honeymoon.

Gale Simon McKinley Nycum, oldest radio dealer in Wilkinsburg, and an enthusiastic golfer, is making great headway this week with the Radio Show going on in full force at Duquesne Garden. Nycum is superintendent of the show and building committee. With the golf season practically at an end, Nycum has renovated his store at 702 Wood street and is getting down to the business of thinking more about radio and less about golf, for the winter months at least.

The first annual fall trip to Pinehurst, N. C., of Western Pennsylvania golfers over the P. R. R. and Seaboard Air Line has been announced. It will leave Pittsburgh November 7 and return November 12. S. L. Shank, division passenger agent, is handling the trip. A number of local golfers and their families are expected to take advantage of the opportunity to spend a few days at the well-known resort.

JACKIE FIELDS VICTOR OVER DUNDEE

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey, greatest drawing card in the history of boxing, failed to completely pack 'em in his first promotional venture in the historic Coliseum last night, but the Old Manassa Mauler, who always gave the best he had when in the ring, presented a card of bouts that left the crowd standing on its head.

Jackie Fields

In the principal event, Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles, world welterweight champion, won the verdict over Vince Dundee, of Baltimore, brother of the fighter from whom Fields won the title only a few weeks ago in a 10-round bout that was a sizzler from start to finish.

Fields started out as if he would defeat Vince as easily as he did his brother Joe, but before the 10 rounds were over, Fields was forced to extend himself to the limit to retain the advantage he had gained in the early part of the contest.

Knocked to the floor for the count of nine in the sixth round, Dundee picked himself out of the resin and opened up with a rally that continued until the finish of the fight. Dundee made his best showing in the seventh, eighth and tenth rounds. He stood toe to toe with the champ and traded punch for punch, while the crowd was in a frenzy of excitement. Fields left the ring with the official verdict, but Dundee won the cheers of the crowd.

TITLE NOT AT STAKE

The title was not involved. Fields scaled 149¼ with Dundee tipping the beam at 149¾.

The bouts drew 7,269 spectators with gross receipts of $31,574. The attendance, no doubt, was held down due to the horror still lurking in the minds of many of the boxing fans who were present when a panic resulting in the death of one man and the injury to scores of others broke out during the fight between Fields and young Jack Thompson last March.

Dempsey, himself, was the busiest man in the place. The former world heavyweight champion assisted his corps of ushers in bowing the customers to their seats, and before the night was over took a turn on the radio in broadcasting the Dundee-Fields fight over a hookup of more than 40 stations.

POST-SEASON SHOOT

The Western Pennsylvania Trapshooters' League will hold a post-season shoot today at the Wilkinsburg Gun Club, Lakeland road, Wilkinsburg.

LOCAL GRIDDERS RECEIVED BY HOOVER

By JESS CARVER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 3. — The varsity football squad of the University of Pittsburgh, half a hundred strong, stopped off here today for a bit of sightseeing and a bit or practice before continuing its journey to the land of the corn pone and chicken and biscuits. The Panthers play Duke University's football hopefuls Saturday in Durham, N. C., enacting the leading role as the Southerners dedicate a fine new stadium.

Pitt's party entrained over the B. & O. from Pittsburgh late last night, and spent a quiet night a la Pullman. One or two bridge games among nonathletic members of the party and the usual gab session in the club car provided the only excitement.

SQUAD ON TOUR

This morning, the entire party was taken for an extensive tour of the nation's capital. This was one case where being taken for a ride was a pleasure. Washington is not Chicago. For the afternoon, Lou Little very kindly turned over his practice field out at Georgetown University to Dr. Sutherland and his Panthers, a brief but snappy workout being scheduled.

The squad will leave Washington at midnight, arriving in Durham tomorrow morning. A workout is scheduled for the afternoon on one of the two practice fields adjoining the Blue Devils' stadium.

Apparently headed for a stormy aera, and with the chances of the heat wave being broken, Coach Sutherland is taking a bit more or an optimistic view of the game. For a while, Jock was plainly worried, whether justifiably or not. He feared that his boys would not be able to go at top speed in the great heat, and thus being greatly handicapped against the acclimated Southerns.

Jimmy DeHart, the Duke coach, former all-American quarterback star at Pitt, has a nifty array of stars in lease, ready to be hurled against the Panthers. The big weakness in the Duke's lineup appears to me to be in the fact that there will be six or seven sophomores in the lineup. Unless a sophomore is above the average in ability he usually finds the Pitt, power-ahead-of-the-ball attack a bit rigorous. It looks to be as though some of this Southern hospitality may become a bit strained when the Panthers shoot the first reverse play against one of those sophomore tackles.

TO MEET AERIAL ATTACK

Duke is planning to work the forward pass overtime against the northern invaders. The Blue Devils have young Sam Buie, regarded as one of the finest heavers in college football, playing a halfback. The receiving half of the combination, Glenn Robeson, plays an end, so they tell me, and plays it well.

Good as these Blue Devils are, a fellow cannot discount the threat that is embodied in the Pitt backfield combination of Baker, Williams, Uansa and Parkinson. I doubt very much if the Duke line has ever been called upon to stop or try to stop a line wrecker of the type of Parkinson, or check halfbacks of the elusiveness and drive of Williams and Uansa. And Pitt's reserve material is nothing over which to weep.

Duke's new stadium holds 35,000. If it is filled, and the advance argues for an early hanging of the S. R. O. sign, football history will be made in the South.

Pitt is the first northern school to assist in stadium opening in the South this year. Next week Yale will assist Georgia, as the Crackers

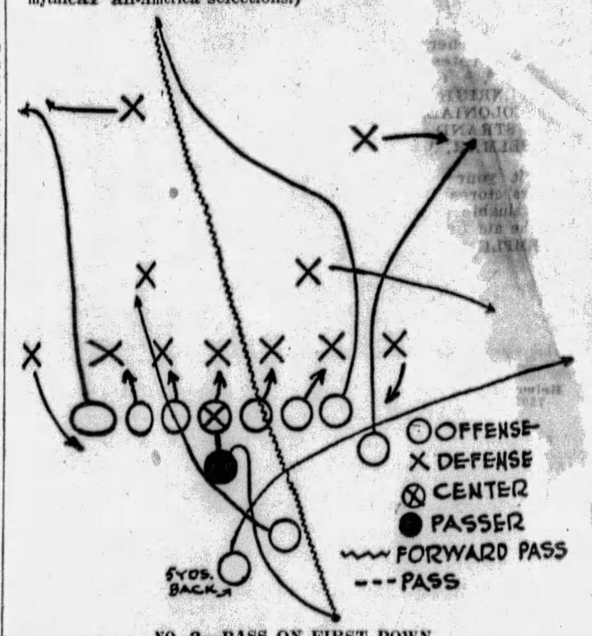
Football Strategy

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback, 1928
Now Coach at Shady Side Academy

(Note.—Harpster, as the quarterback of the Carnegie Tech eleven last fall, gained national recognition as one of the most brilliant leaders of all time in the football realm. Experts hailed him as "the player with the mind of a coach." He captained the All-East team that defeated the All-West team in California at the end of the season, and was generally picked as captain of the mythical all-America selections.)



NO. 2—PASS ON FIRST DOWN.

THIS is the play that enabled Carnegie Tech to defeat the University of Pittsburgh last fall. The play was a long forward pass for a gain of 40 yards and placed the ball on the two-yard line, from where Tech scored the only touchdown of the game two plays later.

Line plays had been working well for about six plays preceding this pass and the Pitt defense had been drawn in in an attempt to stop the running attack. The pass was called on first down. The Tech guards were kept in the line purposely to make the play resemble a split-buck.

Final score: Tech, 6; Pitt, 0.

BUCS TO RETURN TONIGHT

PIRATES MOVE STEP NEARER GOAL

By CHARLES T. DOYLE.

The barnstorming Pirates are due in Pittsburgh late tonight. They may do what they wish tomorrow, but they must be at Forbes Field by noon on Saturday to clash with the Cardinals, whom they are to meet in a doubleheader.

The ruin of yesterday put the idle Freebooters a step nearer their goal. The Giants and Robins were unable to play, the contest being called off permanently. That means the men of McGraw have only four more games to play. They are three full games behind the Pirates, who have three more to play. Hence, if the Giants lose their scheduled clash with the Phillies this afternoon they could do no better than tie the runner-up position at the close of the race Sunday.

PLAY CUBS SUNDAY

The Giants have moved to Philadelphia for three contests. They will finish up with the Quakers Saturday and will then proceed to Boston to wind up the season. The Pirates will hit the trail for Chicago Saturday night, where Sunday they are due to pull down the curtain in a tussle with the new champions of the league.

Manager Ens will have three of his best pitchers primed for action in the three remaining games, but if the New Yorkers are eliminated from the second-place reckoning ere the race closes, the boss of the club will call upon some of his recruits.

Ralph Erickson and Leon Chagnon are among the new pitchers who seem to be moving toward major league berths. This pair of youthful hurlers, in company with Johnny O'Connell, Verona boy, rejoined the Pirates after each had enjoyed a big season with the Columbia club of the South Atlantic League.

O'CONNELL BACK

O'Connell was loaned to Baltimore after he had hooked up with his Pittsburgh mates, and now he is back with the club after having done a good trick for the Orioles. The three Sally Leaguers will get a lot of consideration from Manager Ens in the 1930 spring training camp.

Many of the first-string pitchers are in Pittsburgh, they having returned directly at the finish of the St. Louis series. George Grantham was given permission to go home after the St. Louis games, the infielder being in no shape to play ball. Heinie Meine was allowed to go to his home near St. Louis, while Willis Windle also returned to his home in the middle West.

Grantham is bothered with a form of rheumatism. The Pirates physician thinks a long rest is the best tonic for his ailment, and as George's home is in Arizona he is going to a state that should have a curative effect on his condition.

The Panther gridders will be received by President Hoover at 12:35 o'clock today. Following the reception the President will have his picture taken with the team.

The Pitt team was enabled the opportunity to meet Hoover through the courtesy of Senator David A. Reed, his secretary, Theodore Huntley and Secretary to the President George Akerson.

DUKE BACKS UNCERTAIN

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 3.—Duke's backfield for the Pitt game Saturday is still an uncertainty. Yesterday afternoon's scrimmage against the freshmen found two men working in each position.

From the showing, it appears that Bill Murray, may break in at half. Murray showed the best form of all the backs, tearing through the freshmen for long gains nearly every time he carried the ball.

The two fullbacks used were Godfrey and Coleman and the former probably will start the Pitt game. Bute, Beaver, Robeson and Murray were the halfbacks. Bute and Beaver are both triple-threat men.

Captain Henry Kistler did not get into uniform, but may be able to do so today when the team will go to the new stadium for an hour's kicking and passing practice to get the feel of things.

There will be another light workout in the stadium tomorrow afternoon while the Panthers are working out at Chapel Hill, home of the University of North Carolina, 12 miles away.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

What is the function of the arms in making the proper swing?

Answered by WILLIE OGG

New England Professional, Former Massachusetts Open, Shawnee Open Champion.

The arms should work in such a way as to give the widest swing possible. On the backswing the left arm should not bend until the top of the swing is reached and then only enough to loosen the muscles. The right arm should not be permitted to leave the body until the top of the swing is reached when the right elbow goes outward slightly although still remaining under the shaft. The arms straighten on the downstroke before the impact and remain in that position until the ball has left the club. Any bending of the arms before this point is reached means disaster. The arms bend slightly after the ball is gone but only enough so as to give relaxation to the finish of the swing.

DUKES WORK FOR W. VA.

Without exception, Morgantown, W. Va., folks are confident that Ira Rodgers' husky Mountaineers will take the measure of the Duquesne University Dukes when the teams clash there Saturday, John D. Holahan, graduate manager of athletics at Duquesne, who returned from the stronghold of the West Virginians late last night, reports. Even Coach Ira Rodgers seems confident of victory, contrary to his usual state of mind.

Head Coach Elmer Layden did not work his men hard yesterday, although he made them appear on the field for something short of an half hour despite the downpours of rain which soaked the Bluff gridiron. This week has been devoted to clearing up the defects in the line which have appeared in the last two games.

Layden realizes that the Mountaineers will be bent on crashing through the Duquesne forward wall and is much perturbed over the fact that it is not quite up to the form which will be necessary for Saturday's hard tussle.

MOUNTAINEERS SCRIMMAGE

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 3.—A hard, long scrimmage yesterday afternoon concluded the rough work preparatory to the Duquesne-West Virginia game at Mountaineer Field next Saturday, and Coach Rodgers plans to limit the work of the West Virginia eleven to light dummy scrimmage and signal drills today and tomorrow.

JENKINS STOPPED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Wesley Ketchell, Portland, Ore., middleweight, knocked out Winks Jenkins, Denver Negro, in the first round here last night.

SOCCER CUP TIES CARDED THIS WEEK

By TOM BIRKS

The soccer season can be classed as officially open now that the National cup ties are with us. First-round games in the National eliminations will be staged Saturday and Sunday.

A tit-bit for the fans will be staged at the Homewood playgrounds when the Thoms Run eleven, junior champions, which many fans feel should be classed as a senior club, clashes with the Pierpont Motors aggregation.

Pierpont broke into the win column last Saturday, and now the supporters of the club will have a chance to see just how the club stacks up in cup tie tournaments. Many critics feel that the Motors will have to chance its style and employ a go-ahead system to win cup ties.

The short passing game will not get any place, and Manager Ekequist should start the boys swinging the ball around from wing to wing.

CECIL OUT FOR GOALS

Cecil A. C., another club with a wonderful record in soccer, will appear at Leslie Park, meeting the Celtics. Cecil should attract a great crowd because it will bring something new to Lawrenceville followers of the kicking code. Cecil plays strenuous soccer, never letting up from the initial kick-off. All Panhandle teams are the same way. They care little for playing to the gallery, but enter games feeling that getting goals wins ball games.

Fans are going to be treated to a new sight this season. Heidelberg is figuring upon discarding the famous Green and Gold. Manager Balsarini states quite a number of clubs have started to wear the colors made famous throughout the country by the Heidelberg teams, so the Green and Gold toronado will probably be a matter of history. Balsarini is considering equipping the 1929-30 club with scarlet jerseys.

THREE DISTRICT LOOP TILTS

The District league will flash three games. The Tubers from McKeesport will meet Jack Thomas' Union Switch eleven at Swissvale. Followers of the Switch are elated regarding the showing of the Thomas aggregation at Crafton last Saturday. Tommy Hennigan, playing center forward, should help the front line. Hennigan is of the elusive type, and while the opposing center half is worrying about Hennigan, Angus McNair should get goals. This happened last Saturday. Howard Magrus, probably one of the finest halfbacks in the district, had to pay much attention to Hennigan. This was duck soup for McNair, as he helped himself to three goals.

Clan Douglas, which appears to have one of the smartest clubs in the district, will meet Crafton Saturday. This excursion by the Clan team into Crafton should attract a large crowd especially some of old Cameron followers.

CUP TIE SUNDAY

The Sunday battle in the National cup will be staged at Monongahela Speedway. It will be the first game played in this territory. Two years ago an effort was made to play soccer at this location, but the idea fell through. Gallatin, with an ideal cup tie outfit, should bring Glendale into camp.

There is a meeting of the West Penn tomorrow evening. The draws for the cup ties will be made at this session, according to officers of that body.

MOOSE GETS NEW RING

Marine, and Walter Ketchel box a return bout in the semi-final and John Patrick Douherty, formerly of California, and John DeMinno, of Clairton, light-heavyweights, meet in the six-round opener.

Joey Goodman, young Jewish lightweight, of Cleveland, who boxes Henry Perlick, of Kalamazoo, in one of the feature bouts on the double windup card at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, started out in the game in Baltimore, where, as a boy in knee pants, he watched with awe such stars as Kid Williams, George (K. O.) Chaney, Andy Chaney and Joe Dundee in their bouts and decided to follow in their footsteps. While still attending school he haunted the gymnasiums, and, with Buster Brown, another lad of his years, who later reached main bout estate, began giving exhibitions at small clubs and then the larger ones and finally developed into a full-fledged boxer in his own right. Since then he has met some of the best men in his class, and, under the management of Jimmy Dunn, of Cleveland, who piloted Johnny Kilbane, to the featherweight title, gives promise of going a long way. Marty Silvers of Brooklyn, meets Herman Perlick in the other 10-round bout at the Garden Monday night. George Panka, Homestead heavyweight, boxes K. O. Blackburn, of Louisville, in the second bout, and U. S. Carpentier and Young Corsey, feathers, open the bill.

NEW YORK BOUTS TONIGHT

Sid Terris boxes Stanislaus Loayza in the 10-round main bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight. Harry Ebbets boxes Nick Testo and Al Ridgway meets Harry Carlton in the other 10-rounders.

Arthur DeKuh boxes Angus Snyder at Kansas City tomorrow night, while Jack Dempsey will referee a bout between Charley Belanger and Nick Newman at Davenport, Ia.

The card has been completed for the Palestine Relief Fund benefit show, to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, October 21. It consists of five 10-rounders, as follows: Maxie Rosenbloom vs Joe Sekyra, Al Singer vs Davy Abad, Ruby Goldstein vs Joe Reno, Jack Berg, vs Bruce Flowers and Yale Okun vs Matt Adgie. Prices range from $2 to $15.

Eugene Huat, the European flyweight champion, has been matched to box Frenchy Belanger at Toronto, October 14.

South Hills High Battles Fifth Ave.

South Hills High, champion in Section 2 last year, will clash with Fifth Avenue High, of Section 1, in an intersectional City League game on the Langley High School field this afternoon.

McKees Rocks High battles Imperial on the latter's gridiron.

State Commission Suspends Schafer

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—The state athletic commission yesterday announced suspension of the following boxers:

John (Tumbler) Martin, New Philadelphia, Pa., indefinitely, for failing to honor contract with the Hazelton American Legion A. C.

Ben Scoverski, Ranshaw, Pa., and Albert Yancoski, Shamokin, indefinitely, for unsatisfactory services at Lewisburg.

Freddie Schafer, McKeesport, indefinitely.

Frank Monroe, Fair Haven, Pa., 30 days, for fouling his opponent.

ELMER LAYDEN HOWARD ROSE

Coach Elmer Layden, of Duquesne University, experimenting with a new football uniform which he has worked out for use in developing speed and for comfort in hot weather games. It does away with a lot of the canvas trousers and distributes the weight more evenly than the regulation bulky togs. The Dukes may adopt the garb later.

Long's Sport Comment

National League in 1880 and on June 12, of that year, defeated Cleveland 1 to 0 without permitting a man to reach first base.

Only four others have since pitched perfect games—John Montgomery Ward, for Providence against Buffalo in the National League on June 17, 1880, just five days after Richmond's success; old Cy Young for Boston against Philadelphia in the American League, on May 5, 1904; Addie Joss, for Cleveland against Chicago in the American League, on October 2, 1908, and Charley Robertson, for Chicago against Detroit, in the American League, on April 30, 1922.

WORCESTER, for which club Richmond pitched his perfect game, was playing its first year in the National League when he joined it. That city was admitted in 1880 to take the place of Syracuse, but lasted only three years, and after finishing in last place in 1881 and 1882 it withdrew and the franchise was transferred to Philadelphia, where it has remained ever since. Richmond had some of the most famous of the old-time players as teammates in Worcester, the list including Bushong, Stovey, Creamer, Mountain, Whitney, Irwin, Wood, Bennett, Sullivan, Dorgan, Dickerson, Carey, Knight and Nichols.

Battling Battalino

PROLONGED poring over the pages of fistic history fails to bring to light a parallel for the short time it took Christopher (Battling) Battalino, the new world featherweight champion, to rise from the amateur ranks to the throne of a professional title holder.

It was only in 1927 that Battalino won the National amateur featherweight championship, and now, just two years later, he is wearing a world crown among the pros. He has never fought a major bout outside his home state of Connecticut.

Battalino's first really big fight, in which he won a decision over Al Brown, the Negro bantamweight king, dates back only a few weeks before the event in which he took the featherweight title from Andre Routis. He has lost only one decision since turning professional. About the closest approach to the little Italian's achievement in the matter of time was the jump of Paul Berlenbach from the National amateur heavyweight championship in 1922 to the world light heavyweight title in 1925, three years afterward, when he wrested the scepter from Mike McTigue.

CRUM GIVES ALLEGHENY STRONG ELEVEN

Racing Entries and Selections for Today

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

THIRTY-TWO THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1929

METHODISTS' TEAM WELL COACHED

(This is the fifteenth of an annual series of special articles, written by Jess Carver, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph football writer, dealing with the prospects of tri-state district college and preparatory school football elevens. The article on Thiel, with photos of the Lutherans in action, will appear in Saturday's issue.)

If old Allegheny puts over a football campaign this fall in a big way, the crack, "and her name was Maude," will be very much in order. That is the nickname that has been fastened to H. W. Crum, the new head coach; Crum, Princeton '23, the gent who scored the last two touchdowns in that memorable Princeton-Chicago game, when the Tiger beat the Maroon by a thrilling last-minute finish, 21 to 14.

Crum is beginning his first campaign at Allegheny, having been obtained to replace Mel Merritt, who went back to Dartmouth as backfield coach. Prior to coming to Allegheny, Crum put in four years as head coach at George Washington University, Washington, D. C.

"Maude" is up against a rather tough situation as far as his first Allegheny schedule is concerned, and he also has to build a team with a dozen men of the 1928 squad hors de combat, for one reason or another. Some of the boys graduated, others ran into scholastic difficulties and one or two took a run-out powder and transferred to other institutions of more or less learning.

MAKES FINE PROGRESS

Despite these handicaps, Maude has done very well, and will have, I firmly believe, a team of as great power as Allegheny's 1928 machine. The eleven may be a bit weak when it comes to reserves, especially at the ends, but the starting lineup will not be one with which to fool.

Allegheny plays Dartmouth and Pitt for its big games, and includes Geneva, Westminster, Grove City, Thiel, Waynesburg and St. Vincents on its list of tri-state foes.

Shaven and Hughes, last year's ends graduated; Moon, a regular tackle, followed suit and Lyden allowed himself to become ineligible. Billings and Beals, guards, have their sheepskins. Koerner, the big center, one of the best in the section, transfered to another school and Smith trailed along with Lyden, getting into difficulties with the books. McKay, quarterback, and the captain elect, was killed in an automobile accident last summer. Rawlingson, a back, graduated, Eghmy transfered and Forbes left school just after training camp closed.

But from a bag full of promising material, the new coach is determined to fashion an eleven that will hold its own with any competition.

THE ENDS

Storrie, a reserve end last year, but regarded as one of the best wing prospects ever to represent Allegheny, has won himself a job at one of the terminals. He is a jim-dandy, no mistake, and figures to rate with Donchess, of Pitt, Rosenzweig, of Tech, Secrist, of Wash-Jeff and Rankin, of Grove City, at the close of the present campaign.

Paired with Storrie will be Martin, a sophomore with some experience, Conn, McKay or Brown. McKay and Brown are freshmen. Conn is playing his second year.

THE TACKLES

A pair of veterans, Gibson and Pichitino, seem to have the tackle jobs well in hand, though a freshman hefty, Showers, is giving them both a tough battle. Scholl will make a fine fourth lineman.

Gibson is completing his fourth campaign, and is certain to be in there most of the time, his experience standing him in fine stead. Pichitino, who played fine football last year, must fight off young Showers, one of the most likely looking tackle prospects of the year.

THE GUARDS

McManus is the only letterman in line for a guard job. He'll be at one side of the line, with Knapp, a three-year man who has not been able to drag down a letter, first in line for the other position. The guard reserves will include Waite and Caton, two freshmen, and Price, a sophomore.

McManus played brilliantly against Dartmouth last year, but had a bad day against Pitt and failed to live up to the reputation he made for himself in the East.

THE CENTERS

With both Smith and Keoniger gone, Coach Crum is developing young Morse, a part time worker last fall, for the pivot job. Morse, so far, has shown worth-while promise.

The two Jones boys, not related, by the way, are other center prospects, along with a freshman, Bugbee.

THE BACKFIELD

The new coach expects little difficulty with his backfield. Slaughter, a frosh star, has come along very well indeed as a quarterback. His ability as a punter has won for him that job. Berger and Nick Varang, regular halfbacks last fall, look better than ever, and both are in A-1 physical trim. Berger is slated to do most of the passing and will assist with the kicking.

Garbark, an exceptionally good line plunger, is at fullback. He is the gent who troubled the Pitt line last year, and played sterling football against all of Allegheny's opponents.

Harry Smith, a junior, is the sub quarter, with Gamble and Denison serving as reserve halfbacks. Balser is Garbark's understudy. Ungerman, a freshman, promises much as a fullback. Fallon, who plays end, tackle or guard, is the general utility man of the line, and a worth while one.

USES ROPER SYSTEM

Coach Crum employs the Roper system, mixed with many of the peculiarities and ideas of the Warner style of play. He wheels his guards and tackles out of the line at times, uses Pitt reverses, but his general style is said to be a bit more open than either the Warner or Roper programs.

Opening the schedule last Saturday with Geneva, the Methodists will continue the action this week by playing Westminster in the annual homecoming game at Meadville.

The third game carries the squad back to Hanover, for the annual fracas with Dartmouth. October 19 is open, but the following week Pitt will be met in Erie, Thiel comes to Meadville November 2; Grove City November 9; Waynesburg November 16, and the season will be closed November 23, with a game at Latrobe against St. Vincent's.

This year's Allegheny jerseys are gold with blue rosin stripes and gold socks with three blue stripes. The helmets will be tan.

Coach Crum, at the request of the squad, will appoint a captain for each game. It was decided not to elect a man to take the place of Captain-elect McKay, who was killed.

GRID DRILL INDOORS

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Rain drove Penn State's football team indoors for the bulk of yesterday's practice, the squad going outdoors only for a short scrimmage, which concluded the daily drill. Before going on the field the men spent an hour running through plays on the floor of the gymnasium.

Garbark, former Edgewood High ace, is the fullback and is probably the best line-plunger among the Class B colleges in Western Pennsylvania. F. & M. Prepares For Dickinson

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 3.—Franklin and Marshall College, following its fine showing against the University of Pennsylvania Saturday at Philadelphia, which resulted in a 14-7 conquest for Penn only after a terrific struggle, started preparation Monday for its first home game of the season this Saturday against Dickinson College, of Carlisle.

The game will be an Eastern Conference fracas and will give Coach Poss Miller a real line on the quality of his eleven against an opponent in its class.

Planes, Coast Cities Seen For Majors

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—The major baseball leagues of the future will transport their teams in airplanes and may revise their circuits to include one or two Pacific Coast cities, believes Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Evans gave his views in turning down an airplane company's efforts to sell the Cleveland club a ship to fly around the circuit, although he was impressed by the amount of time that could be saved, and the elimination of spending nights in train berths.

PIRATES VIEW OHIO STATE DRILL

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—Manager Jewel Ens and six of his Pittsburgh Pirates watched the Ohio State football team in a brisk scrimmage against the second team here yesterday afternoon.

The Pirates, returning to Pittsburgh from St. Louis, where they completed their season's series against the Cards, were chaperoned around the Ohio State campus and to the grid field by Bill Hinchman, Pirate Scout, whose home is in Columbus. Bill's son, Bill, Jr., is a candidate for the varsity team, while another son, Lew, is on the freshman team.

Pie Traynor, Pirate captain; Paul and Lloyd Waner, Earl Sheely, Erickson and Mosolf, recruits, made up the Buccaneer party.

Erickson and Mosolf were gridders in Western universities before coming to the Pirates and the entire group was awed by the size of the massive Ohio stadium and even some of the players. The Buckeyes put on a spirited drill for their guests.

Penn State Team Well Numbered

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 3.—Opponents of the Penn State football team this season probably will want to know whether the Lions are coming or going when they see the Nittany squad trot on the field. The Lions' jerseys bear numbers front and back this fall, blue block numbers on white sweaters.

The change in colors this fall marks the third time in as many years. Until two seasons ago Penn State always wore blue, the college colors. That season the Lions made their appearance in cardinal jerseys. The change fooled spectators at a number of games, since the crowds were accustomed to the blue and many of the Lion opponents also wore blue in some combination. Last season the jerseys were a combination of blue and white. This fall they completed the red, white and blue cycle with all-white jerseys with only the numbers in blue.

POLO POPULAR

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3.—Polo is looking up at Ohio State University this fall. Last season this sport gained varsity recognition and minor letter awards for the first time. Some 70 of the men were out last season, a figure that is expected to be surpassed when the Buckeye candidates report this week.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 3.—Coaches Nuss and Shoemaker are spending most of their time this week pointing out the flaws of the first game and polishing up the Bison grid machine for the first game on the home field this Saturday, when Fairmont College visits the Buffalo creek institution.

Street Was Primed for Big Expansion in Monthly Loan Figures.

SOME of the sting was taken from the Stock Exchange loan report by reason of the fact that the street, judging from the Federal Reserve figures for the nearest comparable period, had been primed for a tremendous expansion. The reserve compilation had revealed a rise of $544,000,000 for a period a few days short of the full month. Yet the financial community found little reason for optimism in the unprecedented rise of $667,764,553 in loans of stock exchange members at the end of September. The previous record increase, $511,923,202, had been recorded in November of last year. Since the end of May borrowings of stock exchange firms have increased by approximately $1,500,000,000, and at the close of September stood some $3,036,000,000 in excess of the total on the same date a year ago.

Thus far the higher English bank rate voted a week ago has apparently done little more than slow down the movement of gold from London to Paris. At any rate, this week's Bank of England statement shows its gold holdings cut by $2,869,000, and its ratio of reserves to liabilities sharply lower at 24.1 per cent against 29.7 per cent a week ago. The French bank statement, on the other hand, shows its gold holdings up 350,000,000 francs to a new peak for the present. For the moment, at least, it appears that the lifting of the British bank rate by a full 1 per cent last week, has not been immediately effective in checking the French drain on London gold reserves.

HAD the drop in the call money rate to 6 per cent during the noon hour come unexpected, it might have exerted a stimulating influence on the market. But as it so happened, word had been passed around early in the day that funds were in abundant supply and probably would force the rate lower. The result was that the drop to 6 per cent, the lowest in several weeks, did not carry any element of surprise. On the contrary it was followed by an outburst of renewed selling which forced the rank and file of speculative leaders, including Steel common, General Motors and Radio back to new low levers for the movement and in the instance of General Motors to a new low for the year. It appeared as though an attempt had been made to use the lower money rate as a basis for negotiating further liquidation.

Comments of the steel trade reviews and leaders of the industry emphasize the mixed trend of this key industry. It is pointed out that those companies which are largely dependent on the automobile industry have experienced a sharp contraction of business with little prospect of improvement in the immediate future. On the other hand, buying by the railroads has shown an appreciable increase and has aided in bolstering up output of many producers. Prospect of additional large orders from the nation's carriers, both for rails and equipment, is considered excellent, with orders for purchase of 30,000 freight cars definitely in sight. In addition to offsetting the lull of other lines in the steel industry, this equipment buying should prove to be a big aid to the manufacturers of railroad cars, which already have experienced a sharp increase in business and earnings over 1928.

THAT there might be a re-investment demand for stocks shortly, is believed in many quarters. It is estimated that approximately $750,000,000 were distributed in dividends and interest on October 1, and part of this money will probably find its way back into the market for some of the standard dividend payers. However, such buying will be on a downward scale if the advices of commission houses and investment firms are followed.

There is no doubt judging from comments heard in many quarters that traders are translating moderate and seasonal recessions in some industrial lines into a business depression. This is not an unusual attitude when stocks are reactionary. In past years when similar reactions came into business lines they were practically ignored as long as the market was moving ahead.

AIM FOR BIGGER PROFITS SPURS MERGERS

Success of Combinations, However, Depends Upon Manpower in Control

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The widespread current impulses toward business and banking mergers spring from an effort to heighten net profits through the elimination of economic friction.

Past experience has shown that a majority of mergers are destined to disappoint their backers. The success of an economic wedding in the last analysis depends on whether the control of the enlarged business family is assigned to superior management. Manpower at the top determines the success of consolidations.

Why the present epidemic of mergers?

MERGERS SUMMED UP

Harry A. Toulmin, Jr., patent attorney and authority on corporation law, whose illuminating book "Millions in Mergers" is soon to be published, sums up the human motives which give impetus to these great combinations as follows:

1. An ambition for increased profit arising from the acquiring of income producing units with subsequent economies not only in mass production, but in mass purchasing and mass sales.
2. The elimination of harmful competition.
3. The desire for a greater empire of power or larger facilities.
4. The necessity for meeting foreign competition in all markets by having an organization of sufficient size to dominate both in the domestic field and in the international market.
5. To produce a profit to bankers and underwriters from the sale of securities and from controlling the resale of properties and securities.

"In the end," Mr. Toulmin concludes, "the love of money and power are, undoubtedly, two of the greatest factors in this consolidation movement."

The financial incentive for large companies to absorb smaller ones lies in the fact that the dominating concern can acquire smaller units at a lower price-earnings ratio than its own stock sells for at the market place. The marketability and popularity of the stock of the larger company creates a differential which enables its managers to make alluring bids to the owners of closed corporations, whose stock is unmarketable.

DEFENDS GROUP BANKING

National banking laws do not permit bank consolidations across state lines. Accordingly, the merger impulse is expressing itself in this field through groups of banks, tied together through a holding company. In defending group banking before the convention of the American Bankers Association, Trevor O. Hammond, vice president, National Bank of Montana, of Helena, whose bank has been absorbed by a large Northwestern group, said:

"If the banking industry in the United States is to anticipate the needs of modern business, in the direction of the possible expansion and betterment of that business, it seems inevitable that some plan more far-reaching and more sensitive to the demands and possible development of the world markets must be devised.

"If the United States is to be the world's banker some means must be devised of drawing on the general credit of the whole country for those loans. If we limit this business to the resources of the banks of the few larger coast cities, they will be far less able to accomplish the business of the world banker than they would if they had access to the great credit resources of the whole nation. That access cannot be had, or rather be depended upon, except by tieups of the character of group or branch banking.

"If mergers, consolidations and co-operatives are the necessary and natural instrumentalities to produce and market in competition with the world, then the banking facilities of the country must be marshaled as to furnish credit for those mass operations. It is idle to say the whole nation is not interested in world markets. The price of wheat to the smallest farmer depends on the world markets and he does not get the break because the middleman is, and he —the farmer—is not, sensitive to the world demands. The factory runs one-half time for lack of knowledge of markets or lack of knowledge of some other product for which there is a market."

BANKERS IN CONFLICT

As usual, there is widespread difference of opinion among delegates to the American Bankers' Association convention concerning the new conflict between group or branch banking, on the one hand, and old fashioned unit banking, on the other. Irrespective of academic opinion, vast and profound changes are taking place in the structure and philosophy of banking, and the bank of tomorrow will be radically different from the bank of yesterday. Banks are becoming great unspecialized institutions, aiming to perform the whole circle of financial services for their customers.

In the stock market, during the spectacular summer rise in shares of leading companies a large number of securities of smaller and weaker concerns were actually declining. A bear market in some stocks took place while a bull market was going on in others. The so-called good stocks, which were the favorites in the earlier rise, have borne the brunt of the selling during the recent reaction. The current readjustment tests the sincerity of those who insisted that they were acquiring common stocks for long term investment purposes, rather than for speculative purposes.

Further Progress Made On Rail Mergers

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE railroad consolidation tangle is still far from a solution but it is believed likely that some degree of order may be brought out of the chaos in the near future. The publication of Commissioner Porter's plan, expected soon, will be one very important factor in clarifying the position of the roads even though the suggestions to be made will undoubtedly be bitterly fought by some of the lines.

The recommendation made yesterday by Assistant Director of Finance C. V. Burnside that the application of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for authority to acquire control of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway be approved by the commission greatly strengthens the position of the Van Sweringens who are working with the Baltimore and Ohio in trying to place a consolidation program into effect.

But the report to the commission by no means makes it absolutely certain that the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh will become a part of the Baltimore and Ohio system. In the first place, the Interstate Commerce Commission does not always follow such recommendations. In the second place several loopholes were left in the form of approval suggested.

Provisional Control

THE examiner proposed that the stock be held in such a manner that it can be turned over to some other road in case the Porter plan should allot the line to another system. In addition to this, all existing traffic routes over the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh are to be kept open and the road's operation and accounts are to be kept separate until the commission takes final action.

Under the plan the Baltimore and Ohio would buy the holdings of the Allegany Corporation, the investment organization being operated by the Van Sweringens to handle their securities. The purchasing road would get 43,024 shares of Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh 6 per cent non-cumulative preferred and 96,927 shares of common, or 84.82 per cent of the outstanding amount. The purchase price is to be $14,263,216.

Surprise Ruling

ENDORSEMENT of the acquisition, even in this tentative form, came as a surprise in railroad and financial circles. In handling similar cases the commission has refused to ratify consolidations in advance of the publication of its general plan. This stand was taken when the Delaware and Hudson wished to lease the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh two years ago.

This fact was brought up by the Pennsylvania and Wabash in opposing the Baltimore and Ohio's application and it is quite possible that the commission may recognize this apparent inconsistency and either reverse the examiner's recommendations or defer action to a later date.

Three-Cornered Fight

THREE different systems have claimed the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh as a prize in the consolidation scramble. In addition to the Delaware and Hudson and the Baltimore and Ohio, the New York Central has been after it, although it did not oppose the Baltimore and Ohio application.

It may be, however, that the commission has radically changed its policy since the decision of two years ago and has decided that it is necessary to take some definite step on the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh since the road's position is not being helped by the long period of uncertainty on its fate. The commission's general policy has certainly undergone a change since it was not long ago that it stated that it was unable to form a consolidation plan while the Porter plan is now awaiting publication.

U. S. Gold Supply Thought Adequate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The opinion was expressed in governmental quarters today that the gold supply of the United States was adequate for ordinary trade movements in any ordinary emergency.

This cannot be taken as warrant for unlimited speculation since soundness of the stock market might depend upon other factors than adequate gold supply.

GENERAL BAKING IMPROVING PLANTS

Expansion Plans Include $8,000,000 Expenditure; Steady Increase in Sales

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—"I see nothing but good times ahead for the United States and for the well managed industrial enterprises and those employed therein," said Frederick H. Frazier, chairman of the board of General Baking Corporation, when asked for his opinion on the business outlook.

In support of this viewpoint Mr. Frazier stated his corporation is now in the midst of a general plant modernization and rebuilding program which calls for the expenditure of eight million dollars during 1929 and 1930. The program includes the construction of five new baking units and the renovation of 12 others.

The company expended $6,000,000 for physical betterment in 1927 and 1928 and, when the current plant improvement program reaches completion all of the 50 plants, located in population centers between Boston and Tulsa, will have been entirely reconstructed.

CONFIDENT OF FUTURE

These heavy expenditures, Mr. Frazier declared, are the best evidences of the confidence of the managers and directors in his enterprise with respect to the future of American business.

"Current sales and profits are the best in the history of our company," said Mr. Frazier, "reflecting the prosperous condition of the country in general and the increasing purchasing power of its people. In a prosperous, industrious country, such as ours, it is the logical thing to look for a steady expansion in the volume of business and an upward trend in corporation earnings. These we have been witnessing this year and I see no reason why they should not continue."

LIVING STANDARD UP

A constant raising of the standards of living in all departments of American life is cited by Mr. Frazier as one of the important contributing factors to the steady expansion of the business and industry of the country. The American people, he said, are the best fed in the world, both in quantity and quality; their homes and the so-called articles of necessity are above the standards of the rest of the world. Their incomes are larger, their purchasing power tremendously greater and they are willing to spend money for the commodities they need.

"For the first 37 weeks of 1929," said Mr. Frazier, "the net earnings of General Baking Corporation were $5,903,361, after all charges and federal taxes, an increase of $1,174,968 over the corresponding period of last year. While the increase is due in large measure to the expansion of plant and equipment facilities of the company, it is gratifying to report that sales have steadily increased in sections where the business was long established."

ADVERTISING GAINS

Frederick Frazier is a strong advocate of snappy and effective newspaper advertising. General Baking Corporation's advertising appropriation will exceed $1,100,000 for 1929, the third year that the company has been in the million-dollar class of food products advertisers.

"Although our advertising expenditures run into large figures," said Mr. Frazier, "they really amount to but one-fifth of a cent on each of the 500,000,000 loaves of bread now being made annually throughout our 50 plants. Advertising expenditures and bread production increased 50 per cent since 1921, while net earnings showed a gain of 350 per cent."

The head of the General Baking Corporation estimates 80 per cent of the population as a whole and 95 per cent of the city population now depend exclusively upon the commercial baking industry for their "staff of life."

Steel Scrap Prices Pointing Downward

Iron and steel scrap prices are lower in the Youngstown district in sympathy with other adjoining markets. Heavy melting steel in the Pittsburgh district has dropped to a range of 50 to 75 cents under a month ago, when that material was bringing $18.75 to $19.15.

Occasional sales have brought $18, which appears the maximum price mills are willing to pay now.

LOAN INCREASE PUTS STOCKS ON SKIDS

Big Gain in Borrowings Starts Selling—2 to 10-Point Dips Common

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—Renewal of selling pressure in today's stock market, inspired by the tremendous increase in stock exchange member loans last month, carried U. S. Steel common and many other industrial, public utility and railroad issues to new low levels on the current decline.

Losses in most of the active issues ranged from 2 to nearly 10 points, with Commercial Solvents breaking 19½.

As in most recent sessions, the volume of trading was only moderately heavy, indicating the absence of any extensive forced liquidation. Many traders still hold to the theory that the current decline will not culminate until the volume of trading reaches record-breaking proportions on the down-side. Several efforts were made to rally the general list, but offerings invariably increased as prices rose, and the attempts were abandoned.

CALL MONEY DROPS

Except for the huge gain in loans, which aroused widespread uneasiness in view of the recent criticism of officials of the American Bankers Association and others against the volume of security borrowings, there was nothing in the day's news to explain the further liquidation. Call money renewed at 7½, dropped to 7 and thence to 6, the lowest rate in about a month, but the time money market continued firm at 9 to 9¼ per cent.

Sears, Roebuck reported September sales were nearly $7,000,000 above the same month last year. Baldwin Locomotive stockholders approved the recapitalization plan and the corporation's unfilled orders were given as $16,000,000.

U. S. Steel common, which sold as high as 226 yesterday and closed at 223, broke to 218½. General Motors sank nearly 2 points to another low level for the year at 64⅝. General Electric dropped 8¾ points and Radio sold down more than 3 points to 83⅝.

LONG LIST LOWER

A. M. Byers, Burroughs Adding Machine, American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, Johns Manville, Montgomery Ward, New York Central, Allied Chemical and Air Reduction crumbled 5 to 7 points, while Atchison, Canadian Pacific, American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, Sears, Roebuck, Dupont and American Can sold down 3 to 4 points.

Columbian Carbon was an outstanding strong spot, climbing 13½ points to a new high record at 309. Texas and Pacific and Warren Bros. also showed independent strength.

High priced shares led the downward turn in the last hour. Auburn Auto was off 21½, Commercial Solvents 20, Allied Chemical 12 and American and Foreign Power 10¾. Columbian Carbon, which had advanced 15½ to the new peak of 311, slumped to 290. Midland Steel Products preferred lost a 14¾ point gain. United States Steel got as low as 212¼ and General Motors sagged to 63⅝. The closing was weak. Sales approximated 4,200,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Wheat went sharply downward in price today, affected a good deal by the unsettling consequences of stock market weakness. As a rule, speculators took to the selling side, and trade sentiment on the whole appeared less optimistic than yesterday as to upturns in wheat values. The bulk of today's purchases of North American wheat for shipment to Europe was from Canada, although toward the last 200,000 bushels of No. 1 United States hard winter wheat was reported taken.

FUELS LEADERS ON LOCAL MARKET

Lone Star Gas in Active Demand; Blaw Knox Sags Back Under Heavier Sales

Lone Star Gas continued to lead the market in the early trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today but the initial prices showed only nominal changes from last night's final.

A large volume of Lone Star was handled in the forenoon dealing and there was a fairly large turnover in Western Public Service. This issue also retained the gain made yesterday.

The industrials were somewhat irregular. Blaw Knox slipped off fractionally at the start, but in the late market further pressure forced it back more than 2 points. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt opened at 24, the new low established yesterday. The soft tone in this issue was attributed more to technical conditions in the markets than to developments affecting the company itself. Fireproofing common opened at 29⅝ as against last night's close at 30, while the preferred was unchanged at 40. The street continues to hear favorable reports as to the company's earnings for the year. Pittsburgh Plate Glass was in good demand.

International Rustless Iron was quiet and unchanged at the start. This stock reached a new low for the move yesterday when it sold at 6¼. The high since listing was 9.

Weak Banks Will Pass To Strong

By B. C. FORBES

THE strongest and most ambitious bankers in America, who have already carried branches into foreign countries, will find ways and means of going beyond their own localities and will spread over the country.

J. P. Morgan & Co. will have just as much reason for bringing about colossal bank mergers and extending their ramifications into many states as they have had for entering the public utility, food distributing, oil, and other fields on a gigantic scale. Combinations already effected of "Morgan banks" in New York may well be a preliminary to nationwide expansion bankingwise.

Charles E. Mitchell, upbuilder of America's largest financial institution, has already established, through the National City Bank and its foreign affiliations, 100 foreign branches in 26 foreign countries and fully as many in New York City, while the National City company has, in addition, 70 foreign branches. It is hardly conceivable that he will be content to sit idly by and see holding companies formed to reach out and acquire control of key banks throughout New York City and further afield, as is now being done.

Bankers like Albert H. Wiggin of the Chase Bank, William C. Potter of the Guaranty Trust, Chellis A. Austin of the Equitable Trust, also are likely to be found bursting local boundaries and establishing organizations enabling them to supply modern, efficient banking services at many points outside of New York.

SECRETARY MELLON presumably indorsed the very significant address made yesterday before the American Bankers' Association convention by his comptroller of the currency, John W. Pole. The chief points emphasized by this high government banking official are:

Congress at its next session should instruct the Secretary of the Treasury, the governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and the Comptroller of the Currency to "report the boundaries which they would recommend Congress to set up in establishing definite branch bank areas," but that "such branch banking should not be nation-wide would be generally admitted."

These three safeguards for branch banking should be established: Stricter governmental supervision; adequate capitalization of each parent bank; vesting in the comptroller complete discretion over the establishment and removal of branches.

The failrure of between 5,000 and 6,000 country banks in the last eight years is "a serious indictment" against the existing system of banking in rural communities.

Metropolitan banks, on the other hand, "are in a prosperous condition."

Of America's 29,000 banking offices, already 6,000 (over 20 per cent) "are not, strictly speaking, unit, or independent banks."

By legalizing branch banking, "group banking would disappear and the country banks would be able to do business with strong city banks."

Finally, if branch banking be not permitted the indications are that "group banking, under the forces of economic law, may eventually displace the present system of country banks."

COMING from such a source, these statements and recommendations cannot but attract national public and political and banking attention.

Congress doubtless would prefer to do nothing calculated to facilitate the expansion of the powers and operations of giant metropolitan bankers, and would rather see the continuance of many thousands of small independent banks all over the land. But Congress cannot always thwart economic law. The choice is not between doing something and doing nothing.

Already there have been sufficient developments to demonstrate convincingly that banking can discover ways to become more than local in scope. The vital, practical question is, how can our banking statutes be best adjusted to meet, not theories, but actualities?

BRANCH banking or group banking—or both—are inevitably coming despite any man-made laws. Shall our bankers be enabled to carry out their expansion plans legally, openly, aboveboard? Or shall they and should they be obliged to attain their objective by various undercover methods?

THE eternal decree is that the fittest shall survive. In banking as in every other phase of our economic life, the strong are destined to supplant the weak.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP.)—After a steady opening, curb prices turned heavy today and quotations of numerous leaders, especially in the utility sections, slumped 2 to 9 points below the previous close. Call money renewed at 7½ per cent and then dropped to yesterday's final rate of 7, but the record-breaking total of stock exchange member loans, which on September 30 aggregated $8,549,000,000, an increase of more than $667,000,000 during last month, unsettled opinion.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Stock Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Treasury Has No Branch Bank Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The Treasury Department has no definite program regarding branch banking. Further expansion of the privilege of branch banking is expected to be authorized by the regular session of Congress which meets in December. No radical change is expected, however. Branch banking must come by steps according to opinions expressed by treasury officials.

Comptroller of the Currency Pole has said that logical expansion for branch banking would be in natural economic zones.

KONJOLA PUT HORTICULTURIST BACK ON JOB

Pittsburgh Man Unable to Work For Three Months —New Medicine Wins Fine Triumph

"Konjola put me back on the job again after illness forced me to give up working." Times without number this expression has appeared in the written or verbal indorsements of Konjola, the new and different medicine, from men and women in all walks of life.

MR. F. O. MINER

No matter how long you have suffered, no matter what medicines and treatments have failed, do not lose heart or hope for Konjola is at hand with a bed-rock foundation of accomplishments and triumphs over those stubborn cases that have defied all else tried. Every sufferer wants results and Konjola can be counted on for results. How often this is shown to be a fact by the constant stream of indorsements from men and women who found health and happiness through the use of Konjola. One of the latest to make a statement about the work of case was Mr. F. O. Miner, horticulturist and tree surgeon, 43 Mainsgate street, Ingram, Pittsburgh, who called on one of the two Konjola Men who are at the Dow Drug Stores (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and Diamond and Smithfield Streets, Pittsburgh, and made this statement:

"I make this statement because my experience with Konjola was very unusual and I want everyone to know what it did for me. For three months I was forced to give up my business as horticulturist and tree surgeon. My work requires that I be out in all kinds of weather and in my poor state of health I could take no chances. My stomach was very upset as I could not eat a meal without having gas form. Sometimes I got temporary relief but steadily my condition grew worse.

"I heard about Konjola and although I was not greatly impressed I realized that something had to be done and so, as a last resort, I decided to give Konjola a trial. This was the latter part of April. In about four weeks I could get around again and in June I returned to my work, climbing trees 30 to 65 feet high. Work became a pleasure, as the gas no longer formed, and meals were a source of pleasure. From June to the 14th of August I pruned, sprayed and doctored 15 large trees, something that would be impossible without Konjola. I carry this medicine with me at all times and shall continue taking it until I am fully, lastingly and completely relieved of my ailments. I can truly and sincerely recommend Konjola to every sufferer. It is a medicine of rare merit."

An unusual case, you ask? Not at all; the files of Konjola are filled with such amazing and sincere indorsements.

There is a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and one at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets, Pittsburgh where they are meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine. There is also a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, 5939 Penn Avenue, East Liberty.

Walter Winchell
On Broadway

The Other Side of It.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.

THE passing of the adorable Myrna Darby, 21-year-old Ziegfeld charmer, aroused most local reporters, who wrote: "Broadway couldn't get up early enough to attend her funeral." As a matter of fact, hundreds of her pals, friends and admirers frequented the death-room the day and night before, several of the girls in other shows still being confined to their own homes from the shock.

Then, too, numerous gentlemen friends, who admired Myrna, dared not risk being seen at her funeral by newspapermen and others. They are married men and you know how that is. Instead of attending the proceedings that Sunday at 2 p. m., the time scheduled, they came early in the morning, left their posies and otherwise paid their respects to one they liked so well. The girls in the "Whoopee" show pooled the coin they would have spent on flowers and turned the money over to Myrna's mother, who is penniless.

PINED FOR LOST BOY

BUT the one man Myrna grieved over and adored was the mourner who interested us most. He was the lad she loved, but who deserted her for another, and in the two years she pined for him he ignored her. That, if you asked one who knew Myrna well, was what hastened her end. The too much sunburn theory is strictly the berries. Myrna worshipped that one man and he broke her heart. When she needed him and wanted him to cheer her, he failed her. Then on that Sunday morning he came with bowed head and was ushered into the death chamber where her beautiful form was laid out in her favorite dress.

He never realized they would leave him alone with Myrna, and the remorse that swept over him, coupled with his fright of being alone there, sent him into a panic. He was carried away on the verge of hysteria.

Why he was afraid of poor Myrna then, one will never know. Gosh, you can't bruise a tombstone and, anyway, he might have known that taffy, as the saying goes, is better than epitaphy.

OLD MAMIE

THOSE historians who make a living jotting down biographies of People Who Have Lived are welcome to this tip. In the Childs' restaurant, they would have you believe, at 10 East Twenty-third street, there is an ancient known as "Old Mamie" who will tell you that she was the first Childs' waitress, having gone to work for William Childs years ago when he did his own cooking in his first restaurant.

Today she is reputed wealthy and the owner of several apartment dwelling, but she is still carrying buckwheat cakes and java—probably from force of habit.

BY WAY OF REPORT

BEFORE his show arrived on Broadway his producer, an intelligent fellow, altered it here and there until it was whipped into tip-top shape, but the embryo author was indignant about having his manuscript doctored, and hired a lawyer to stop the producer from toying with his play. The producer was pounded with threatening letters, one of which warned him that if the play opened with the producer's version a lawsuit would follow.

But the play opened and it was greeted fervently by the critics, who raved about the author's cunning and artful style and so forth. The threats of an action, of course, stopped immediately, and the author now struts about like a peacock, while the producer, who really made it a hit, is being called the luckiest showman in town for having discovered a newcomer who can write smash hits.

OH, MR. WILSTACH!

SIDNEY MUNDEN suggests that Wilstach's simile book should go a little further and include along with the Best—the Worst Similes of the Year! He offers, from the late poems and magazine stories, tame and tired ones: George Trevor: He swore like a top sergeant . . . Robert W. Chambers: His face was as gray as a dirty handkerchief . . . Frederick Palmer: Commonplace as putting vegetables in the wagon for tomorrow's city market . . . Ellis Parker Butler: Crawled in the dust like a worm . . . Eliott White Springs: Pick you like a hungry dog a bone . . . Elmer Davis: Crying like a child . . . George Trevor: Chattered like magpies . . . Punch, London: Round and round like a top . . . Zane Grey: . . . Punch, London: Round and round like a top . . . Zane Grey: Her cheeks like roses . . . Richard Connell: He bestrode the world like a Colossus . . . Vina Delmar: Terrifying like a jeer from an angry mob . . . Marion Strobel: Cunning as a snake . . . Louis Untermeyer: Lush as a long waterfall, and Gordon Trent's: As fit as a fiddle.

THEM AS HAS GITS

THE Colony, New York's most exclusive restaurant, is only about five seasons old, and probably is the most prosperous, too. It is located on Sixty-first street east of Madison avenue and the town's smartest celebrated dine there. While it isn't compulsory, the frequenters usually attire themselves in their ermines and tall millinery and the cuisine is grand. There is no floor show, no orchestra or music of any kind. The only attraction is the food, which is peddled, as we have remarked before, at so much a karat.

But what we started out to report was that it is owned by Ernest, Gene and the chef of the place, the first mentioned superintending the service at every table. Both are personable fellows, who have better manners and more charm than all of New York's night club hostesses. When they negotiated for the location, it appears, they couldn't promote the necessary $9,000 rental guarantee, so they offered a fourth interest to the landlord, which he accepted.

His first year's profit was $55,000.

NOVELETTE

JIM was one of those unfortunates who treated his friends four-square and white. His friends—believe it or not—treated him the same. No one of them could bring himself to the point of playing him dirty or digging him in the back.

So Charley—one of the aforementioned friends—ankled right up to Jim with a frank, wide open confession . . . "Jim, I—I'm terribly in love with your wife, and she feels the same way about me! Something's got to be done about it!"

"You're darn tooting something's got to be done about it!" Jim replied as gravely as a columnist. "I'll speak to Helen about it! You're the fourth guy to tell me this since Monday!"

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

Loss of His Power Hurts Rico, Who Finds New Hiding Place

CHAPTER XXXVI.

YOUNG CHIGGI was a dressed-up wop and thought he was a lot better than his father. He wouldn't even wait on a customer, but sat all day in the back of his joint reading or playing solitaire. Things were breaking good for Young Chiggi and he was thinking about selling out and going to Chicago or Detroit.

He had been in the beer and alcohol racket for over three years, first with his father, then by himself, and now with Bill Hackett, known as Chicago Red. He bought diamonds and automobiles and he kept his woman in a big apartment.

When Rico was shown into his office by one of his bartenders, he didn't even look up, but went on with his game of solitaire. The bartender went out and Rico sat down across from young Chiggi.

"Chiggi," said Rico, "I want to talk to you a minute."

Chiggi didn't look up.

"All right," he said.

"Listen," said Rico, "put them cards down. I want to talk business."

Chiggi looked up and stared at Rico.

"Say," he said, "where the hell do you get that stuff? I don't know you."

"Your old man was a pal of mine," said Rico.

"Well, Buddy," said Chiggi, that don't help you none with me, 'cause me and the old man had a split-up. He thought he was so damn wise, see, but they got him behind the bars and I'm running loose."

"Yeah?" said Rico, "well, that's a tough break for the old man. You see, your old man staked me once and I thought I'd look him up and get even. I'm pretty well heeled right now and I'm looking for a place to lay in."

Chiggi looked at Rico with interest.

"Looking for a place to lay in, hunh? Bulls after you?"

"Yeah," said Rico.

Chiggi put his cards away. Then he took out a couple of cigars and offered Rico one. They sat smoking.

"Well," said Chiggi, "maybe I can take care of you."

"That's the talk," said Rico; "got some rooms up above?"

"No," said Chiggi, "but a friend of mine's got a boarding house next door that's O. K. Now about that jack the old man staked you to, you can give it to me, 'cause he owes me plenty."

Rico said nothing, but took out his fold and counted out $150. He knew he had to buy his way in.

Rico selected his room carefully. It was on the side of the house and could not be reached from the outside as there were no porches near it. It had two doors, one opening into the front hall, one into the back hall. The doors themselves were heavy and could be barred from the inside. It was a good hideout.

Rico's plans were vague. He had plenty of money and if he went easy with it he would be able to live a year or more in comparative comfort. But Rico could not bear the thought of a year of inactivity. What would he do with himself? He had no vices. He couldn't amuse himself by getting drunk, or taking dope, or playing faro. He didn't mind losing a couple hundred dollars gambling occasionally, but you can't put in a whole year gambling. He thought if things went right that maybe he'd move on to New York, but that would be risky and one slip and he was gone. No, he didn't see much ahead of him.

Rico spent most of the day in his room, lying on the bed reading, or else going over and over in his mind the episodes leading to his rise and fall. The resentment he had been experiencing ever since he got to Hammond had grown till it had become almost an obsession. He was never in a good humor. When he was not reading or thinking about Chicago he would pace up and down his room and wait for night. He got so finally, that he could sleep 12 hours every day and this helped some.

At night he would go down to Chiggi's and play pool or shoot crap. Sometimes there would be a big poker game and he would sit in. He was known as Youngstown Louis and nobody in the place had the slightest idea who he really was.

Everything was against Rico. The very virtues that had been responsible for his rise were liabilities in his present situation. He had no outlet for his energy; the self-discipline which had marked him out from his fellows was of no use to him here; and the tenacity of purpose that had kept him at high tension while he was the Vettori gang chief had no object to expand itself on.

"I am nobody, nobody," Rico would say.

He used to wonder what had happened to the blonde he had spent old Chiggi's stake on, and was positive that if he could find her it would do him a lot of good, but she had disappeared and nobody had any idea where she had gone.

Rico tried to buy his way in. Chiggi was agreeable, but Chicago Red was not. Chicago Red had taken a dislike to Rico from the first and never missed an opportunity of bullying him. Chicago Red had left Chicago under a cloud. There was a rumor that he had got in bad with a South Side gang over there and had left to keep from getting bumped off. Red was over six feet tall and weighed about 200 pounds; he had muscles like a wrestler, a bull neck and enormous hairy hands.

Rico kept away from him as much as possible to avoid trouble. But Red seemed to take a delight in worrying Rico, probably because, despite the fact that Rico never argued with him, always let him have his way, he felt that Rico was not impressed.

One night there was a big poker game going on in Chiggi's back room. Rico was winning. About midnight Red came in and wanted to sit in, but there was no place for him.

"Louis," he said, " get the hell off that chair and let a man get in the game."

"Not a chance," said Rico.

"Listen, Dago . . ." said Red.

"Don't call me Dago," said Rico, looking hard at Red.

"Get off that chair or I'll throw you off," said Red starting toward Rico.

But Chiggi grabbed Red from behind and pulled him into the next room.

When the game broke up Chiggi came in and said to Rico:

"When you get settled up, come in the office."

After the other players had gone Rico went into Chiggi's office. Red was sitting with his feet on the desk and Chiggi was walking up and down.

"Well, Dago," said Red, "did you clean 'em?"

"Yeah," said Rico.

"Sit down, Louis," said Chiggi; "we want to talk to you."

RELIEVED AFTER LONG SUFFERING

Local Man Had Stomach Trouble Nine Years; Ten Herbs Ended Several Ills.

It stands to reason that Ten Herbs is a medicine of exceptional merit, or why should thousands of men and women of this section be using it? Why would so many be endorsing this new compound in the daily papers if it is not just as represented? If you suffer from stomach, liver, kidney or bowel disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, or nervousness, you had better take the advice of reputable people of Pittsburgh and vicinity, and use Ten Herbs, which consists of ten wonderful natural ingredients.

MR. NICHOLAS WALSH

"Ten Herbs not only relieved my indigestion, with which I had suffered for about nine years, but also made me feel better in every way," said Mr. Nicholas Walsh, 1128 Greenfield Avenue, Pittsburgh. "Before taking your medicine, food would ferment and fill me with gas, which troubled my heart. I had to keep taking physics on account of constipation, and at times I became so dizzy that I had to take hold of something to keep from falling. My nerves were troublesome, and I got very little sleep. My kidneys were not working properly, and this caused pains in my back and compelled me to arise often at night. Although I tried different kinds of medicines, I never got satisfactory results.

"I started taking Ten Herbs, and it made me feel better than I had for nine years. My appetite became normal, and food no longer fermented. I was free of gas, and my heart felt better. My liver and kidneys were put in good condition. Dizzy spells and pains in my back disappeared, and night rising was relieved. My nerves were more quiet, and my sleep became sound. Blood circulation was improved, and my whole system seemed to be given a thorough cleansing. I gained in strength and ambition. Ten Herbs helped me so much that I gladly recommend your medicine to others."

Ten Herbs is sold at all leading drug stores in Pittsburgh and throughout this entire section.

Physicians Favor Use of Cascara

Doctors who warn against the use of violent, habit-forming purgatives will tell you that cascara is one of the gentlest and most beneficial laxatives known to science. Cascarets are nothing but pure cascara, sweetened with cane sugar and flavored with licorice. You can take them any time that Nature needs a little help with the process of elimination—and never experience any discomfort, nausea or unpleasant after effects.

You can easily tell when you are suffering from faulty elimination. You feel listless, out of sorts, perhaps your tongue is coated or you have a bilious, headachy feeling. Cascarets will clear up this sluggish feeling every time and soon have your system functioning as it should. You needn't hesitate to give them to children or old folks either.

Cascarets always act, and they always act the same way; gentle but thorough. They don't stir up the stomach or upset the system, but they cleanse the entire thirty feet of bowels in one comfortable, thorough action that leaves the system sweet and clean. You'll wake up feeling like a new person; tongue uncoated, breath sweetened, eyes bright, appetite on edge, life worth living again!

Take a delicious, candy Cascaret the next time you have that sluggish feeling—or give them to the children when they are out of sorts. Full medical endorsement proves the principle of Cascarets is right.

Senate Judiciary Committee, Charged with Investigation of ALL Lobbyists Distinguished for Its Courage, Sincerity and Devotion to Public Welfare

WITHOUT a dissenting vote the United States Senate has finally adopted a resolution introduced months ago by Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, empowering and instructing its committee on the judiciary to investigate the entire field of lobbying and to inquire into the activities of all lobbyists.

Although unanimous, this action on the part of the Senate was not wholly voluntary.

It followed sensational disclosures by the Hearst newspapers concerning lobbyists.

It came in response to a demand by the Hearst newspapers that all lobbyists be investigated by the Senate.

These disclosures involved a member of the Senate, who was charged with employing a lobbyist as his clerk to assist him in the performance of his duties on the Committee of Finance in its consideration of the tariff bill.

IN demanding the investigation by the Senate of all lobbyists, the Hearst newspapers declared within the week:

"Why should the Administration at Washington and the United States Senate confine their investigation of the iniquitous activities of lobbyists to one little Mr. Shearer?

"He is not the only persistent and pernicious lobbyist who endeavors to promote the interests of his employers.

"He is not the only one, and he is not the worst one.

"Moreover, he is not the most highly compensated one.

"He is not the one who has interfered most with the public benefit.

"He is merely one who has opposed plans of the Administration and incurred the displeasure of certain Government officials.

"There are other lobbyists and worse lobbyists who have opposed the most cherished desires and hopes of the American people.

"There are lobbyists who have tried to promote public plunder.

"There are lobbyists who have consistently opposed and eventually defeated measures plainly for the public welfare.

"There are lobbyists who have represented oppressive trusts and greedy tariff barons anxious for laws to enable them to further bind and bleed the public.

"These lobbyists have not been attacked by the Administration. They have not been investigated by the Senate.

"It is time for the citizenship to insist that ALL lobbyists be investigated—those whom the Government opposes and those whom the Government condones, and those whom the Government approves and rewards with high offices."

* * *

THIS was the demand of the Hearst newspapers. And this is now the sense of the Senate of the United States.

The Caraway resolution was introduced on the 22nd of last April. But from that day until the first of October it received no attention from the Senate.

Not until the disclosures by the Hearst newspapers of the employment of a lobbyist by Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, and not until the demand of the Hearst newspapers that the activities of this lobbyist and all other lobbyists be inquired into by the Senate was the Caraway resolution called up, favorably reported and adopted by the Senate without a dissenting vote.

Clear cut as is this victory for the Hearst newspapers, voicing as they did an irresistible public sentiment, it is an even more significant victory for the coalition of progressive Democrats and Republicans who forced the adoption of the resolution, and can be counted upon to conduct an investigation that will command the confidence of the country and compel remedial legislation by the two Houses of Congress.

For the Judiciary Committee of the Senate has been charged with the conduct of this investigation.

UNDER the chairmanship of Senator Norris, of Nebraska, and with the assistance of such progressives as Senator Borah, of Idaho, and Senator Walsh, of Montana, the Judiciary Committee is distinguished today for its courage, sincerity, and unwavering devotion to the public welfare.

Administration lobbyists will get no more consideration from the Judiciary Committee than those lobbyists that have incurred the wrath of the Administration.

All lobbies and all lobbyists and all their activities will be thoroughly probed by this committee.

And when its investigation is completed and its recommendations enacted into law, the American people will have good cause to be grateful to the Judiciary Committee for ridding the Federal Government of one of the most dangerous and disgraceful pests which ever imperiled its work or blemished its character.

Hurry! Hurry! Radio Show Lasts Only 2 More Days

The Pittsburgh radio show, now in its fourth day in Duquesne Garden, naturally, is the best exhibition of the kind that has been held here, exceeding in quality and extent of displays, as well as in manifestation of public interest, all previous expositions devoted to this modern miracle. This, of course, was to be expected, inasmuch as radio engineering has developed many improvements in receiving sets, tubes and other

Yet expectation has been surpassed by the extent of the exhibits, as well as in the quality of the in- marvels that catch the eye, intrigue the ear and fascinate the senses. Visitors are surprised at the completeness of the show itself and pleased with the various preparations made to entertain them.

Among the impressions caused by a visit to the show is that the radio has become a mighty industrial and commercial factor, giving employment to many thousands of persons, and that Pittsburgh has an important part in it, distribution to wide surrounding territory being centered here. Were it not for this fact it is to be doubted that the radio show would be the wonderful spectacle that it is.

And it is a spectacle that should be seen. Like announcements on amusement handbills of old, it is both "instructive and entertaining." Educational to a high degree to the person who would keep step with advancement, it also provides pleasure, and none will regret having paid a visit.

"Hurry, hurry," again to quote the old handbill, "there are only two days left to see this big show!" Seriously, it IS a big show, and one well worth seeing.

One Word Led to Another

—By Arthur "Bugs" Baer—

ONE of America's toughest lexicographers indorses the use of enplane and deplane.

A lexicographer is a compiler of a dictionary and is often seen waiting in wait for his prey in the thought-proof room of Carnegie Library.

"Bugs" Baer

Enplane and deplane mean to get in and get out of an airplane. We use the word entrain when we take a train and ride and we say embark when we take a boat.

You could also say debike when you fall off a bicycle.

Science and progress are responsible for many mechanical words which we are forced to learn every day.

Thirty years ago we didn't know what a garage meant.

Now, we don't know what parking space means.

There have been so many industries organized recently that we require a brand new set of technical words to describe the result.

Our better class of linguists heartily indorse the word coscray when getting tossed out of a speakeasy.

The proper word for entering the hootchery is scrammed in many different ways. The man opens the door and you scramm in.

So when you are tossed out, we might say that you have been descrammed, even unto the third generation.

After you bounce three or four times, and have decided to leave the rest of the flying to Lindbergh, a cop approaches enfoot and says, "Have you been deplaned?"

You remark, "Nope," judging from the timbery taste, I think I have been denatured."

It's little words like this that make the mighty ocean and the pleasant convalescence.

Some of our more inexperienced porch drinkers and historians think that Hippocrates was so named because he carried a crate of the stuff on his hip. We are also indebted to Marconi for many new words.

When radio started we learned about the cat's whiskers and resistance coils and things. Now, when a mezzanine-soprano is sobbing her bridgework away over the purple network, we can say that she is enyowling and otherwise desquawking.

English is a language of cracked lips, anyway, and we hope they make it tougher just to teach a lesson to masters of ceremonies.

We will now go for a little blimp trip and enzeppel ourselves.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A KID has a hard time making anybody believe anything he says. Course, a lot of kids never grow up that way. But did you ever hear anybody believe a kid about washing his face or his hands or his ears? People just naturally don't want to believe that a kid will wash.

Tommie was sent to the drug store and asked for three bars of toilet soap. But he says to the druggist, "Say, don't some people use green soap?"

"Yes."

"Well, gimme the green soap."

"Well, Tommie, did your mother say green soap?"

"No."

"Well, she always uses the white soap, Tommie. I think I'd better send that."

"Yeah, she always uses white soap, but I'm going to start her off on green now, d'ye see? I want some color in it, so mom will believe me when I tell her I've washed my face!"

THE KINGDOM OF 'IF'

—By Herbert Kaufman—

THERE'S a wonderful country, the Kingdom of If,
And it lies in the Valley of Dreams.
'Neath the bluest of skies where the sun never dies,
It has gold for its oceans and streams.
There is never a storm and there's never a cloud,
And there's never a grief nor a woe,
And there's never a heart that in sorrow is bowed,
By the banks where the golden streams flow.

THERE, each home is a castle of jasper and jade,
And each man is a king of his right,
And the dower of Priam's son jewels each maid.
There's no caste, nor distinction, nor station, nor grade,
All who dwell there are equal in might,
Apollo has quickened her poets with song,
All her warriors brother with Mars,
And the fame of achievement's eternity-long
Where the sun will not die for the stars.

STILL it's no place for me, and it's no place for you,
For it lies in the Valley of Dreams,
Where nothing is real and nothing is true,
And nothing is ancient and nothing is new,
And nothing is quite what it seems.

SO we'd both best beware, lest we stray in the path
That meanders to IF from our door,
For it's hard to resist when we bend 'neath the load
Of life's burdens and feel them grow sore.

IT'S hard not to long for the castles of jade,
Not to long for the gold of her streams,
But it's HARDER to pay the full price to be paid,
When we have to come home from the journey we've made,
When we have to come back from the anguishing glade,
From the heart-breaking Valley of Dreams.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

—By O. O. McIntyre—

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Students of superstition find an absorbing topic in the beautiful Century Theater, which recently passed to wreckers, as the most ill-fated of all New York theatrical ventures. Vast fortunes have been employed to shake off its ancient hoodoo.

The Century was a triumph of artistic endeavor—the finest theater, when opened, in the world. Its first night audience was perhaps the most representative ever gathered under one roof. Celebrities came from all over the globe to see what was christened "The New Theater."

The initial production was Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" with Sothern and Marlowe in title roles. It was not, for some reason, discovered until a few moments after the curtain lifted the acoustics were faulty. A voice could scarcely be heard back of the twelfth row.

Hurried attempts were made to remedy this, and although there were slight improvements, architects shook their heads. The playhouse was doomed. It was not the first or likely the last theater unable to free itself from the shackles of a silly superstition.

Even the unimaginative began to notice the Century somehow had acquired an eerie and spooky appearance. So for years it wallowed in devastating gloom. The finest stage productions offered there flopped, yet many were moved southward and achieved astonishing runs.

Night club after night club lodged in its basement and upper floors, but were forced to quit. The intrepid Tex Guinan at the height of popularity could not stem the tide of misfortune. The location was ideal and the open spaces of the park at its doorstep enhanced its beauty. Yet——

The Century will now be graced by an imposing building to be occupied by the French government as a sort of industrial and artistic show place. Along with this announcement are signs of feverish building activities in the lower section. Central Park West is on the boom.

It sounds like a wheeze of some sort, but the most sensational dish in London this season was a fricasse of nightingale's tongues. It is to be featured in a cafe in the Fifties at $6.50 a portion.

West is the nosiest and roughest street in town, with its army of truckmen, teamsters and husky dock wallopers. Here will be found hairy chested seamen who have been around the Horn on windjammers, felt the crash of belaying pins and gone down to sea in ships. Giant Percheron horses still tug at pondrous loads with their hoofs striking fire on cobblestone. There are tramp steamers loaded for Marseilles and Cathay and prim ocean liners riding high for midnight getaways. The atmosphere is adventuresome, the voice strident and the mysterious tingle of the seven seas is pronounced. Pungent smells from fishing smacks, oil tankers and pier piles of hemp assail the nostrils. It is another world.

The last word in dinner frocks adorned an actress, just back from Paris, in a cafe this week. It is almost to the ground on one side and barely reaches the knee on the other. On the long side is a tight fitting sleeve and the short side is sleeveless. And if that isn't a clear description, I am not hired as a fashion writer, and quit shoving.

Most of us—despite sneerers—secretly nurse the Boy Scout idea that if we work hard, live clean and save our money we will some day live in a granite mansion where we can touch a topaz bell to summon the servant for a cigaret light. And then—as it happened today—we overhear a rich young wastrel whose life has been devoted to rakish idleness, order his secretary to bet $7,000 on a 6 to 1 shot and win. And we wonder!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

September's Song

SEPTEMBER'S song is tender,
September's song is sweet;
In gold and scarlet splendor
The summer's ranks retreat.

The wind-tossed willows sing us
A slumberous refrain,
September hours bring us
The slow Autumnal rain.

The garden graces wither
As mocking birds depart
And southland calls "Come hither"
To Robin's merry heart.

September's muted measures
Charm all the world to rest,
She takes the Summer's treasures
To cradle on her breast.

September, though take them,
The weary, nodding flowers,
Young April soon will wake them
In all Earth's fields and bowers.

ONCE OVERS

—By J. J. Mundy—

DO YOU feel yourself slipping in personal appearance?

You wear as good clothes as you did in the past but you are perhaps careless in their care.

It is the little things that in the aggregate spell well-groomed.

Perhaps you are not much interested in whether your hair is properly combed, your shoes spic and span, your nails immaculate, your garments well pressed as well as spotless.

Formerly you spent much time in attending to these personal details.

Now you excuse yourself as too busy.

Where is your pride?

If you are allowing yourself to become careless about your person you are probably falling down in your work.

This spirit of letting down does not stop with a matter of dress.

If you lose your pride in appearance your pride is lessened and nothing can make up for this essential to success.

When you are not properly groomed, there seems to be a don't care attitude which has more or less effect on everything you do.

Isn't that true?
